The President Wins.
Fable of Seven Faggots.
Mr. Gifford Saves Words.
Wanted, A $300 Car.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AS CONGRESS prepares for plum pudding and a rest it realizes that Mr. Hoover understands politics and Congressmen after all.

The Senate, seeing it would serve content, consented to everything the President wanted. It even forgot the terrible insult contained in the President's request:

"Please don't squander public money to advertise yourselves politically."

The President's relief measures are passed and signed. His nominees are, or will be, confirmed.

If Mr. Hoover could now get rid of the prohibition problem, with the hosting crime wave, and adjust taxes so as not to discourage employment in new enterprises, the road would be smooth.

THE RAILROAD brotherhoods are considering a merger with the American Federation of Labor, suggested by Mr. Green, head of the federation.

An old farmer, dying, called his seven sons about him, and handing each a faggot, said: "Break it." Each broke easily the short piece of wood.

The farmer tied seven faggots together, handed the bundle to each son in turn, saying "break that." They could not. Capitalists understand the meaning of that old fable. Labor seems not to understand it.

MR. GIFFORD, head of the big A. T. & T., expects, reasonably, to live in history as one that perfected the telephone system around the world, and the greatest corporation ever known.

He may be remembered as the abbreviator of the English language. At Farmingdale, N. J., the central's soft voice speaking to another operator, says "B. Y." meaning "Busy."

We may eventually have letters only for many ordinary words, the public learning to say "S." instead of "Sorry."

Saving billions of syllables every hour, the telephone would add thousands of years to the total of American life.

SIR WILLIAM MORRIS, British manufacturer, offers a car for five hundred dollars, and England thinks he has stolen a march on Henry Ford.

That depends on the car.

Someone should produce here a car, plain, rugged, to sell for $300, all cash, by mail.

MR. SLOAN, of General Motors, might do it. Workmen would buy it, instead of a bicycle, farmers would have a second car. It should have a front seat, back of that an iron box to carry tools or plough, with removable seats, speed, small gas consumption. It could be done.

ONE DAY, your best minds say:

"Russia is a failure and will soon blow up."

Next day they yell, with eyes turned toward Washington:

"Save us from Russian slave labor."

What will they say to Russian factories selling electric light bulbs for six cents each. The Woolworth stores in Britain have ordered twelve million of the bulbs, to be sold at 12 cents.

WOOLWORTH STORES and G. W. Hill, of the American Tobacco Company, know that our decimal system coinage is better than Britain's pounds, shillings and pence. In England Woolworth stores are six and twelve-cent stores, instead of our "five and ten."

Mr. Hill sells in England for six pence and a shilling, packages that would sell here for 10 and 12 cents.

Decimal coinage would save the British many millions, in cheap things, and in luxuries.

SEENDA, half savage French soldier from Senegal, who killed six, and held two thousand men at bay, because his rank of sergeant was taken from him, wrote for himself a brief epitaph, found after he killed himself:

"I am Seenda, a son of the Ivory Coast, Borouka village, a man of the cercle and officer of the day."

Cyrus the Great began his epitaph:

"I am Cyrus, oh, man."

And went on telling how great he was. He and Seenda are equal now.

THIS IS NEWS to make common sense shudder and yell.

To carry out the naval program, laid down for us by the British, in accordance with their needs and wishes, will cost Uncle Sam from one billion one hundred millions to a billion and a quarter.

It depends, says Admiral Pratt, on how many battleships we build, and whether we carry out the airplane program.

CAN YOU IMAGINE even suggesting the possibility of building more battleships, to be hidden away if war comes, or sunk by cheap enemy aircraft if sent out to fight?

Is it conceivable that any country could be stupid enough to neglect the air fleet that will decide every future war?

Airships on land and sea, submarines for enemy mercantile shipping, that will be the only program.

An old English king, after powder and bullets had come in, offered special rewards to those that should grow fine yew trees, of which bows and arrows were made. For, said he, in real war England must always depend on her archers, and their bows.

We have army and naval officers as foolish as that. This

CITY CHIEFS, PINCHOT CONFER

Gov.-elect Gifford Pinchot conferred today with Mayor Charles H. Kline and other Western Pennsylvania leaders and legislators at his suite in Hotel William Penn.

The conferences will include an informal dinner tonight with a number of those closely associated with Pinchot in his campaign, and a radio address from Station WJAS at 8:15 o'clock.

MET AT TRAIN

Pinchot was met at the train by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, generalissimo of his Western Pennsylvania primary campaign, and E. J. Sullivan, political leader of the Twenty-fifth Ward and candidate two years ago for the State Senate. P. S. Stahlnaker, his secretary, accompanied the Governor-Elect.

Asked if he had any statement to make as to the purpose of his pre-holiday trip here, particularly on the war he is waging against Augustus F. Daix, Jr., Pinchot said:

"I have nothing to add to my published statements in the matter."

MALONE CALLS

His first visitor was James F. Malone, former president of City Council, who conferred with him for a short time. A number of job-hunters waited, but failed to get interviews. Pinchot expects to see the six state senators from Allegheny County during the day, he announced, and tonight will leave for his home in Milford to spend the holidays.

Among visitors who saw the governor-elect were former Gov. John K. Tener, Senator James J. Coyne, James C. Chaplin, presi-

$1,000,000 CITY AID PLAN URGED

A million dollar plan to relieve unemployment similar to New York's $6,000,000 budget, which received $1,000,000 from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was proposed in City Council today by President John S. Herron.

Contributions are to be voluntary, with the money to be spent in add jobs on city streets, parks, bridges, public buildings and in other projects not provided for in the annual budget.

The new plan is not to conflict with any methods n being employed to aid the po and those out of work. The city treasurer would handle the fund and would make prompt payment of the nominal wages without waiting for the regular period set for city employes.

The proposal that women who are heads of families be employed in city institutions as cleaners and in making and repairing clothing for inmates of charitable institutions is part of the plan.

JUDGE T. J. FORD WILLS $170,000

An estate valued at $170,000 was disposed of today in the will of Judge Thomas J. Ford, two Sharpsburg institutions sharing with members of his family.

Judge Ford, who died December 8 at his home in Aspinwall, bequeathed $500 each to the Sharpsburg Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church and the Sharpsburg Y. M. C. A. A niece, Marie Mulholland, was given $1,000, as was Elizabeth Creegan.

The remainder of the estate was placed in trust with the Citizens Deposit and Trust Company of Sharpsburg, for his widow, Mrs. Ida K. Ford, who was named executrix. The widow is permitted to distribute one-half of the estate. At her death, the remaining one-half is to be divided into four parts and distributed equally as follows: One part to Marie Mulholland; one part to Elizabeth Creegan; one part divided equally among three stepbrothers, John, William and George Frayer and the children of his late stepsister, Mrs. Harriet Poyner, and the final part equally among the Sharpsburg Centenary church, Sharpsburg Y. M. C. A., and the Methodist Episcopal Church of Sharpsburg.

Clad in Nightie, 'Baron's' Bride Flees Hospital

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Clad only in night clothes, Mrs. Barbara Buffum Bramwell, who recently told her family and 200 wedding guests she was marrying an English baron that turned out to be plain William H. Bramwell, a clerical assistant on the S. S. Mauretania, escaped from Worcester State hospital today by jumping 18 feet from a window.

Mrs. Bramwell had been recommitted last Friday to the institution from which she had been released "on visit" in custody of her parents. Following her marriage, her husband returned to his place aboard the trans-Atlantic steamer, and she went into hiding in Boston. A state police officer, accompanied by the girl's brother and a police sergeant, entered a Boston hotel and took her back to the hospital.

This morning guards at the hospital were aroused by the screams of several women, who slept in the same ward with Mrs. Bramwell. They arrived at the ward in time to see the girl jump through the window, from which the grating had been removed. She landed safely on the ground 18 feet below and fled.

PLYMOUTH Eng., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Denying indignantly that he had ever laid claims to any titles of nobility, William Harold Bramwell, clerk on the Mauretania, said today he would leave his job as soon as possible and return to his wife at Worcester, Mass.

G.O.P. SPLIT BY ATTACK ON NORRIS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22—A Republican split of wide and significant proportions has been precipitated by the revelation that the Republican National Committee, through its executive director, Robert H. Lucas, secretly supplied funds and literature in an effort to defeat Senator George W. Norris, veteran Republican Insurgent, in the Nebraska election in November.

Perhaps it would be too much to compare the quarrel with that which preceded the split in 1912, but certainly the party has faced no such situation since that memorable break between the conservative and progressive elements in the organization.

RESIGNATION DEMANDED

The Senate has witnessed few more dramatic scenes than that on Saturday night when the veteran Nebraskan took the floor to assail his party leadership and pronounce his own philosophy of political independence.

The immediate result of the Lucas revelations and Norris' flaming speech has been to rally to the Nebraskan's standard all the progressive-minded Republicans in the Senate in a demand for Lucas' resignation, and a thorough overhauling of the party machinery. To this Lucas replied today he has no intention of quitting.

Meanwhile, Senator Nye, (Rep.), of North Dakota, chairman of the Senate Campaign Funds Committee resumed his investigation today and summoned officials of a local bank to testify regarding the note account of Lucas.

CHALLENGE ISSUED

Declaring that the "Republicanism" of Senator Norris was determined by the Republican primaries last summer, Senator Cutting (Rep.), of New Mexico, issued a statement today calling on the Republican National Committee to accept or repudiate Lucas' manifesto against Norris. He asserted:

"Mr. Lucas is not a personal issue. He is merely an employe of the National Republican Committee. The responsibilities for his actions lies higher up, considerably higher up.

"The trouble with the gentlemen Mr. Lucas represents is that they failed to remember that the Republican party does not belong to the President, the national chairman and a few dozen members of the national committee. It belongs to the Republican voters. It is not a part of Mr. Lucas' official functions to determine whether the Republican voters are right or wrong."

Congress Owes It To the People To Guard Their Rights

While senators were debating the wisdom of delegating to the President the constitutional responsibility of the Congress to control the expenditure of public money, Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, made a sad mistake in attacking Mr. Hoover's integrity.

The Senator's attack was not only unjust to Mr. Hoover but it was entirely foreign to the question before the Senate.

The only question under discussion was whether Congress, in appropriating more than $100,000,000 to expedite authorized public works, wanted to surrender its constitutional right to determine the distribution of that sum, or whether it wanted to support the President's relief program with due regard for the provisions of the Constitution, the purposes of the founders of the nation and the precedent of congressional practice.

Mr. Hoover's extraordinary proposal was that Congress, after making a specific allocation of more than $100,000,000 for authorized public works, should then nullify its own order of distribution by permitting him to interchange these appropriations as he saw fit.

Had Senator McKellar confined his argument to opposing this unwise concentration of power in the hands of the executive he would have been on sound constitutional grounds, and in accord with established American ideas and practices.

Every abandonment of popular rights to increase the power of the executive is a step toward autocracy which the fathers of the nation did their best to prevent.

Moreover, every step towards autocracy and despotism is a step toward the social and political revolution which must in the light of history eventually depose despotism.

The truest popular government in the world today is the American system of representative democracy founded by the fathers.

There is danger in departing from it. There is risk as well as injustice in every surrender of popular rights.

If Congress has not pride enough to protect its own rights, it should have patriotism enough to protect the rights of the people.

MOONEY PROBE PLEA REFUSED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The Law Enforcement Commission does not intend to investigate the cases of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, serving life sentences in California on conviction in the San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing on July 22, 1916.

In one of the rare statements issued by the commission, Chairman Wickersham today said:

"It is beyond the province of this commission to investigate individual cases with a view to making recommendations as to their disposition, particularly in state courts, for the reason, among others, that the commission has no power to examine witnesses or redetermine facts."

The statement, however, added:

"At a meeting of the commission held November 24, 1930, some correspondence regarding the desire of certain people to have this commission consider and make some recommendations regarding the Mooney case was brought to the attention of the commission."

TELLER JAILED IN BANK THEFT

Arrested in connection with a shortage of $15,000 from the Nation Bank of America, East Ohio street, Charles Denhard, a teller, was being held in the County jail today on a charge of embezzlement, according to county detectives.

The shortage, covered by a bonding company, was discovered early last week. Denhard, who had been employed in the bank 27 years, was said to have admitted his failure to enter deposits in the books, appropriating them to his own use. He will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ira Edmundson, of Mt. Lebanon.

SEIZED IN N.Y. ON VISITING VAULT

Pistol Stolen in North Side Holdup Found on Wounded Man, First to Be Captured

By LEE CURRAN,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—The arrest and identification of two additional suspects in the Perry State Bank robbery in Pittsburgh 10 days ago was made here today.

George Hoover, alias "Big Harry," and Edward Bradford, 21, were arrested when they appeared at a local bank where Bennie Levine, wounded by New York detectives Saturday night, had a safe deposit vault.

Hoover was identified by Betty Miller, Pittsburgh girl, as the man whom she knew in Pittsburgh as Harry Lee. She said she knew Bradford under that name. They with Levine, she said, roomed in Tripoli street, North Side, prior to the Perry Bank robbery, which netted the bandits $5,000.

Lined up in police station here with 10 other men, the Miller woman was said to have unhesitantly picked out Hoover and Bradford. The former is 24 and the latter is 21.

DEPOSIT BOX EMPTY

Hoover had $280 in his possession, all in bills of small denomination. His deposit box, opened later by police, was empty. Bradford had but a dollar bill, the serial number of which corresponded with those found on Lipkobitz.

Lexine, wounded in a battle with New York detectives Saturday night, has been identified by Betty Miller, Pittsburgh girl, as one of three men who resided in Tripoli street, North Side. An automatic pistol found on Levine, who is known here as Lipkobitz, traced by the serial number, was identified as having been stolen from the bank when more than $5,000 was stolen.

Hoover and Bradford were arrested in vaults of the Chatham-Phoenix Bank in the Bowery as they sought to open a safe deposit box there. It was in this bank that Levine opened an account under the name of Schlessinger and rented a safe deposit box under the name of Levin. His correct name is said to be Lipkobitz.

The identification of Lipkobitz as Levine was made by Betty Miller, 23, North Side girl.

Murky Pall Covers City As Winter Arrives

Low-hanging clouds, combined with smoke, fog and absence of wind to spread a murky pall over Pittsburgh today that did not lift until after noon. It was the first day of winter.

Lights gleamed from windows of downtown office buildings, while auto and trolley traffic was slowed down by the darkness. The wind movement was only two miles an hour, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman reported, insufficient to dissipate the gloom.

The sun was working limited hours today, which shares with tomorrow the distinction of being the shortest of the year. On both days the orb was listed to rise at 7:42 and set at 4:55.

Cloudy weather prevails throughout the Middle West, Brotzman said. The mercury fell to 25 at 9 o'clock last night, the minimum for the last 24 hours. It had risen to around 30 this afternoon. A minimum of between 20 and 25 was predicted for tonight.

HOOVER URGED TO AVERT EXTRA SESSION ON COURT

STATEMENT ASKED BY G.O.P.

President Advised to State Formally He Will Not Call Special Meeting

By FRASER EDWARDS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—President Hoover will be urged by Republican leaders in Congress to announce formally that he will not call a special session of the Senate in the spring in an effort to jam through the League Court.

This decision was reached when Republican leaders agreed that a public statement from the President himself was necessary to clear up the situation in the Senate, which threatens to force an extra session of Congress.

RANK UNSATISFIED

While Republican leaders were satisfied with the informal assurances given by a White House secretary yesterday that the President does not at this time contemplate calling a special Senate session to consider the League Court, the rank and file was not satisfied by this method.

Even some of the Republican leaders in the Senate had the impression that Mr. Hoover did not intend to submit the League Court to the Senate at this session, yet such was the case after an eleventh-hour decision at the White House.

Thus, Republican leaders wish to have a formal declaration in order to assure the foes of the League Court, who have threatened to bring about an extra session of the entire Congress if the President contemplates calling a special session of the Senate for the purpose of considering the League Court.

CAN FORCE SESSION

That the opponents of the foreign court can force an extra session of the Congress is conceded. This can be done by the simple means of delaying the enactment of a single departmental appropriation bill, which would make it necessary for the President to call an extra session of the Congress.

Once the Congress is called into session the road will be opened for all sorts of legislative proposals in a Congress hostile to the President. In this situation the League Court probably would find very rough sledding.

In full accord with the President's desire to prevent an extra session, Republican leaders believe that a direct public declaration by the Executive on his League Court intentions will strengthen them materially in heading off present tendencies toward an extra session.

FOES STRENGTHENED

So far as the foes of the League Court are concerned, they do not fear a special session of the Senate to consider the League Court alone. With each passing day they are more firmly convinced that public sentiment is opposed to the League Court and that the Senate in the end will reject the protocols.

At the same time there are a number of Senators in both parties opposed to the League Court who believe that an extra session of the Congress is necessary, and they are working to that end.

These Senators, however, are bitterly opposed to a special session of the Senate alone for the single purpose of considering the League Court, and unless some definite assurance is given by President Hoover, they have it in their power to force an extra session of the Congress.

In view of this situation, the leaders believe that it is up to Mr. Hoover to make a formal announcement of his intentions and thus avert one of the major threats of an extra session of Congress.

HOLIDAY MAIL RUSH AT PEAK

The flood of outgoing cards, letters and parcels was at its height, postal officials asserted, but the volume of incoming mail will not reach the crest before tomorrow night.

Acting Postmaster W. A. Kenyon said 1,400 extra men were employed at the different mailing rooms. These jobs were held open for unemployed men with dependents, but only 1,100 applied and it was necessary to engage 300 others.

All city carriers reported for duty at 4 a. m. instead of 6 a. m. today to sort mail. Collectors were making hourly trips to downtown mail boxes throughout the day.

In the downtown postoffice, Smithfield street, the corridors were jammed all day. There was a large force of clerks at desks, selling stamps and weighing parcel post packages. Air mail was heavy, including Christmas cards and other first class mail.

The army of mail employes will bend every effort to clear the mailing rooms by Wednesday night. No deliveries will be made Christmas Day.

Drys Seek to Curb Mexico Broadcast

BOSTON, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—"Dry" advocates today were endeavoring to invoke some law to silence a powerful radio broadcasting station just over the border in Mexico, which nightly fills the air with caustic remarks on prohibition and offers prizes of cases of liquor for telegrams and letters on its program.

According to Boston radio listeners, Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, formerly of Massachusetts, who went to Florida after the "baby Volstead act" was repealed, was often the victim of butts from the announcer.

COLLEGE HEAD HITS DRY ACT

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Dr Ernest Martin Hopkins, president of Dartmouth College, in his first public statement on the prohibition question, today declared his opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment.

He outlined his attitude in a letter to the National Temperance Council, composed of the principal officers of national temperance organizations, in reply to a request from the council for a statement of his views. In it, he said:

"I do not see how individuals or organizations whose solicitude is for building up a spirit of temperance can continue either to believe in or to support the theory or the practice of the Eighteenth Amendment as defined in current legislation."

He previously has refrained from making any public statement of his opinion in the belief that to do so would create misundestanding in regard to the attitude of the college and because he felt that practice might eventually show prohibition to be conducive to temperance.

Hoovers Attend Christmas Services in Cathedral

By VIOLET EMPEY.
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—President and Mrs. Hoover, with their son, Allan, yesterday attended Christmas services at Washington Cathedral on Mt. St. Alban.

Quite in contrast to their usual devotions at small Quaker churches in and around Washington, the President and Mrs. Hoover accepted the invitation of Bishop Freeman to attend the 11 o'clock service.

The President was welcomed at the doors by the Rev. Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon of the cathedral. The tiny Bethlehem chapel was filled to capacity. The chapel contains the tombs of Woodrow Wilson, Admiral George Dewey and others. The presidential party was seated at the front.

Bishop Freeman's sermon was entirely spiritual in nature, dealing with the Christmas season and its significance.

The President and Mrs. Hoover's visit to the cathedral was the first since Mrs. Hoover accepted the honorary chairmanship of the cathedral's national women's committee.

Two hundred coveted cards were being delivered today among debutantes and young bachelors of Washington, inviting them to Allan Hoover's Christmas dance at the executive mansion, December 30.

The same dance orchestra which last year played in the stead of the Marine Band for the first time at a White House function in many many years, has been engaged for the occasion.

DRY QUIZ NEARS FINAL DECISION ON REPORT

Wickersham Board to Ignore Clark Ruling; Verdict To Reach Hoover Jan. 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Members of the law enforcement commission expect the next few days will bring a decision on what will be written into their prohibition report.

The members, while confident they can get t : rec ~mendations before the President about January 1, have not yet, according to authoritative word, reached agreement upon the principal points.

The commission apparently has decided to disregard entirely the Clark decision holding invalid the Eighteenth Amendment. There had been suggestions that since the decision had been placed before the Supreme Court by direct appeal filed last Saturday, the commission might hold up its recommendations.

FULL MEMBERSHIP

As the group reassembled today it had for the first time its full membership of 11. Judge William S. Kenyon had been held out of the city by court sessions for the past three weeks.

There was a strong expectation that the commission report would be unanimous. Some time ago it developed the members planned to append supplementary explanations of their individual positions, and today it appeared hopes were entertained that all differences of opinion could be covered by these.

NEW ATTACK

A new attack on the Clark decision came yesterday from Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, who issued a statement asserting the New Jersey Federal judge left it to be plainly inferred by the language of his decision that he expected his opinion to be reversed. He said:

"Briefly stated, Judge Clark's opinoin seems to hold the Eighteenth Amendment invalid because he prefers the convention method of amending the Constitution when delegation of power to the federal government is involved, because arguments offered in vain before the Supreme Court of the United States make an appeal to him which they did not make to that court which rejected them."

The appeal filed with the Supreme Court last Saturday did not present arguments against the Clark decision. Solicitor General Thacher contended himself with stating the exceptions upon which the matter was brought for review, leaving development of the case for a later time.

It was hoped that court would set the case down for hearing the week of January 19.

RELIEF FIGHT TO CONTINUE

By ARTHUR HACHTEN.
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Congress has just begun its fight with President Hoover over the adequacy of the emergency relief program.

Although Senate and House were in recess today for a two-weeks' Christmas holiday, Progressive Republicans and Democrats were busy formulating a relief program, which they consider necessary to meet the situation.

The leaders of the movement for broader federal relief do not believe the federal government adopted by Congress will be adequate to meet the unemployment situation in the country. They believe the Federal government should go beyond the $45,000,000 drought relief and $116,000,000 emergency building program to relieve suffering during the winter.

With administration leaders in Congress announcing no further emergency relief legislation is contemplated, Senator La Follette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, and Walsh (Dem.), of Massachusetts, have sent questionnaires to public officials throughout the country, asking for data as to distress and relief needed.

Closed N. Y. Bank Payments Begun

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The task of paying loans to 5,500 depositors of the closed Bank of United States began today at six of its branches. Extra police guards were posted. The loans are being made by banks affiliated with the Clearing House Association, which had offered to loan depositors up to 50 per cent of their deposits, and 5,500 persons filed application.

PHILADELPHIA BANK CLOSES

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The Bankers Trust Company of Philadelphia, one of the prominent institutions of the city, with assets of $55,000,000, was closed today by the state secretary of banking.

A "steady seepage" of deposits due to withdrawals in the last few days was given as the reason for the state's action by Samuel H. Barker, president.

MIAMI BANK CLOSED

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The City National Bank, second largest financial institution of Miami, will not open its doors today under instructions of the Board of Directors, which adopted a resolution to that effect at midnight.

The board declared heavy withdrawals "due to malicious rumors" concerning the bank's condition were responsible for the decision.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 22.—(AP.)—The First Bank and Trust Company at Attica closed voluntarily today. Luther Symons, state bank commissioner, who reported the closing here, said the depositors would be paid in full.

2 Clarksburg Banks To Pay Off Again

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Depositors of the closed Clarksburg Trust Company and Farmers Bank here will receive New Year's gifts of $120,000 in dividend checks, C. F. Lawhead, state receiver for the institutions, announced today. A dividend of 10 per cent will be paid for the Farmers Bank and 5 per cent for the Clarksburg Trust Company, making a total of 40 and 30 per cent, respectively, paid thus far.

Coolidge Deems Pilgrims Our Spiritual Ancestors

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 22.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

For many years December 21 or 22 has been celebrated as forefather's day by the New England societies which exist in many parts of the union, in memory of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock in 1620. The universal appeal which those immortals forever make to mankind lies in the revelation of what a little band of people bent on following the truth according to their own consciences can do. They are the eternal representatives of our country. We or our ancestors all came here on some kind of a Mayflower. We are children who have made new homes in some kind of a foreign wilderness. The Pilgrims are the spiritual ancestors of us all, whatever is our race or creed. We cannot escape the feeling at times that we are sojourners in a strange land which would be intolerable if we did not receive guidance and consolation from a power not ourselves.

Calvin Coolidge

Yet the difference between 1620 and 1930 is immeasurable. The weakest of us have the protection of an irresistible government and the support of a boundless charity. Our humility now requires cultivation.

DIVORCE LAW FRAMERS ASSAILED

Women Lawyers' President Urges Broad Statutes; Opposes Universal Code

Herewith is an interview with Mrs. Olive Stott Gabriel, of New York, president of the American Association of Women Lawyers, the seventh of the series in an unusual discussion of the divorce laws. It presents her views, based on the experience of many years practice of law, with the ultimate knowledge of life unfolded to her.

By MRS. OLIVE STOTT GABRIEL.

Our divorce laws are far from comprehensive enough. I wonder if the men who framed our present laws on divorce were married. It doesn't seem possible. And certainly they didn't discuss the proposed legislation with women who are married.

It is my belief the divorce laws should be broader—much broader. And what is good law in one place might not be any good at all in another.

MRS. GABRIEL

Most certainly I do not personally believe in trying to secure a universal divorce law. The things that go to make life intolerable in one place might have no weight at all in another.

Women lawyers are keenly interested in this subject. As a matter of fact, I have just offered a prize which will be announced in the next journal issued by the Women Lawyers' Association for the best article on divorce laws, written by a woman lawyer this year.

OPPOSES SEPARATION

New York state tries to correct the evils of unhappy or unsuccessful marriages by a separation decree. That is, of itself, ridiculous. By what right did the legislators condemn a man or woman to single blessedness solely because they made a bad bargain one time in their life?

The existing law, too, is so tricky any shrewd person can find ways to circumvent it. Let me give you a specific example.

A woman marries a widower with four children. She rears them. That takes so much time she cannot have a child of her own. While she is thus engaged, the man goes ahead and becomes rich. He gives the woman a fine home, a chauffeur, maids, charge accounts—and pays the bills promptly. He never gives her one dollar for her very own.

KEEPS WITHIN LAW

Finally, hetires of her. He just calmly picks up and walks out. But he keeps within the law. He maintains the home. He sets the table. He doesn't seek to discharge any of the servants. He pays the bills. But he is gone. Where? The woman doesn't know.

The children—his children continue to live in the house. The bills are paid through the eldest son. He is disbursing agent for the man. That woman is dependent on these step-children for carfare. Yet she has a magnificent home. What can she do about it?

The courts may give her a separation. Then again, they may not. Will it be possible to prove desertion when there is every physical evidence to refute the claim? Law seems to be broadened, in my opinion, to cover that situation adequately.

LESS OF TWO EVILS

Of course there are those who say divorce is iniquitous. Maybe. But it is far the less of two evils. Make it possible for the men and the women who are imposed upon; who know, in their hearts, their partners are philandering in spirit, if not in fact, to secure the freedom they willingly surrender when they married, and it is my belief there will be a restraint placed on society that will be for its good.

Those who see a breaking down of the social order through promiscuous divorce, see only one side of things. To me, it seems as though society was being more grievously threatened by the attempt to shackle men and women through inadequate divorce laws.

URGES EASY DISSOLUTION

When a man and woman enter a contract of marriage it should be good only so long as the spirit which prompted them to make it prevails. When the desire to be man and wife vanishes, the contract has lost its value. It should be a matter of no difficulty or importance to have it declared null and void.

SHEPARD DEATH JURY STILL DEADLOCKED AFTER 3 DAYS

ARMY MAJOR WAITS FATE IN COURT

Disappointed by Lengthy Deliberation Over Guilt In Wife's Sudden Death

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Maj. Charles A. Shepard, who said he had planned to return to duty in the Army Medical Corps at Denver today, was detained here as a Federal Court jury continued deliberation of his fate on a charge of wife murder.

He had professed belief he would be acquitted speedily.

Expressing disappointment when the jury completed its second day without reaching a verdict, the 39-year-old officer revealed he had arranged to leave Kansas City last night for Fitzsimmons Hospital in Denver.

Meanwhile, Miss Grace Brandon, pretty 24-year-old government witness and alleged motive for the fatal poisoning of Mrs. Zenana Shepard at Fort Riley, Kan., June 15, 1929, was to report this morning for resumption of her duties as a stenographer at Brooks Field, Tex.

The jurors, showing the strain of their responsibility, retired at 7 o'clock last night without revealing the trend of the balloting. They received the case at 2:56 p. m. Saturday, after a trial lasting almost three weeks, in which approximately 100 witnesses testified.

The assignment of Maj. Shepard in the fall of 1928 to the flight surgery school of Brooks Field, near San Antonio, Tex., started a chain of events which the government asserted led the Army tuberculosis specialist into a love affair which caused him to kill his wife.

VOLCANO DEAD GROWS TO 700

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Death and disaster from molten masses of lava and a rain of volcanic cinders on the island of Sumatra assumed staggering proportions as Mount Merapi continued its destructive discharge, with Singapore advices today estimating that 700 persons had been killed since the eruption began four days ago.

Eight more villages on Merapi's smoking slopes became immersed in molten lava sand as the eruption gave no sign of abating, and many other villages are now in immediate danger.

The population in that section of the Dutch East Indies is terror-stricken, with all those living anywhere near the mountain in flight. Scores of natives killed themselves rather than desert their homes.

Previous to the violent volcanic activity, Merapi's crater had been inactive for 80 years. Two German scientists were killed by the sudden eruption as they were testing heat emanations.

Weather Conditions.

There is a disturbance off the Florida Coast, producing heavy rain over Southern and Central Florida, and another disturbance near Hudson Bay extends southward into the Central Mississippi Valley. The skies are overcast over most of the eastern half of the country, but there is no precipitation in the northern states except a little snow in Wisconsin and Eastern Iowa. Temperature changes were slight. While the temperatures are quite near the seasonal normal over the northern states, and the Canadian Northwest, there are no extremely low temperatures recorded anywhere. The plateau high persists with increased intensity. Highest barometer reported, 30.76, at Boise, Idaho.

River Conditions.

The upper rivers are frozen over. Stage at Pittsburgh is 9.9 feet; Dam No. 4, 9.4; Dam No. 6, 7.6; Dam No. 10, 8.5, and Dam No. 12, 4.0. Not much change is expected.

4 ADMIT GUILT IN FATAL FIRE

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Following the confessions of four men that they had participated in the burning of a building Saturday that brought death to two children, police today were seeking a prominent businessman who was named in the confessions as the financial banker of the arson ring.

According to the admissions of the four now held on charges of murder the building was set afire so that Harry Goldvarg, owner of a butcher shop in the building, might collect $3,800 insurance on fixtures valued at $600.

Before they could escape from the blazing building Jerome and Homer Israelson, 5 and 4 years old, were burned to death and their mother, Mrs. Dora Israelson, received burns which may prove fatal.

Goldvarg said he had considered the possible danger of the fire to the Israelson family, but his associates had assured him they would escape injury.

Stranger Settles Tax, Frees Man From Jail

Andrew Minyhert, 45, Neville Island truck gardener, walked from the jail a free man today after Harry Sable, downtown butcher, had paid $11 in taxes and costs so Minyhert wouldn't have to remain in a cell over Christmas.

Sable read in a newspaper the plight of Minyhert, jailed October 4 for non-payment of $7.91 taxes due the borough of Coraopolis.

When Sable appeared at the jail this morning he found an extra $4 had been added to the amount due. He paid $11.91 to free Minyhert, gave him carfare home and change to purchase Christmas postcards for his wife and two children in Budapest.

Loss in Capital Fire Held State's Fault

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The commonwealth of Pennsylvania is responsible for damage to the new state library building, caused by the fire last summer, President Judge William M. Hargest ruled today in an opinion in an amicable suit brought by the state and the contractors to determine who was liable for the loss.

ITALIAN PLANES RESUME HOP

There were originally 14 planes in the fleet.

Trade Board to Hear Highway Link Plan

Members of the West View Board of Trade will elect officers and directors tonight at a meeting in the Ridge Avenue School auditorium. The Balph avenue extension project urged by the Bellevue Board of Trade as a connecting link between the Perry highway and the Ohio River boulevard will be discussed by Park H. Martin, Bellevue engineer.

TWO MORE BANK SUSPECTS HELD

ing the Bronx district. It was reported that just after Saturday night's shooting, which sent Levine to the Fordham Hospital, a car with Ohio license plates, drove up to the house where Levine was living, but quickley departed with its three occupants.

Assistant District Attorney N. J. Driscoll, today asked for an order opening Levine's safe deposit box.

While the detectives were working on the case here, they have secreted Betty Miller in a nearby town. She was taken today from the New Yorker, where the Pittsburgh party is quartered, to forestall any attempt by Levine's friends to harm the girl.

Detective William Sullivan, today was ordered by Detective Inspector Frank Boyd in Pittsburgh to arrest Philip Crown, to whom the suit case which led to the shooting was sent from Pittsburgh. Boyd said he believed Crown may be a member of the gang.

The Miller woman today furnished police with the names of two of Levine's pals while stopping at the Tripoli street rooming house. She said they were Eddie Richards and Harry Lee.

The serial number of the automatic pistol found after the shooting here was sent to Pittsburgh, and according to Cashier Irving McKnight, of the bank, was one stolen during the robbery.

New York detectives said the correct name of the wounded man is Ben Lipkobitz. His home is said to be in Johnston avenue, Akron, O., where his mother and stepfather reside.

SEPARATE GANGS

Inspector of Detectives Frank Boyd today said he was satisfied two different gangs of bank robbers were responsible for holding up the Perry State Bank and the Manchester Savings Bank and Trust Company. In the first robbery, $5,000 was obtained and in the second, $50,000 was the total loot.

Boyd said none of the employes of the Manchester Bank had been able to identify Benny Lipkowitz, alias Levine, wounded in New York, as one of the three robbers who held up that bank last Monday. Lipkowitz has been identified as having participated in the Perry Bank robbery.

According to an official of the Manchester Savings Bank and Trust Company, seven officers and employes have made partial identification of photos of one of the bandits which raided that institution. The only positive identification was made by J. Dravo Grumpken, assistant treasurer, who was forced to unlock the vault.

Mrs. Betty Shields, believed to know members of the mob, was being detained in city detective headquarters today. Inspector Boyd said he hoped that the woman would assist police in tracing the activities of the gang.

EUROPEAN FOG HITS SHIPPING

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Blinded by fog, ships in the North and Baltic seas, along the English Channel, in the Bay of Biscay and even as far south as the Eastern Mediterranean Sea, crept slowly toward harbor today, or anchored and awaited clearer weather.

A number of collisions were reported.

At Hamburg the United States liner George Washington, anchoring 10 miles from her berth in the Elbe estuary because of the fog, was rammed and damaged slightly by the Danish motorship Malaya.

The Malaya's bow was so badly bashed in she would have sunk had not her captain, pulling her away from the American ship, beached her.

The United States Shipping Board's Hopatcong, of 6,216 tons, anchored in Istanbul Roads to await lifting of the fog, was struck by the British ship Rio Azul.

Auto-Skidding Sport Drowns Trio in Lake

ESCANABA, Mich., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Automobile "ice skidding," a new sport on the northern lakes, cost the lives yesterday of a mother and two children. A man who was driving the automobile in which they were passengers was injured. Mrs. Elmer Klassel, 32, and her children—Eugene, 13, and Betty Jane, 4—were drowned in the icy waters of Little Bay de Nocquette as the automobile of Telesphore Thompson, 26, a boarder in the Klassel home, went through the ice.

Christmas Trees Free in East End

BLASTERS STOP GAS WELL FIRE

WEWOKA, Okla., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The burning No. 2 A. B. Douglas gas well in the Wewoka field was snuffed out today with a 45-pound shot of nitro gelatin, but its wild flow of oil and gas continued to create a menace.

Two brothers, "fire-eaters" of the mid-continent oil fields, extinguished the 150-foot flame with the powerful blast after an airplane trip to Tulsa for the explosive. Attempts to "shoot out" the well failed yesterday.

M. M. Kinley and Harry Kinley, the brothers, crept to the gasser's edge under the protection of a stream of water, placed the asbestos-covered nitro on a "shelf" and exploded it by electricity.

The flame, burning since early Friday, was snapped out.

Sinclair Lewis Asks Exile For All U. S. Reformers

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—If Sinclair Lewis had his way he'd exile everybody convicted of trying to reform America.

"I would exile all reformers and all suspected of a desire to reform America," he said when he arrived here today on the way home after having received the Nobel prize for literature. He said:

"I would exile all reformers and all suspected of a desire to reform America.

"No, wait a minute, that's not right. Under that scheme I'd be exiled myself. Put it like this: All reformers and all convicted of attempting reform should be exiled.

"I am certainly no reformer, I don't want to be one but some times I'm accused of being one. They can put me on trial and they'd have a hard time proving anything against me."

Lewis was enjoying himself.

"I'm a critic, that's what I am and that's all I am. I've said some nasty things about reformers but the world is suffering from too many reformers anyway."

The red-haired self-styled critic said he was really happy to be able to be himself and take life easy after those strenuous days in Sweden.

CROWD PERIL HALTED AIR ATTACK

Plane With Shells Poised Over Castle, Danger to Many Stayed Flier's Hand

By MAJOR RAMON FRANCO.

(As told to Mabel Ellen Norton, Universal Service Staff Correspondent, by the Spanish air ace and revolutionist who escaped soil to soon the recent Spanish revolution, and, at its failure, fled to Portugal where he is now interned.)

MAFRA, Portugal, Dec. 21.—When the Spanish republic is eventually established, as undoubtedly it will be, King Alfonso must be called upon to answer for the misgovernment of Spain under his name.

He must be made to answer for his many mistakes politically and economically.

Maj. Franco

Spain under the present monarchistic regime is suffering tyrannies similar to those suffered under Ferdinand VII, the greatest of all Spanish tyrants.

Our recent attempt to overthrow the monarchy failed only because of our well-known Spanish love for doing things "tomorrow."

My job was to bombard the Royal Palace in Madrid. When I flew over it the bombs were fixed under the plane, but I changed my mind when I saw the number of civilians gathered about the building. Had I released the bombs many of them undoubtedly would have been killed.

That would have done more harm than good to the cause of republicanism in Spain. It might have been said by our enemies that in our cause we were attacking civilians.

"NOT COMMUNISTS"

I could have blown the palace to bits, but I stayed the hand which urged me to press the lever releasing the bombs.

Now our enemies are saying that Communism was behind our movement. That is untrue. We have no Communist money behind us.

On the other hand, we have felt all along that if we did not bring about our coup d'etat now, another revolution would break out with Communist backings and tendencies. This was the last thing the leaders of our revolt desired. Our aim is a purely Spanish republic; not one with a Moscow background.

Had our attempt only succeeded Alcala Zamora would now be president instead of being in prison.

FRANCO WINS PRIZE

MADRID, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Maj. Ramon Franco, Spanish aviator, now a refugee in Portugal following his abortive attempt to launch an uprising in Spain, held a share in the ticket winning the fourth prize in the Spanish lottery held here today. The prize is worth 1,000,000 pesetas (about $100,000).

The ticket was owned by a cigaret vendor in a cafe here. He sold shares in it to Maj. Franco, Maj. Reyes, another flier, and several others, including his own brother.

The original owner said he did not know how much Franco would get for his share, but that it would be "plenty."

REVOLT FLARES IN VENEZUELA

BOGOTA, Colombia, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A Venezuelan insurgent movement, predicted here for some time, is reported in Bogota newspapers to have broken out in the southwestern part of the country, but there is little expectation here of its success.

Three hundred revolutionaries, well equipped, are said in newspaper dispatches to have captured the town of La Batera, near Cucuta, Colombia, killing the civil chief and burning the city hall and public archives. Government troops, taken by surprise, were unable to defend the city.

A communique issued in San Cristobal, capital of the State of Tachira, in which La Batera is situated, says the outbreak was a bandit depredation, without revolutionary import.

The present government of Venezuela is administered by President Juan Bautista Perez. The aged former president and dictator, Gen. Juan Vicente Gomez, retains the post of secretary of war and is regarded here as the strong man in the country despite his advancing years.

The two traffic policemen known to the children as "Uncle Bill" Hunnell and "Uncle Frank" Meyers, gave 507 talks before groups averaging 183 in attendance. Hunnell and Meyers are to visit the schools again during the second semester.

Dry Agent Killed, One Shot in Raid

NEWBURN, N. C., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Asa G. Hawkins of Kinston, was shot and killed and Russel Morton, prohibition agent, was severely wounded in a whisky raid near Maysville, Jones County. Hawkins and Morton, together with two other officers, took part in the raid.

DEDICATE TREE ON NORTH SIDE

The North Side community Christmas tree, erected in Ober Park, Federal and Ohio streets, was dedicated Saturday night with a musical program under the direction of the North Side Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the tree. The music was furnished by the Newman Club Chorus, a group of 30 mixed voices.

J. J. Kassouf, secretary of the Christmas Tree Committee of the Chamber, presided in the absence of President F. E. Tenrate, of the Chamber, who has been ill for several days. The tree is made up of more than 100 small trees and is decorated with lights and mirrors.

In a Class by Themselves!

De Luxe Turkeys

—distributed by DONAHOE'S in Pittsburgh

Picked from the cream of the crop, carefully selected from the best flocks in the Northwest—raised, fed, dressed, packed and shipped according to the most approved scientific methods.

Every De Luxe Turkey comes from the colder climates, where the finest birds are raised. Cold weather drives the turkeys indoors early and the scientific feeding methods in restricted quarters give De Luxe Turkeys a plumpness and tenderness that is rare indeed. Their flavor cannot be equalled!

Make up your mind right now that you are going to have the finest Christmas turkey that you've ever tasted. Make sure that the turkey you buy is a De Luxe—it will cost but little more than an ordinary bird.

Your Christmas dinner is the one occasion on which you cannot afford to take a chance. Your best insurance against disappointment is the De Luxe trademark—the button placed only on the finest turkeys.

DE LUXE TURKEYS ARE FIT FOR A KING

—Yet a King's Ransom Could Not Buy a Better Bird

On Christmas Day when beaming, expectant faces surround your table—their realization will exceed their anticipation, if the turkey served is a De Luxe. Browned to palate-pleasing perfection, wreathed in its savory fragrance, your De Luxe turkey—plump and tender—will provide the most appetizing, taste-tempting dinner you can serve—a long-to-be-remembered delight to your guests, a source of never-ending satisfaction to yourself.

—At a Very Low Price

43c lb.

Look up the wholesale poultry quotations in your favorite newspaper; you will see the wholesale price of best quality fresh dressed turkey is 40c a pound or more, and has been for about the past week.

De Luxe Turkeys are fancy fresh birds—all freshly dressed. De Luxe Turkeys cost but little more than ordinary turkeys, but they're worth MUCH more. See them, compare them with other turkeys and then judge for yourself.

In Chicago, the very home of the De Luxe Turkey, and in New York the exclusive De Luxe Turkey dealers are charging 50c lb. for De Luxe Turkeys.

Turkeys

—Thanksgiving Dressed

39c lb.

Fine Northwestern Birds—plump young hens and toms. The quality is fine—they look like fresh Christmas dressed turkeys; will taste like fresh Christmas dressed turkeys; only an expert can tell the difference.

Turkeys were plentiful and cheap at Thanksgiving; many thousands were refrigerated and put away in anticipation of a higher price at Christmas—and the Christmas price is considerably higher.

These turkeys could very easily be sold as fresh dressed Christmas turkeys, but it has always been and always will be Donahoe's policy to sell foods for exactly what they are.

We absolutely guarantee the quality of these 39c lb. turkeys; we absolutely guarantee that they will furnish a delicious Christmas Dinner.

RECTOR PRAISES HEARST STAGE CENSOR PLAN

Proposal of Voluntary Regulation Worth Trying, Msgr. Lavelle Declares

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Msgr. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, heartily indorses William Randolph Hearst's editorial suggestion for a voluntary censorship of the stage. Msgr. Lavelle issued the following statement today:

"The stage condition concerning which Mr. Hearst writes so clearly and forcibly is certainly regrettable. The sympathy of his papers and of his own personality with those who would help ameliorate the situation is very welcome and should be fruitful.

WORTHY OF TRIAL

"The remedy he suggests is well worthy of trial. The principal trouble regarding it is that the public seems to abhor the word 'Censor.'

"It is difficult for many of us to see why. We censor milk, water, food, athletics, buildings and so many other things. That is, we test them before and not after they have had an opportunity to do harm. Self-censorship is rarely efficient, especially when we have to deal with people of varying conscience."

"But any real step is a help, and we need not lose time selecting between methods that are reasonable.

"Many of us believe that little will be accomplished until the public at large shall have come to the point of taking interest in the movement. There is very much apathy, even among people of refined taste and high principle. Some of this comes from a notion that the improvement is impossible of attainment. But there was apathy concerning dirt, health, accidents and many other evils.

USES STRONG STEPS

"Why despair of bringing about love and taste for clean lines in the drama, which is so delightful in itself and which is capable of giving so much real enlightenment? A large proportion of our people are keenly zealous for this object devoutly wished. It is advisable to have no limitation with regard to any ways and means that are legal, feasible and reasonable.

"Every one who takes an interest, practical and progressive, in eradicating objectionable features from the stage is a public benefactor, a promoter of virtue and happiness — a friend of youth, the home, the flag."

PROPOSE DELAY IN ZION MEET

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency has learned that the seventeenth Zionist congress, scheduled for February, may be postponed.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, former president of the world Zionist organization, told the political commission of the Jewish agency for Palestine there was no useful purpose for the meeting at the time set because negotiations between the Jewish agency and the British government would not likely be finished by then.

The negotiations refer to the recent British statement on Palestine regarding administration of the mandate, which stirred protests from Jews over the world.

Man Hurt as Auto Skids Into Ditch

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 22.—Umberto Selva, 38, of Blairsville, Pa., is in the Cannonsburg General Hospital, suffering with severe lacerations about the face and head received when the automobile which he was driving skidded from the roadway near Cannonsburg and crashed into a culvert.

Falls From Bridge Into River, Saved

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 22.—Joseph Miller, employed in the construction of the bridge across the Youghiogheny River here for the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railways, had a miraculous escape from death when he plunged from the framework into the river below. He was badly cut about the eye and was taken to the Connellsville State Hospital.

Venango Stocked With Cottontails

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 22.—Sixty-nine dozen cottontail rabbits were scattered about the unposted lands of Venango County on Friday and Saturday, Game Protector W. E. Clark announced. The Missouri bunnies will be prizes next year for early hunters. Two hundred fifty snowshoe rabbits, already ordered, will be similarly distributed.

Doll Lady's Shop Busiest Place Santa Has Found

Dear Little Girls:

All of us had to work yesterday but I know that we will be forgiven because these extra Sunday hours of labor meant so much for the happiness of hundreds of little girls who want their wonder doll, "Tickletoes," before Christmas.

And it is safe to say that all of my assistants will have to do six days' work in the coming three days in an effort to bring sunshine to every little girl who has earned a "Tickletoes." I have one division in my forces getting out the country orders, another taking care of the throngs of little girls who live in the city and are coming in for "Tickletoes," and still another checking the results of the little task I have asked the girls to do for me.

Santa Claus never had a busier place than my "Tickletoes" doll shop is today.

I don't want to disappoint a single child who has earned a "Tickletoes." I want every little girl to get her wonder dolly before Christmas and we are sparing no efforts to make the holidays the happiest they ever knew.

Yes, I'll have to stay on the job until after Christmas. Scores of little girls are still writing to me but the very late comers will not get their dolly until after Christmas. However, I have plenty of "Tickletoes" on hand and she's surely worth waiting for. Of course, it's much nicer to have her for Christmas, but "Tickletoes" is an all-year-round playmate and you'll always love her.

Notwithstanding the rush, if you will send in the coupon today, I'll write you a letter telling you just what you'll have to do to get "Tickletoes." Here are the names of some of the little girls who have mailed in a coupon, and they'll all get letters from me:

Jane McCarty, Eileen Foster, Dorothy Coleman, Eleanor Hookey, Nelda Gene Erman, Josephine Susin, Jane Milleman, Laura Jean Ellis, Betty Lee Campbell, Betty Sago, June Bowser, Virginia Ann Matsko, Loraine Curran, Betty Bender, Virginia Nugent, Jean Brenneman, Inez O'Donnell, Ruth Cush, Lillian McCurdy, Patty Morey, Barbara Hunt, Betty Schell, Betty Vanshura, Helen Marie Mentel, and Irene McMillan.

In closing today, I want to tell you that "Tickletoes" is the biggest, most beautiful doll you ever saw—you'll fall right in love with her. She's 20 inches tall, has a beautiful face, sparkling eyes that open and close, is unbreakable, has rubber arms and legs, cries like a real baby, and is gorgeously dressed in organdy, and, all in all, will make a wonderful playmate for you.

Merry Christmas!

AIDS SEAL SALE IN RADIO TALK

Francis A. Keating, president of Grogan Company, in a radio address over Station KDKA last night, appealed to Pittsburghers to rally to the campaign of the Christmas seal committee of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, which ends Wednesday. He said in part:

"Buy Christmas seals and bring hope to those who are looking to you for support in this tuberculosis campaign. Answer their call by buying more seals this needy year than ever before. One beauty about Christmas seals is their small cost. There are few who will miss the pennies they spend for seals.

"There is urgent need this year for continuing the investment, for making it larger rather than smaller. Unemployment, and poverty resulting from it, may bring many new recruits to swell the ranks of tuberculosis. Christmas seals are fighting your battle against this and other diseases.

"We may have sent you too many seals. If so, return those you cannot buy. But we hope that, realizing the great need, you will be generous and will include a special contribution in addition to your purchase of seals."

Chain Store Talk For Hungry Club

The economic and civic effect of the chain store was to be discussed by Albert H. Morrill, president of the National Chain Store Association, at a meeting of the Hungry Club in the Fort Pitt Hotel at noon today.

N. Y. QUIZ LINKS CONGRESSMAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(Universal)—Bank and brokerage accounts of Congressman "Christy" Sullivan, political leader of the lower East Side, are under inquiry by the Seabury investigation into magistrates' courts, it was revealed today. "Christy" is the last of the Bowery dynasty founded by "Tim" Sullivan.

While no official information was forthcoming from Chief Counsel Kresel regarding the connection of the Congressman, who is the first national official to be brought under scrutiny, it was understood his patronage of magistrates is to be studied. Congressman Sullivan's name is the most important on the list of 159 persons whose bank accounts and brokerage records have been subpenaed.

Burned as Cigaret Sets Bed Ablaze

John McGraw, 42, of 3533 Butler street, was in St. Francis Hospital today with burns suffered when his clothing caught fire from a cigaret late yesterday, police reported. Mrs. Antoinette Ornoski, the landlady, summoned firemen, who extinguished the blaze. Damage was estimated at $10.

Church Dedicated; Replaces One Burned

The Rev. John Gorzynski, pastor of St. Adelberts Catholic Church, South Side, officiated at the dedication of the $75,000 St. Hedwig's Church, Duquesne, yesterday morning. It replaces the building destroyed by fire in 1928, and has a seating capacity of 300. The Rev. L. Rokocz is pastor.

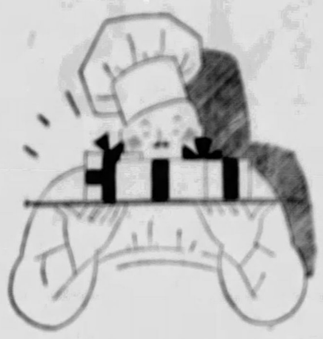
The Christmas Dinner

Our Hostess Buffet and Pastry Shop are bent on helping make this year's Christmas dinners the merry occasions they should be. They offer suggestions and personal aid to hostesses who are looking for "something different," and those who are interested in making the good old stand-bys more tasty and attractive . . . Below we list some of the services and materials these unique departments provide:



Advice in making of all kinds of Hors d'oeuvre and Canapes, and all necessary materials

Instructions in making Poinsettia Salad and other Red-and-Green Salads

Cheese colored to order, red and green for canapes

Croutons and Toast Sticks to serve with soup, made in color to order

Rolled Melba Toast and Sticks made of colored bread, to serve with salads

Tomato and Grapefruit Juice for cocktails

Cocktail Sauce for oysters on the half-shell

Italian Minestrone and other superior soups

Spiced Peaches and Pears to enhance meat courses

Cooking Sherry, Brandy and Rum (non-alcoholic)

English Plum Puddings, and those of domestic make

Novelty Christmas Cookies and Pastries

Pumpkin and Mince Pies of our own make

Flower Mint After-Dinner Candies

Red and Green Hard Candies

A table spread in the department, especially for this Christmas service, will demonstrate some of the dishes, and the advice will be given by trained and experienced dieticians.

Jewelry Always Pleases

With only two more shopping days—when every gift selection is naturally of a last-minute character—let us suggest that gifts of costume jewelry are always most acceptable.

Orvice Pearls, in a 16-inch necklace, are beautifully lustrous and always appropriate. $48.

Real Stone Pendants, on the most delicate of gold chains, may be chosen in carved jade, rose quartz, or amethyst quartz, at $25.

A Lovely Diamond Solitaire, in a white gold filigree mounting, $42.50. Another has the smart square setting, with three small "brilliants" on each side, $115.

A Ring of Intricately Carved Turquoise is a gift as "different" as anyone could wish. $12.50.

Gifts that will please almost any young woman—and gifts that are quite inexpensive.

Three-piece pajama ensembles—with peplum-trimmed jackets, flowing sashes, and bordered trousers in bold color combinations . . . or with appliqued or embroidered sprays on jackets, blouses and trousers in a variety of two-tone colorings.

...Horne's, Second Floor...

Canary Birds

Sweet-Singing Choppers

$5.00

Give a canary for Christmas . . . one of these choppers, noted for their sustained, musical song. They are all healthy, singing birds . . . the kind that will bring pleasure on Christmas and long afterwards.

Make your gift complete by choosing a bird cage and stand in colors . . . specially priced at $9.95.

Hartz Mountain Rollers, $3.95.

...Horne's, Fifth Floor...

Women's Fitted Traveling Cases

$15

The fortunate recipients of these, with intuitive feminine appreciation for nice things, will recognize the fine quality of the top-grain cowhide covering and of the dainty seven-piece toilet set in the lid.

They may be had in a choice of brown or black leather, of several colors of fittings, and of 16 or 18-inch size. They have two pockets and are lined with rayon moire.

...Horne's, Luggage Section, Third Floor...

Children's Silk Underthings

$1.25

Gifts of lovely underthings will make little girls feel "as proud as peacocks"—and they're unusually inexpensive for garments of such quality.

Combinations and slips of pure-dye crepe de chine—are all daintily lace trimmed. Combinations have French pantie or bloomer legs . . . slips have ruffled hems. In flesh and white. Sizes 2 to 12 years.

There's a New Reason This Year for Giving

Silver Fox Scarfs

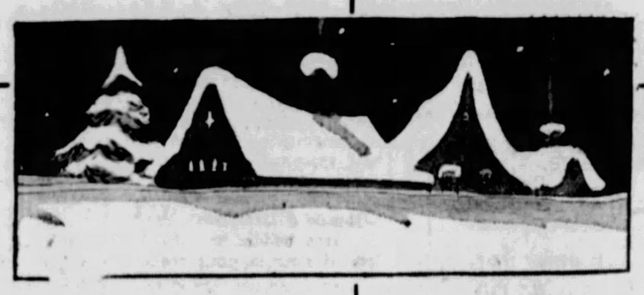
Silver fox, one of the most precious of the rare furs, is priced lower just now than it has been for years, so that a woman's longing for this luxury can be satisfied without extravagance.

$100 will buy a handsome, well-silvered scarf, and a truly fine grade need not cost more than $295.

A silver fox scarf comes next to a fine fur coat or a diamond ring in the matter of queenly gifts, and it will be much enhanced in a woman's estimation if the assurance of Horne quality goes with it.

Alaska Seal Coats, Another Christmas Special, $295

...Horne's, Second Floor...



Furniture Offers These Three Suggestions:

Imported Chair
$45.00

Hand-carved chairs, covered with beautiful needlepoint, damask or tapestry. Made in a graceful French provincial design, with a slightly curved back and extra, padded cushion. An unusually comfortable occasional chair.

Leg-o-matic Card Table Set, $29.50

Card table chairs that look like other sturdy pieces of furniture, yet fold compactly just like any card-table chair. Tables that require pressure only on one leg to open or close all four. This is one of the most practical card table sets. Table, $5.50. Chairs, $6.00 each.

Tea Wagon
$19.50

A special, low price for this useful tea cart. It has drop-leaf sides which are automatically supported when raised; a separate tray; an extra shelf; and a convenient drop handle. Choose walnut or mahogany with gumwood.

ZIONIST HEAD SPEAKS HERE

David Ben Gurion, leader of the labor organizations in Palestine and a prominent member of the Labor Zionist movement of the world, spoke last night at a public meeting in the Y. M. & W. H. A. auditorium, Bellefield avenue.

Mr. Gurion

The meeting marked the opening of the Workers Campaign in this city which is sponsored by the National Labor Committee.

Gurion heads the organized labor forces in Palestine who came to that country as pioneers, and through whose efforts the building of roads, irrigation of waste lands and the establishment of colonies have been accomplished. He is a member of the World Zionist Activities Committee, and of the Administrative Committee of the Jewish Agency.

At the mass meeting a public reception was tendered Gurion, where he was greeted by local leaders of the organization.

1,000 Reds Slain By Chinese Troops

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—In a four-day battle marked by bitter fighting, Chinese Nationalist troops in Kiangsi province killed 1,000 Communists and captured Tungkou, a Red stronghold, according to reports from Hankow in morning newspapers today.

The government troops, the reports added, rescued 500 captives.

Duke Denies Son Will Wed Dancer

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—The household of the Duke of Devonshire emphatically denied the reported engagement today of Lord Charles Cavendish, son of the Duke of Devonshire, to Adele Astaire, New York stage beauty.

SEIZE ESCAPED MANIAC

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—The yearning for a regular meal after existing 14 days in a furnished room on sandwiches and milk from a delicatessen store, caused Frank Vanderkuyen, escaped maniac from New York, to be an easy man to capture, police said today. A good meal was given him soon after he was taken to headquarters.

He and five other alleged killers escaped from New York's Matteawan Hospital for the Criminal Insane December 6. He was sent there for killing his ingenuous wife by pouring acid upon her and the court held he was not guilty but insane. He said he left the other prisoners soon after they escaped because he was "afraid they would kill him," and came here December 7.

Police received information yesterday that the fugitive was hiding in a room. They crept softly to the room and there opened it, with guns in hand. Vanderkuyen was sitting in a chair looking out of the window. When he saw the detectives he remarked:

"Oh, you have got me. I will go back, but don't beat me."

Most Hats Too Big For Einstein's Head

DE HOLGERLAND, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Prof. Einstein is leaving about cruises in tropical waters. On the way to Panama he found his black felt too heavy and borrowed a Panama. He had to try several times. The first men asked had heads larger than his.

Repairs Necessary To Save Air Line

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — (INS.) — Immediate expenditure of $10,000 for improvements on the Cheyenne municipal airport is planned as a means of keeping Cheyenne on the transcontinental air line.

LINDSEY URGES MARITAL CLINIC

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Establishment of clinics to try to reconcile couples seeking divorce, education in sex and legalization of birth control are advocated by Judge Ben B. Lindsey.

In a debate in Brooklyn last night with Dr. Henry Newman head of an ethical culture institute, the former Denver jurist defended his views on companionate marriage and urged adoption of such unions as a means to cutting the divorce rate.

Judge Lindsey said many liberals among the Episcopal clergy wanted to legalize companionate marriage.

Dr. Newman attacked the judge's views and said the way to end marriage troubles was to "train people to control themselves," eliminating jealousies.

FATHER GRIFFIN PASSES

27 YEARS

St. Mary's of the Mount Priest Noted for Work Among Children in District

The Rev. Dr. Edward Paul Griffin, V. F., 67, pastor of St. Mary's of the Mount Catholic Church and one of the best known Catholic priests in Western Pennsylvania, died in St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday morning. He was a member of the bishop's council and one of the founders of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine. He had been pastor of the hilltop parish for 27 years.

STUDIED AT ST. VINCENT

Father Griffin was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., a son of the late Edward J. and Mary Kearny Griffin, and he studied for the priesthood at St. Vincent College and Seminary, Latrobe. He was ordained at St. Vincent July 13, 1888, and was made assistant pastor of St. John the Baptist Church, Liberty avenue, the same year.

Dr. Griffin served at St. Philip's and St. James' Church, Meyersdale, Pa.; St. Joseph's, North Oakland, Pa., and St. Joseph's, New Brighton, before he was transferred to St. Mary's of the Mount, October 29, 1903. In 1891 he was appointed chaplain of St. Paul's Orphanage and Catholic chaplain at the Western Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza and served in those two positions for several years.

APPOINTED SUPERIOR

The same year he was appointed chaplain at the two institutions he became interested in the work of the Pittsburgh Apostolate and was appointed superior of that body when it was organized in 1903. He formed the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine for the teaching of catechism to children in the outlying districts in 1904 and served as head of the Confraternity for 10 years.

In 1913 Father Griffin celebrated the silver jubilee of his priesthood at St. Mary's of the Mount. He leaves three sisters, Sister Ann Grace, of the Charity order, Convent Station, N. J., Miss Agnes Griffin, of Elizabeth, N. J., and Mrs. Mary Angert, of North Oakland, Pa.

DRY LOBBYIST LOSES SUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—(Universal.)—After a two weeks' trial in the United States District Court at San Francisco, the jury Saturday rendered a verdict for the defendant, the Examiner Printing Company, in the libel suit of Edwin C. Dinwiddie against the San Francisco Examiner.

The plaintiff, Dinwiddie, is the former national legislative superintendent at Washington of the Anti-Saloon League of America and is now legislative superintendent of the National Temperance Bureau, with headquarters in the national capital.

The subject of the libel suit was an article published by the San Francisco Examiner and other Hearst newspapers in 1927, charging that Dinwiddie while legislative superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League at Washington, had sanctioned and approved the misuse and misappropriation of $10,000 of United States government funds in connection with the holding of the Fifteenth International Congress on alcoholism.

In his opening statement to the jury, John Francis Neylan, chief counsel for the San Francisco Examiner, stated that the newspaper would stand on the sole ground of the truth of the charge, and would prove that the money was misused and misappropriated with the personal knowledge, approval and connivance of Dindwiddie.

Henry F. Glensor, chief counsel for Dinwiddie, declared the charge false and asked for $100,000 compensatory damages and $100,000 punitive damages.

After two weeks of the taking of evidence, Neylan in his address to the jury argued that the defense had proved conclusively and in detail the misuse and misappropriation of the $10,000.

He declared that $5,425 had been paid to an ardent prohibitionist editor of Clifton, Forge, Va., who had rendered no service.

He declared that $1,924 had been paid to the private secretary of Dinwiddie for no service except the writing of her own and three other pay checks each month.

The case was delivered to the jury at 12:30 and three hours later the 12 men filed back into the courtroom with a verdict for the defense.

Bellevue Purchases Site for Athletics

Bellevue Council has purchased property at the Bellevue end of the new Jack's Run Bridge of the Ohio River boulevard to be used as a community athletic field for $33,100. A contract for grading the field has been let to the Harrison Construction Company at its bid of $10,640. The voters authorized a $50,000 bond issue for the project at the November election.

Pageant Arranged For Bible School

A Christmas pageant and social hour will be held tomorrow night in the Ben Avon Presbyterian Church for members of the Sunday School, their parents and friends. Mrs. Dale Mason is chairman of the general committee.

U. S. AIDS NEGRO EDUCATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Formation of a national advisory committee on the education of Negroes was announced by Secretary Wilbur, who said the general purpose would be to consider policies to meet needs of the race.

Dr. William John Cooper, commissioner of education, and Dr. Ambrose Caliver, Negro education specialist of the office of education, will direct activities in three fields—elementary education, secondary scholastic work and preparation of teachers. The committee includes H. O. Cork, Kansas City, Mo.; H. W. Green, West Virginia State College, and W. A. Daniel, New York.

John W. Davis, chairman of the executive committee of the Conference of Negro Land-grant Colleges, will be one of the committee's counsellors.

4 Drown as Auto Plunges Into Water

BEAUMONT, Tex., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Three men and a woman drowned near Vinton, after their automobile went into a water-filled ditch. They were pinned under the car when it overturned.

They were identified as Leonard A. Lepetina and Lee V. McNaley, of Beaumont; George Deffenbach, of New York, and Elizabeth Stalford, believed to be of Beaumont.

FARMERS LEAD IN HEALTH TEST

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Health favors the American farmer in early middle life and he is less subject to the degenerative diseases than are the workers in other occupations, it was shown in a study made by the research division of the Milbank Memorial Fund.

The study was based on the physical examination of 100,000 men engaged in agriculture, professions, business and skilled trade.

The farmer's worst showing was in diseases of the teeth and gums, said the report, and after the age of 45 valvular heart lesions became prevalent. Arterial thickening and defects of vision are less common among farmers.

Workers in skilled trades were more subject to defective hearing than the other groups.

58th Anniversary Of Wedding Marked

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Stark Dean celebrated the fifty-eighth anniversary of their wedding Sunday when scores of relatives and friends gathered at the home of a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stratton for dinner. Four generations were represented by daughters and granddaughters.

Saves 3 From Fire, Then Dies With Son

KING CITY, Cal., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—After saving his wife and two young daughters from their flaming ranch house 12 miles north of here Roy Hutcherson, 42, perished in the blaze as he returned to save his 16-year-old son. Both were burned to death as he was carrying the son to safety.

W. Va. Compensation Tops $58,000,000

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Payment during the last 17 years of compensation claims totaling $58,123,142.45, as a result of 479,976 accidents, was announced by Lee Oil, state compensation commissioner. Oil's figures were contained in a report to Gov. Conley.

Norway Makes Gain In Trade Balance

CHRISTIANIA.—(AP.)—The balance of trade against Norway in the first nine months of 1930 was 874,115,000 as compared with 565,820,000 in the same period of 1929.

Baldwin's Jewels Sold in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Sale to a Fifth avenue jewelry firm of several important pieces of the famous gem collection of the late E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, including the famous Baldwin 25-carat ruby, was announced by Harry Winston, collector, who bought the collection in California recently.

The ruby is one of the world's rare gems, being of the finest pigeon blood color and exceptionally brilliant.

Shot Through Pane Injures Dancing Pair

MEDINA, N. Y., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A bullet fired through a window brought to a tragic end the dance of Helen Dunn, 24, and Walter Bryant, 25, in the latter's home. The single bullet passed through the woman's body and lodged in Bryant's body.

Both were taken to a hospital, where their conditions is critical. Police started search for a youth with whom Miss Dunn was said to have quarreled recently.

PERSHING GIVEN FREE HAND IN WAR ORDERS

Story of General's Part in France Reveals He Was Supreme Over U. S. Army

(National Service.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Before Gen. John J. Pershing went to France as leader of the American Expeditionary Forces, Newton D. Baker, then secretary of war, said he would give him only two orders: One to go and one to return.

Frederick Palmer, continuing his story of Baker's service in the War Department, revealed this fact in the January issue of the American Legion Monthly.

GIVEN FREE HAND

Palmer quoted the Secretary of War as saying:

"I said in substance to Gen. Pershing before he went away that I knew the impossibility of any military direction from Washington to the commander in the field and that I, therefore, would give him only two orders—one to go to France and the other to come home—but that in the meantime his authority would be supreme.

The author quoted Mr. Baker further:

"And then I said to him: 'If you make good the people will forgive almost any mistake. If you do not make good, they will probably hang us both on the first lamp post they can find.'"

Gen. Pershing and Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, his chief of staff, drew up the orders the A. E. F. commander was to take to France, but in these drafts there was no mention of how the American troops were to be used on the Western front.

APPROVED BY WILSON

The orders were approved by President Wilson and Baker with the following insertion:

"In military operations against the Imperial German Government you are directed to co-operate with the forces of the other countries employed against that enemy; but in so doing the underlying idea must be kept in view that the forces of the United States are a separate and distinct component of the combined forces, the identity of which must be preserved.

"This fundamental rule is subject to such minor exceptions in particular circumstances as your judgment may approve. The action is confided to you and you will exercise full discretion in determining the manner of co-operation. But until the forces of the United States are in your judgment sufficiently strong to warrant operations as an independent command, it is understood you will co-operate as a component of whatever army you may be assigned to by the French government."

This order, Mr. Palmer points out, was responsible for Gen. Pershing making his stand against brigading American troops with the Allies and insisting that the American Expeditionary Forces operate as a distinct unit. He was acting on orders from the War Department.

(Gen. Pershing's own story, "My Experiences in the World War," will appear exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph beginning January 12.)

STONE PLACED FOR SYNAGOGUE

The corner stone of the new $350,000 edifice of the Beth Shalom Congregation, Shady avenue and Beacon street, was laid yesterday afternoon. The new temple, which is under construction, will adjoin the present community house.

The program yesterday afternoon was in charge of Abe Caplan, chairman, and the principal speakers were Rabbi Goodman A. Rose and M. L. Avner, president of the congregation. Following a service in the synagogue, the corner stone was laid by Jacob Aronson, his mother, Mrs. A. Aronson, who purchased the stone, and Avner. Rabbi Rose officiated.

Burst Pipe Floods Wilkinsburg Street

An eight-inch water main which burst early today caused the paving at Wood street and Ross avenue, Wilkinsburg, to bulge up for a distance of several feet. Water company employes shut off the water before it had caused much damage. Sand was scattered over ice that formed for nearly a block.

BEGINNING Monday, January 12th, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will publish in daily installments, "My Experiences in the World War," by General John J. Pershing, Commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Forces. His account covers the entire period from his appointment by President Wilson in 1917 until the signing of the armistice in 1918 — an absorbing and revealing narrative giving actual transcripts of historic incidents and history-mking conferences. Many hitherto unpublished documents are included.

deeper, the rivers wider and the Weather Bureau will get a gold-plated goosebone.

There will be no extra session of the Senate for international muttering on the World Court and its products. The President is happy, too.

He gained a moral victory over the politicians. Knowing a politician's morals the way we do you know the score must have been 72 to 0.

Now let us get that relief money to the ultimate consumer before he becomes the ultimate.

We trust that Mr. Hoover selects reliable messengers for the distribution of the money. One of the earliest lessons we learned was to never send a cabbage leaf to a rabbit.

Commissioner Doran's habit of dropping extra-rated eggs into bonded alcohol may be a failure.

There's plenty of alkie. But the demand overlaps the supply.

And the government's quota of eggs is running short.

We have not yet tasted this latest recipe for collecting life insurance.

But they tell us the effect is devilish. You don't know whether you are intoxicated or whether you have indigestion.

It's possible under a strict interpretation of the current amendments on progress, taxes and eggs to arrest a farmer every time a hen cackles.

Now, when an established citizen, who has become attenuated while waiting for farm relief, staggers up the street, what can an officer do when the average gentleman says:

"Officer, I'm in bad shape. I've had too many eggs."

Or when a housewife scampers into a grocery store and asks for a dozen barnyard olives and gets a complete set of bungled eggs that would make a wet camel ask for an olfactory armistice?

The lady sniffs the spoiled layhorn heroes and says:

"Mister, I want to boil a meal. I don't want to cook my husband."

In case the bad eggs don't win the contest, the government also inserts a dash of garlic perfumery into the game.

The garlic is mixed with the alkie. The result is equivalent to the breath of a moose that has been eating poison ivy.

We don't like those federal recipes.

And we cannot see how the government can close all the saloons and yet insist on being the bartender.

It moves in a mysterious way its blunders to perform. You cannot blame us for being puzzled.

How can you discourage drinking by dropping five bunch into the alcohol?

Possibly, at some future date we will understand all this things/rumble. But it has us puzzled now and in case our bewilderment takes a violent form we are liable to be cashiered from the army for slapping the Statue of Liberty across the face with an egg beater.

BOY SEEKS TOY, DIES IN FIRE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Two-year-old William Despears wanted Santa Claus to bring him a mechanical toy for Christmas.

Lying in bed early this morning, William had an idea that maybe the toy already was on the Christmas tree. His parents had warned him to keep away from the tree until Christmas, but he wanted the toy so badly he determined to have a look.

So he stole downstairs, obtained a box of matches, struck one of them—and there was the toy on the tree. Enthralled by what he saw, William struck other matches and one of them set fire to the tree and flames spread throughout the room.

School Christmas Treat Balked by Chickenpox

BALTIMORE, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Santa Claus paid an advance visit at the Kernan Hospital and Industrial School for Crippled Children and found the door blocked by a chickenpox sign. His aids, 24 members of the Baltimore and Ohio Women's Club, who had arranged to sing carols to the children, were turned away. Gifts, however, were left and will be distributed Christmas. Attendants said "It will not affect the children's Christmas at all."

Father of Four Takes Own Life

READING, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Amos C. Bloch, 58, farmer and journeyman carpenter, well known in the Shartlesville region, ended his life by shooting himself in the head at his farm near that town. He leaves a widow and four children.

4 ROB THEATER, KIDNAP WOMAN

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—W. H. Wagner, theater manager, and his wife were accosted by four men here last night, two of whom kidnaped Mrs. Wagner while the other pair forced the manager to assist them in removal of $800 from the theater safe.

Mrs. Wagner was taken to the central industrial district, where she was released after the kidnaping pair had taken $5 from her pocket book. They did not seize her jewelry.

As the robbers, leaving the husband, sped from the theater in their motor car, a patrolman gave chase, but lost the trail in heavy traffic. He said he fired 10 shots at the machine.

NEWS OF HOLIDAY WEEK IN THEATERS AND HOLLYWOOD REFLECTIONS

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, by Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 22.

Succeeding S. M. Eistenstein as director of "An American Tragedy" will be Josef Von Sternberg, director of "Morocco," which is going right on making money despite the faults your correspondent saw in it.

Theodore Dreiser's novel has been pondered over more than any story belonging to Hollywood producers. It has a number of censorable angles, yet if the story were whitewashed, it would lose a great deal of it's punch.

This writer can think of no one more eminently suited to direct "An American Tragedy" than Von Sternberg. It is worth more in his line than "Morocco."

Phillips Holmes

The choice of the unfortunate hero is no less ideal. Phillips Holmes, one of the best of Hollywood's younger actors, will be assigned to the role.

Report has it that Von Sternberg starts work on the Dreiser novel in a month and a half.

LATEST GOSSIP

George Arliss arrived at the Warner Brothers studio with a black eye. He says he fell out of a berth and this department would be the last one to doubt him. . . . Mary Pickford will join Douglas Fairbanks in St. Moritz in the spring. They will return here next summer, each to make another picture. . . . Dorothy Jordan, who is to play the lead in "Young Sinners" for Fox, once was fired by this company. . . . Sylvia Sydney, who has been hailed as a new Paramount stage discovery, actually was in a Fox picture, "Through Different Eyes." She asked to be released from her contract. . . . One of the houses destroyed in the Malibu Beach fire had recently been furnished from top to bottom by the actree-wife of a comedian. . . . Although each of the geese shot by the Warner-First National hunters is said to have weighed 10 pounds with birdshot when it hit the ground, the game warden gathered the impression that everybody had missed.

AS FREE AS THE AIR

From an authoritative source, I hear that George Bancroft has not been under contract to Paramount for several weeks now.

A permanent break does not necessarily follow, however, as negotiations are in progress to tie him up in a new agreement. Of course, some other company might step in and gum things up.

George Bancroft

The actor's latest picture for Paramount was "Scandal Sheet."

After checking up on the film, "Fires of Youth," Universal assures this department that no telegraph operator pulled a fast one in the Morse code. And a good thing, too. To retake the scene would have cost the company $20,000.

STAR RETURNS

After six months absence from the screen, Mary Nolan will get the feminine lead in Universal's "The Up and Up."

The story deals with racetracks and racketeers. If the U. can get him, Robert Armstrong will play the masculine lead.

During her absence Mary Nolan was ill part of the time. She also utilized a three-month vacation clause in her contract.

Pitt Players Stage 'Broken Dishes'

The George Sharp Players in the Pitt will be seen in a comedy, "Broken Dishes," all this week, with matinees Thursday and Saturday.

"Parlor Bedroom and Bath" is the New Year's week comedy booked for the Pitt. It will introduce Lenita Lane as leading woman in that theater. Miss Lane began her professional career in stock here—with Thurston Hall, in what now is the Aldine Theater.

Bible Class Will Present Cantata

A Christmas cantata "Gwen Allen's Christmas," will be given tomorrow night by the Sabbath School of the Bellevue United Presbyterian Church in the church rooms. A white gift service will folow.

Twain

Mitzi Green and Jackie Coogan are the twain here. In Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" Mitzi is Jackie's sweetheart. This talkie comes to the Fulton and Sheridan Square Christmas Day.

MR. SHERMAN DIRECTS HIMSELF IN CROOK ACT IN HARRIS

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH.

"The Pay Off," a crook drama, is what the Harris is giving us this merry Yuletide. Lowell Sherman directed it and he acts in it.

It has to do with a gang of classily dressed crooks and a couple romantic youngsters who get mixed up with it. Mr. Sherman, suave and ritzy, dominates the affair. Hugh Trevor plays a young crook so mean that he steals money from a love-struck pair on the eve of their wedding. Marion Nixon and William Janney are the sweethearts.

The film story isn't so much.

The vaudeville portion of the bill has its bright moments. Two girls with personality and pep do some stepping. Then there are a couple fellows who wear smiles like masters of ceremonies. But all is forgiven, for they can dance. A one-man band, comedians and singers also appear.

COMEDY DOMINATES ALL YULETIDE BILLS

"Ladies of the Jury," comedy with Mrs. Fiske, opens tonight in the Nixon. There will be no Wednesday matinee performance, afternoon shows being set for Friday and Saturday.

Next week's attraction in the Nixon will be "Made in Hollywood," new comedy by Donald Davis, produced by Brock Pemberton. The seat sale opens Thursday.

Tonight in the Alvin Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" begins a Christmas week engagement. The only matinees of the week will be Friday and Saturday.

Claiborne Foster will head the company presenting "Bad Girl," next week's feature in the Alvin. Thursday marks the opening of the seat sale.

Coming

Dick Leibert, former organist in the Penn, will return to that theater, begining Friday. His engagement here was broken last spring, when he became ill. After his recovery he went to another theater. "Wild Oscar," who took his place here, will go to Buffalo.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(But which you knew all along)

That New York City never was much of a dry town. In 1633, when there were but five houses, they erected a brewery.

That a New York lawyer got $1,000 for three little words from a railroad company. They were stop, look and listen.

That an alligator's brain is smaller than a pea.

That in Arizona you must be careful of "puncture weeds" which ruin tires. They are like photograph needles.

4 FINED AFTER POLICE RAIDS

Three men were fined $50 in Central Police Court and a woman $25 as a result of police raids on four places in the downtown district early yesterday and Saturday night.

Inspector Albert Beebe, who led the raiders, and Plainclothesman John Flavin were slightly injured when they fell through a trap door while raiding the second floor at 110 Smithfield street, where Mary Brenzle, 42, was arrested as proprietress, according to police.

In Morals Court she was fined $25, and eight visitors, two of them women, were fined $2 each.

Benny Zeck, 24, arrested on the second floor of 130 Fourth avenue, was fined $50 after police testified a small quantity of moonshine was seized in the place. Others fined $50 were Tony Brick, 50, of 66 Washington street, and William Aloth, of 442 Third avenue. Moonshine was reported seized at both addresses.

Jerusalem Opens $1,000,000 Hotel

JERUSALEM, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Times have changed in this Biblical city, for the new $1,000,000 King Hotel was opened for Christmas guests with the claim that it is the most modern hostelry in all the Near East. The hotel is on a historic site. In the distance are seen the Valley of the Jordan, the Dead Sea and the hills of Moab, while nearer are the old city walls, the tomb of David and the Valley of Hinnom.

PLANE CRASHES, FOUR ESCAPE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Four persons escaped today when a six-motored Western Air Express airplane [illegible] from Salt Lake City overshot the Alhambra landing field and crashed into a nearby residence.

The giant plane and the residence, showered with gasoline, burst into flames.

Pilots Bart Cox and George Sherwood and the sole passenger, A. Osterhaut, of Wyoming, ran into the burning house and carried its occupant, A. L. Tomer, to safety.

Osterhaut suffered burns. Tomer and the pilots were unhurt.

SOLDIER SLAIN, WIFE JAILED

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—George H. Hilsinger, 45, warrant officer in the quartermaster corps at Fort Worden, is dead as a result of a shooting in connection with which his wife is held.

Officials said Mrs. Hilsinger killed her husband when he upbraided her yesterday after finding their entertaining three friends in their quarters.

The guests, Homer Cameron, laborer; H. W. Stewart, a soldier, and Shirley Swafford of Quilcene were released on bond, for appearance at an inquest today.

That some people really believe they won't cry while peeling onions if they hold an ordinary pin between their teeth.

That the much abused clock in the Paramount Building tower has kept correct time for the past 63 days.

That Y. M. C. A. was started by George Williams in 1844, because the morning conditions in his town were so pediculous.

That the "silk-stocking district" in New York is so-called because it was laid out to include wealthy sections of the city belonging to the Republicans, but, curiously enough, it resembles a stocking.

That one New York newspaper uses up at least 2,000 acres of a forest annually. (I ran make funny faces, too!)

That eminent doctors argue that if you live to 32 you may expect to live 35 years longer—a woman 36.

That Lloyd George is said to have the largest vocabulary in the world—125,000 words. Roosevelt knew 100,000, they say.

The term "court plaster" comes from the fact that it was originally used by titled ladies for beauty patches.

That the allegedly new flip crack: "You could have knocked me over with a feather," is from Browning's "You had brained me with a feather." So there!

That Lou Little, the southpaw coach, wanted to be a dentist, until he learned that all dental equipment was made for right-handers.

That 8 per cent of the males in the U. S. are named John. 7 per cent are christened William, over 4 per cent are James, George and Charles. Other popular tags in their order are Robert, Frank, Harold, Henry, Joseph, Walter, Thomas, Arthur, Edward and Clarence (what no Emile?)

That Florence Nightingale, an English nurse, is considered the founder of modern hospital service. The soldiers were so devoted to her during the Crimean tiff that they kissed her shadow.

That Broncho Billy Anderson was really named Gilbert M. Aaronson, a Josh gentleman.

That it was Henry Clay who said: "I would rather be right than be president," after he lost three races for it. He got registed.

That bridesmaids are said to have been originally intended to protect the bride from evil spirits. They dressed in costumes identical with that of the bride so that the spirits would become confused as to which one to play tricks on. (What dopes we've all descended from!)

That the present site of New York City was discovered by an Italian sailor, Verrazani, in 1523. Never heard of him.

That the name kangaroo is supposed to have originated when the discoverer of Australia asked natives what they called the animal. They replied, "Kan-ga-roo," meaning in their language "I don't know."

That women are not yet man's equal in many states. Oklahoma, Florida, Louisiana, Alabama and Rhode Island, frixample.

That Francis Scott Key is supposed to have written the "Star Spangled Banner" on the back of an envelope. What? The 2nd verse, too?

That Lord Northcliffe, once England's greatest newspaper man, never tried to make friends, because he maintained that to be a good newspaperman you couldn't hold one. As if we didn't know.

That there never has been an established world's champion for the game of checkers. Now there's something to worry about.

That the reason your berths on trains are made up with the pillow towards the engine is to keep you from catching cold, and because you are better protected from dust and cinders—as if you are.

SOVIET PARTY EXPELS RYKOF

MOSCOW, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—The last vestige of power and influence in Soviet affairs was stripped today from Alexei I. Rykof, former president of the People's Council of Commissars, with him expelling from the politburo "political bourgeois of the party."

His complete banishment from the government which he helped to shape, followed scarcely three days after his ousting from the post of premier. G. K. Ordzhonikidze took his place in the politburo.

The elimination of Rykof from higher Soviet circles had long been forecast. His constant defiance of Josef Stalin, who gradually gained the upper hand in Soviet affairs and whose policies differed radically from those of Rykof and the latter's associates, brought Rukin quickly into a precarious political position.

'Army' Minstrel Show Wednesday

A minstrel show will be given by officers of the Salvation Army as its annual Christmas production in the Army headquarters, 427 Boulevard of the Allies, at 2 p. m. Wednesday. It has been arranged by Maj. Herbert Smith.

A feature of the show will be motion pictures and the appearance of Santa Claus, played by Sergt. Maj. Fred Clarke. More than 1,000 children are expected to attend. Each will be given presents.

Ohioan's Body Found In Burned Auto Ruin

AKRON, O., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The charred body of a man believed to be Ray Morrow, 35, of Akron, an automobile mechanic, was found in a burned automobile here today. The man was believed to have fallen asleep while smoking and set the car afire. Morrow's mother, Mrs. Dora Morrow, lives in Flemington, W. Va.

Children to Give Christmas Play

A Christmas play will be given by children of the Forest Avenue United Presbyterian Church, near Bellevue, tomorrow night in the church rooms.

REOPEN RAIL MEET TUESDAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. — (Universal.)—Officials of the New York Central Railroad, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Pennsylvania and the Chesapeake and Ohio, constituting the proposed four-trunk line system in the East, will resume their meetings tomorrow, it was learned today.

Various proposals regarding the establishment of the four-trunk line system in the East will be submitted for discussion. According to interests conversant with the legal aspects of the plan, however, it is unlikely definite proposals will be adopted at present.

It is pointed out that even in the event all of interested parties worked in harmony it would be a matter of many months before numerous legal obstacles could be surmounted. For example, the trackage involved alone would require at least six months to settle definitely.

Thus, it is hardly likely that tomorrow's meeting will bear any greater results than the numerous other conclaves held during the past five or six years. Railroad executives, however, are somewhat more friendly toward the suggestion of a four-trunk line system than they have been at any time in the past.

POWER GROUP DEFENDS P. S. C.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The opinion that Solicitor Charles A. Russell, of the Federal Power Commission, should be rebuked for his recent attack upon the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission was expressed today in a communication from the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners to the Power Commission.

John E. Benton, general solicitor for the association, condemned Russell for his reply to William D. B. Ainey, chairman of the Pennsylvania commission, in which Russell renewed an attack launched in the District of Columbia Supreme Court in connection with the state commission's attitude toward the Clarion River Power Company.

Urban Population Of U. S. Is 56.2%

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The census bureau today announced that of the 122,775,046 population of the United States, the urban population is 68,955,521, and the rural population is 53,819,525. The 1930 urban population represents 56.2 per cent of the total population. In 1920 the urban population formed but 51.4 per cent of the total.

Wounds May Trace Postoffice Bandit

The man was shot by Clarence E. Titus, driver of the truck, as he fled into the darkness.

Woman Has Perfect Sunday School Mark

HOBOKEN, N. J., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Having attended Sunday school 20 years without missing a class, Miss Blanche Little has received a gold pendant. She began going to the First Presbyterian Church at the age of 6.

A MESSAGE OF IMPORTANCE TO EVERY MOTORIST OF PITTSBURGH

NIEDRINGHAUS HAS JOINED THE BIG SWING TO U. S. TIRES

It was inevitable that we join the Big Swing to U. S. Tires that is sweeping the country. For eighteen years we have been serving Pittsburgh motorists according to our best knowledge and ability. We have always sold good tires at the lowest prices consistent with real quality. So in justice to our customers and ourselves we had to determine the fundamental reason for the constantly increasing popularity of U. S. Tires among motorists and automobile manufacturers alike. We went into it thoroughly. And we found the reason—better quality at the lowest prices in the history of rubber. With complete lines of U. S. Tires, including Royal Master, U. S. Royal (6-ply), U. S. Peerless and U. S. Heavy Service, we feel that we are in even better position than ever before to provide our thousands of customers with the tire satisfaction they have every right to expect.

E. A. Niedringhaus, President.

TIRES BY THE WORLD'S LARGEST PRODUCER OF RUBBER

We ought to know something about tires. Our repairing experience has made necessary cutting into and examining practically every brand of tire on the market. We know what is inside—under the tread. So it is with authority we say it takes quality rubber to produce quality tires. Yes, and quality cotton, too. The United States Rubber Company grows the finest rubber in the world—produces on its own plantations over four times as much rubber as all other American rubber manufacturers combined!

The cotton cords for U. S. Tires are spun in the Company's own great mills at Winnsboro, S. C. Maximum strength, flexibility and wear-resistance are constantly watched and further assured by a special process of cord treatment developed by the United States Rubber Company. In design, in tread, in body, U. S. Tires are definitely superior—longer wearing, safer and more commanding in appearance than any other tires we know of. We do not hesitate in urging our oldest customers to join THE BIG SWING TO U. S. TIRES.

NOW INSEPARABLY LINKED U. S. TIRES AND THE SERVICE YOU'VE COME TO APPRECIATE

Pittsburgh has learned to expect service of the finest quality when calling on Niedringhaus. Day and night—anytime—our fleet of 16 speedy cars can be depended on for quick efficient road service for either tires or batteries. And at our modern 1-Stop service station everything is properly taken care of under one roof—tires and tire and tube repairing, tubes and accessories, battery and electrical service and lubrication. Our inside service court easily accommodates 100 cars at one time—without waiting—under cover and off the street!

Now—with U. S. Tires—we have taken another stride—and a big one, we believe—in our progressive program of providing Pittsburgh car, truck and bus owners with comprehensive service, which is at once satisfactory and superlative.

BLUE LAW TEST ON FOOD SALE

BALTIMORE, Dec. 23.—(AP.)—Many food purchasers were to appear before a magistrate today in a blue law test of the Sunday operation of a delicatessen shop. The sale of perishable food, police said, is prohibited on Sunday.

Two uniformed officers stationed outside of a shop questioned each person who emerged with a bundle. The first was a man who had bought a small sack of flour for biscuits and a can of peaches. He was asked to appear in court. The next customer was a woman. Officers ruled by purchasing a tin of potato chips and a bottle of orange juice she had broken the law and should appear before the magistrate.

The officers did not interfere with purchasing but took names and addresses of those they believed had bought perishable goods. No charges were placed against the customers.

Canadian Canal's Traffic Decreases

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A decrease of almost 20,000,000 tons in the amount of freight which passed through the St. Mary's Falls Canal and the Canadian Canal is shown for 1930, compared with 1929, according to the annual report of Lake Commerce, issued under direction of Maj. D. McCoach, Jr., United States Army Engineers.

The tonnage for the past season totaled 72,897,752. Last year's total was 92,622,017.

New York Birds Fed by Scouts

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The birds of New York are not being overlooked in the Yuletide festivities. Boy Scout troops of Nature Study Troop 472, of the Kips Bay Boys' Club, are erecting feeding stations in parks and will keep them filled during the holidays.

Woman is Burned As Tinsel Blazes

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 22.—Mrs. J. F. Hartman, of Main street, Rouseville, is the first Christmas season accident victim. She suffered severe burns to both hands and arms as she tore flaming decorations from the mantel of her home. A short-circuited set flimsy tinsel afire.

JOHNSON SEEKS ALIEN BAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A more acceptable method of restricting immigration than the two-year suspension plan already approved by the House Immigration Committee will be sought by Chairman Johnson during the congressional recess.

The proposal has encountered opposition from administration headquarters and continued congressional leaders of the need for agreement, particularly on Philippine restriction and the effect of suspension on the national origins formula.

Secretaries Stimson, Doak and Hurley are on record against the proposal, and from some Senate quarters word has come that any Philippine exclusion bill will face a prolonged fight.

Emergency Workers To Get Yuletide Pay

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 22.—Fifty additional men are to be given employment on the city's two emergency water supply tanks and pipe lines, a $45,000 improvement designed to furnish immediate relief to jobless men. The force this week will number 120, and there will be a payday before Christmas.

EARLY UPSWING HOPED FOR BY RAIL HEADS

Expect to Find Way to Solve Difficulties, Says Association President

By W. S. COUSINS,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.

"American railroad heads are looking forward with courage to an upswing in business activity, with the hope that it will not be in the far distant future. When it comes, the railroads stand prepared to meet promptly, efficiently and economically, such increased demands for transportation as may be made."

R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railroad Association, in thus summarizing the business situation for International News Service said that while business conditions in 1930 have been far from satisfactory, and while numerous serious problems are facing industries, he is hopeful that a way will be found to solve these problems within a reasonable short time.

SERIOUS PROBLEM

Mr. Aishton continued:

"Without taking into consideration business conditions that have existed during the past year, the close of 1930 finds the railroads facing a serious problem, due to declining traffic and the resultant lowering of revenues.

"During the 30-year period ended with 1929, there was an increase annually in freight traffic of more than 7 per cent, but from 1929 to 1929, the increase was less than 1 per cent. For passenger traffic, the average annual increase was 6 per cent for the 30-year period compared with an average annual decrease of 3 per cent for the 9-year period ended in 1929."

The increase in the use if private automobiles, motor trucks and buses; the increase in transcontinental tonnage handled through the Panama Canal, and the increase in traffic handled over inland waterways were cited by Mr. Aishton as the principal reasons for the decline in growth in railroad traffic during the 29-year period ending with 1929. Other contributing factors to this decline are the pipe lines and high-powered electric lines to large consuming centers.

He said:

"Naturally this has affected the net earnings of the railways, but through increased efficiency and economy in operation, this loss has been to some extent counteracted. Eventually, however, a limit must even be reached in this.

CHANGES ASKED

"Spurred by the situation that confronts them, the railways recently adopted a policy deemed necessary to the continuance of adequate transportation service to the public, wherein the rail carriers asked:

"A respite from rate reductions and suspension by regulating bodies, both intrastate and interstate, and from action that will increase the expenses of the carriers.

"A respite from legislative efforts of either the national or the state legislatures that would adversely affect rates or increase the expenses of the carriers.

"A withdrawal of governmental competition both through direct operation of transportation facilities, as well as indirectly through subsidies.

SEEKS EQUALITY

"In taking this action the railroads only seek an equal opportunity to compete with other modern forms of transportation to handle the commerce of the nation. They are not asking for any special privileges. They simply want all forms of transportation to be treated alike.

"The railroad managements themselves are not the only ones vitally interested in the question of fair play when it comes to all competing forms of transportation. There is no section of this country but has an equal interest, from the national standpoint, in rendering possible the largest measure of adequate, efficient and dependable transportation service by every form, with equal opportunity for all."

Acid Burns Sisters When Auto Upsets

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Miss Margaret Bell, nurse in a Morgantown hospital, and her sister Frances, a West Virginia University student, were injured by acid from the battery of their automobile in an accident at Morgantown, west of here, yesterday. The machine skidded on ice and turned over. The girls were pinned in the car and the acid poured upon their face.

SOLDIER DYING, SEEK MARINE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—A hand-to-hand encounter between two suitors, one a Marine and the other a soldier, for the love of a girl in whose apartment they were visiting, had ended today with the soldier near death in the United States Naval Hospital at League Island.

The Marine is being sought on charges of having battered the soldier about the head with a hatchet.

The girl for whom the two are alleged to have fought is Miss Catherine Druxell, 24, of South Philadelphia, who is under arrest as a material witness.

Policeman Wounded, Hunt for Gambler

LONG BEACH, Cal., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The shooting of a Los Angeles police officer during a gun fight here last night resulted today in a search for a man described by the authorities as an internationally known gambler whose checks for a total of $50,000 were found in the possession of an alleged gunman arrested after the shooting.

The wounded officer, W. H. Wagoner, 35, may die. James J. Sherman and Pat Bruneman, arrested after the fight, gave their occupations as gamblers, and were said by police to have been identified as two of four men who shot it out with Wagoner and a fellow officer.

Neil Munro, British Author, Dies at 66

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Neil Munro, 66, author and journalist, died today. He wrote a large number of works with a Scottish background, and many well-known Celtic tales and sketches. He was a native of Invenary.

Father's Auto Kills Child With Sled

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Injuries received when her father's automobile skidded, caused the death today of Irene Osterfield, 4, of Plymouth. The child was carrying a sled in the backyard of her home when her father's machine skidded on some ice as it was being taken from a garage. The youngster was pinned against a fence which had to be chopped down before the little victim could be extricated.

CURB ON ALIEN SHIPS SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Foreign passenger vessels operating only during the winter season between the United States and Caribbean ports as looked upon by Chairman White of the House Merchant Marine Committee as "virtually pirates."

White said he wanted these vessels placed under the provisions of the Jones-White law which imposes a $25,000 fine on ships used "for excluding, preventing or reducing competition by driving another out." He said his committee would begin hearings next month on his bill to bring this about. He remarked:

"American lines between our ports and Caribbean ports have made their living, virtually, from the winter trade. These are all-year lines and only the peak load keeps them so.

"Recently, foreign ships have come into this winter trade. When the peak of the season is over, they get out. They cause extreme distress to the regulars."

Thief Takes Shoes Meant as Gifts To Needy

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—He may not have been the meanest thief in the world, but he was below the average. He stole nearly 100 pairs of shoes and stockings stowed by an East Orange luncheon club for distribution among the neediest families Christmas Day.

Everything, however, will turn out all right. The club, not to be balked by a mere thief, has doubled the original number of gifts.

Hospital Building Project Announced

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 22.—The largest building project here in recent months—completion of the third floor of the Connellsville State Hospital at an approximate cost of $25,000—was announced yesterday by the board of trustees. Plans are being drawn by the Department of Welfare at Harrisburg and bids will be asked soon.

The completion was advocated by the trustees at this time as a step in relief the unemployment situation.

PORTER'S DEATH WEAKENS U. S. WAR ON DOPE

Signs of Let-down Please League, Hoping to Enlist Nation in Its Program

By KENNETH CLARK.
Universal Service.

GENEVA, Dec. 22.—Is the United States government relaxing its efforts in the world fight against the dope evil?

League of Nations officials answer the question affirmatively, and strangely enough, they are happy for it. They foresee a day not far distant when the United States, which heretofore has refused to temporize or hedge, will join the puny movements the league is making to limit manufacture of drugs. They are more interested in American co-operation with the league than they are in attacking the common danger.

PORTER'S DEATH FACTOR

Arthur Sweetser, the league's $10,000 a year propagandist, wrote a secret report when he returned from the United States last fall, predicting that there would be a change in the American anti-narcotic policy. He attributed this to the death last spring of Representative Stephen G. Porter, of Pittsburgh, who had always attacked the league's do-nothing policy.

Congress, under Representative Porter's guidance, laid down the principle that solution of the dope evil could only come through curtailment of the production of opium and cocoa leaves to medical requirements. He did not favor the will-o'-the-wisp scheme of the league to limit manufacture merely of a few drugs, while whole categories were left unrestricted.

LET-DOWN INDICATED

Apparently the State Department is filling Sweetser's prediction. Signs are increasing of a let-down in the American efforts.

The State Department representative at the recent preliminary drug conference in London did not make a fight to include the limitation of production at the international conference called by the league for May.

But Russia did. The Soviets criticized the league's program as too narrow. They picked up the fight which America, under Porter, had so long advanced. Russia announced it would bring up the question again at the May conference. The American sat silent. With Porter gone, the State Department evidently has forgotten the congressional resolution.

Christmas Trees Selling Fast In N. Y.

Jobbers reported that with prices as much as 25 per cent lower than a year ago, the trees are in big demand. More than a half million of them have been brought into town.

London Celebrates History of Quinine

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The romantic history of quinine, an important factor in extending Britain's empire in the tropics, is being celebrated here. Three hundred years ago a South American Indian cured a Spanish Don of a raging fever by giving him a powdered bark mixed with wine. The remedy is the same today in a slightly different form.

HOOVER TO GET PORTRAIT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Announcement has been made that President Hoover has accepted an invitation of the Union League of Philadelphia to be its guest of honor at a ceremony in the club in connection with the presentation to him of a portrait of himself.

The date of the ceremony has not been fixed, but Charles J. Hepburn, a director of the league, who made the announcement, said the President would be unable to come here until after the adjournment of Congress.

Pildes Costa, Greek artist, was engaged by the league to paint two portraits of President Hoover. They are to be shown to Mrs. Hoover today so that she may select the one she prefers. The other will be hung in the halls of the league's home.

INDIA FAVORED AS DOMINION

BOMBAY, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A poll conducted by the Times of India among non-official Europeans in the country shows that 83 per cent of them favor dominion status for India.

The question asked was whether dominion status should be granted the country, with a responsible government at the center and with safeguards for such matters as the army, foreign affairs, the external debt and the European and other minorities.

The same influential newspaper pays high tribute to the new viceroy, Viscount Willingdon, who formerly served in India and now is governor general of Canada.

"Of the many new viceroys suggested in the last six months," it says, "none is likely to be more acceptable than Lord Willingdon, whose Indian record is evidence of his statesmanship and adaptability to changing conditions."

FRAT DANCE DATE NEARLY OFF

"Triple-Action" Eleventh Hour Rescue

D. Roest

"For weeks I had been looking forward to a fraternity dance at Lehigh. My luck—the day of the dance I had to get a bad cough! My mother gave me some Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup; and I stayed in the house all that day. Immediately, the cough got better. And although I still felt a little shaky, I went to the dance and had a good time. No ill after-effect next day. My cough was completely gone — thanks to Smith Brothers'!" D. Roest, Hotel St. George, Brooklyn, New York.

"Triple-Action" Helps Him to Health

R. W. Combs

"Crawling under cars in a great big drafty garage is almost a sure way to catch coughs. Every winter, so far, I've had my troubles. This winter, on the boss' recommendation, I got a bottle of Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. It certainly worked like double-heavy oil on my 'valves'. In no time at all, my cough stopped; my cold got better; and I have been hitting on all cylinders ever since." R. W. Combs, 6451 Wentworth Ave., Chicago, Ill.

AMMEL IN N. Y. AFTER FLIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Capt. Roy W. Ammel, of Chicago, who made the first New York-Panama non-stop flight several weeks ago, returned yesterday on the steamer Abengarez.

Capt. Ammel's plane which cracked up on an attempted Panama-Chicago flight—a crash which resulted in serious injuries to Ammel—has been shipped directly to the manufacturer's plant in California for repairs. The motor was sent to the maker's plant at Hartford, Conn., for rebuilding.

Capt. Ammel appeared completely recovered from his injuries. He said he would remain in New York several days for an examination to determine whether he had been injured internally.

Real Estate

While other holdings declined and, in many cases vanished during the last 11 months, the total assessed value of real estate in 12 American cities climbed to modest heights, according to the National Association of Real Estate Boards. In 11 cities the assessed values on land and buildings increased by $138,129,538 between December of 1929 and December of this year.

Mary C. Barclay has sold to Joseph Thompson a two-acre home site in the Frankstown road, Penn Township. The sale was made by O. P. McJunkin, representing Edward Zimmerman, of Wilkinsburg.

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

Dave Serbin is a telegrapher in a downtown bank. A few days ago, as he was leaving the bank at the noon hour, an apple seller asked him to guard the apples while the seller made a telephone call.

Cheerfully Serbin stood by the apples, anxious to make a sale and help relieve unemployment.

After a few minutes a customer approached, bought an apple, looked twice at Serbin and said:

"Ohn, so this is what you do on your lunch hour."

The customer was the president of Serbin's bank.

These cold days remind Arthur Chapman, Jr., who was a ranger in Yellowstone Park before he became a news photographer, of the long winter siege in the park, during which the rangers are penned in by the weather.

Two such rangers lived in a small cabin and after a month or two of isolation became sullen and disgruntled.

They didn't even talk with each other. They'd sit around their cabin 24 hours each day, one reading, the other playing solitaire.

After a month or so of silence they were startled one night to hear the forgotten telephone ring. The telephone rang, rang and rang and neither would answer.

Finally one of them tossed his cards down in disgust and bellowed, "Well, I'll be a blankety blankety blankety blank, who in the snandso is bothering us now!"

Good Old George Anonymous writes in to complain about the apples they're selling in Pittsburgh. He says the apples here are just apples, whereas in Philadelphia some of the apples are Scotch or

Rye. In what we must call that staid eastern city some apple sellers jerk out the stem, and soak the apple with whisky. If the apple is soaked just one day, the price is 25 cents, if two days the price is 50 cents. George Anonymous is broadminded or naive because he does not believe the sale of soaked apples is a fracture of the law. Imagine, he asks you to imagine, being charged with the sale and possession of a Baldwin!

Some day, when you're in an historical mood, get in touch with Prof. A. Howry Espenshade, who teaches English at Penn State College, and ask him how the counties of Pennsylvania were named. This is a fascinating subject, especially if it's a rainy day. Allegheny County, for instance, has an Indian name, but nobody seems certain from what it was derived. The professor suggests it possibly came from the tribal name Allegewi.

Bedford County was named for your old friend, the English Duke of Bedford; and Butler was so called because of Gen. Richard Butler. The generals scored another victory in the naming of Greene County, which is more or less dedicated to Nathaniel Greene. Westmoreland was named for an English shire and Bradford got its identification from William Bradford, second attorney general of the country.

But the big surprise of this paragraph is Washington County. Who can guess where Washington County won its name?

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 22.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

One of the best indications that America is a mighty tough nation physically, is the fact they can live on nothing for over a year till their government finally votes funds to give 'em employment. These folks were out of a job all of last year, and Congress was in session all that time, but it looked like they kept waiting along to see if the people would live through it, and they did and fooled the government. Auto Victim

WALTER F. M'WADE

YOUTH, FIANCEE TRAIN VICTIMS

Walter F. McWade, 19, son of Frank L. McWade, of 1257 Wisconsin avenue, Dormont, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Sheets, school teacher, of Bismarck, Ill., were killed instantly when their automobile was struck by a train near Bismarck late Saturday night, according to word received here today. McWade, University of Illinois student, had left Urbana, the college town, late Saturday for Pittsburgh to spend the holidays here.

At Bismarck he stopped two hours, and there he met Miss Sheets. The two went for an automobile ride and she was returning him to Bismarck when the automobile was struck by a Chicago and Eastern Illinois Florida limited train.

McWade's body was expected to arrive here today.

McWade, who was graduated from Dormont High School in 1928, was a junior at the university, taking the liberal arts course. According to his college friends and fraternity men, he and Miss Sheets were understood to be engaged.

Relatives here had no knowledge of the engagement, they said.

TWO MEN SLAIN IN QUARRELS

Two Negroes who killed two others in fights, one in the Hill district and the other in Mollenauer, yesterday, were being sought by police and county detectives today.

Ejected from a hotel in Wylie avenue for fighting late yesterday, Horace Newsome, 21, a Negro, of 1403 Whitcomb street, and John Patterson, 45, a Negro, met a short time later and, according to police, clashed again.

In the second combat, police said, Patterson drew a revolver and shot Newsome in the heart. Newsome, taken to the Passavant Hospital, was pronounced dead by Dr. Albert Goldblum. Patterson fled.

According to police the trouble started when Patterson accused Newsome of stealing money from him.

An argument over a woman led to the fatal shooting near his home late yesterday of John Shakelford, 29, a Negro, of House No. 8, Mollenauer, deputy coroners reported. His alleged assailant, known only as "Alex," who had lived near the victim for two weeks, opened fire from a revolver during the quarrel, morgue attaches declared.

500 ORGANIZE, TELLER RAPS CONDITIONS

Blames Vice on Invasion Of Outsiders; Group Will Co-Operate With Officials

A committee of seven men was appointed to draw up by-laws at a meeting of the Hill District Taxpayers' Association held yesterday afternoon at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement. President William Lando presided at the meeting which was attended by nearly 500 persons. Sidney A. Teller, executive director of the settlement spoke.

COMMITTEE NAMED

The committee to draw up the by-laws is composed of Teller, Harry Ravick, Louis M. Sachs, B. Hirsch, Phillip Knopf, M. Wheeler and Morris Golden. The purpose of the organization is to protect the members from unreliable tenants.

Ridding the Hill district of "joints" and the "numbers" rackets is one of the aims of the organization, Teller said. He declared that vice conditions have reached such proportions that they are forcing many people to leave the district. A large percentage of the "rackets," he added, are run by persons who live outside the district.

PROECTION SOUGHT

"The Hill district has grown up. It is not as poor as it formerly was, and we believe that as citizens and taxpayers we should get consideration. Many of the Hill's residents gained their homes through years of sacrifice, and believe the district should no longer be a dumping ground for the vice and crime of the city."

The association intends to offer its co-operation with city departments and the Board of Public Education in an effort to bring about changes in local conditions. It will ask for adequate paving and other street improvements, increased police protection and school and playground facilities.

Bankbooks Win Freedom for 2 Youths

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—(INS.)—Federal Judge Tillman D. Johnson believes that thrift and crime are incompatible.

When Jack Shortliff, 17, of Sacramento, Cal., showed the judge a bank book with deposits of $300 which he had saved since last spring he and a companion were released from charges of having transported a stolen automobile from California.

Shortliff and Melvin Anderson were arrested last spring. They had been given a chance to prove themselves industrious and honest youths. The bankbook was offered in proof.

W. S. M'KINNEY FUNERAL TODAY

Funeral services were to be held today for William Sherman McKinney, 41, a director of the McKinney Manufacturing Company, who died Saturday as a result of an automobile accident on the Sandy Creek road. The services were to be held in his late home, 1812 Wightman street. The Rev. Dr. D. F. McGill, of the Western Theological Seminary, and the Rev. Dr. A. Gordon McLennan, of the Shadyside United Presbyterian Church, were to officiate.

Mr. McKinney was a member of one of Pittsburgh's oldest families and for many years had been identified with the McKinney company.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Helen Metcalf McKinney; a son, William Smythe McKinney; a daughter, Katherine McKinney; a brother, R. Grant McKinney and three sisters, Mrs. Katherine McKinney Davidson and Mrs. F. R. Clinton, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. R. G. Woods, of California.

Olympic Swimmers Get Luxurious Pool

LOS ANGELES.—(INS.)—Olympic team swimmers are having a nice place made for them in Olympic Park here, where the international games of 1932 will be held. Dressing rooms, showers and lounges for the athletes are given careful attention in the planning.

The pool will be of regulation Olympic size.

Rickshas Drivers Age Set at 17

Piling Up Loot in Store When Arrested, Officers Say; Bus Office Raided

Solution of a series of robberies in the East End was believed near today with the capture of Dominick Palmer, 21, of 227½ Renfrew street, while he was alleged to have been looting the Leader Clothing Store at 6237 Frankstown avenue, early today.

Palmer was held for further investigation at a preliminary hearing in East End Police Court today.

Palmer, police said, was piling his loot when a squad headed by Capt. Muncie Marino and Lieuts. Shine and Albert Good, summoned by a man who witnessed the robbery, walked into the place and arrested him. In his possession a .38 caliber revolver and a large number of keys were found, police declared.

The suspect admitted, according to police, that he participated in the holdup of a barbecue stand in Washington boulevard several weeks ago. He is also believed by police to have taken part in other robberies in that district.

BUS OFFICE ROBBED

A robber who last night looted the cash drawer in the office of the White Star Bus Line Company, at 962 Liberty avenue, of $19, after locking D. E. Long, the manager, in the basement, was being sought by police today.

After obtaining a description of the robber, police said he was the same man who has been holding up stores in the downtown district during the last two months.

Long was released by William Barbanell, of Steubenville, O., who walked into the place a few minutes after the holdup man left. Barbanell was standing in front of the place and saw the man, but was unaware that he was a robber.

AGED MAN ATTACKED

Henry Eickel, 73, of 253 Republic street, was confined to his home today with two broken ribs and bruises suffered when two thugs attacked him on the north end of the Manchester Bridge last night.

Eickel was walking toward the North Side when the two men, one a Negro, knocked him down and rifled his pockets. The only loot they obtained were his keys.

Two bandits attacked Louis Mangan, of 472 Forty-fourth street, near his home late Saturday night and robbed him of $20.

An armed Negro held up the Keystone Grocery Store, 1125 Pennsylvania avenue, and looted the cash register of $33.

Two Negroes, one of them armed, forced Rose Cody and Fanny Berner, of 1839 Bedford avenue, into an alley in the 1800 block of Bedford avenue, and took a purse containing $10 and two pairs of gloves from the Berner girl.

John Muncah, of 276 Thirty-eighth street, was knocked down by two Negroes early this morning at Robinson and Sandusky streets, North Side, according to his report to police. The thieves obtained no money.

Painters Urged to Adopt Stagger System of Jobs

Recommendations that members of the Master Painters and Decorators Association stagger the employment of their men to the end that as many as possible may find employment, were adopted at a meeting of the Master Painters and Decorators Association of Pittsburgh Saturday night in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

John B. Dewar, president of the local association, presided and appointed nine delegates to attend the state convention to be held next month at Reading, Pa. Efforts will be made to bring the next convention to Pittsburgh.

Following the business meeting, Ralph Watkins, director of Trade Research of the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Pittsburgh, spoke on "Our Present Depression."

VOTING MACHINE CASE APPEALED TO SUPREME COURT

GUTHRIE KEEPS UP FIGHT ON POOLE JOB

Highest State Tribunal To Pass on Validity of Contract Made by County

The voting machine contract case today was appealed to the Supreme Court, Attorney Charles F. C. Arensberg, counsel for Francis S. Guthrie, petitioner, announced today.

Guthrie, seeking to enjoin the County Commissioners and other county officers from entering into a contract with the Poole Engineering and Machine Company of Baltimore for supplying voting machines costing approximately $1,000,000, lost in three previous skirmishes. Judge James R. Macfarlane refused a preliminary injunction, Judge Frank P. Patterson an injunction after a hearing and Judges Macfarlane, H. H. Rowand and Patterson overruled objections to the latter decision and dismissed the case.

An order was signed setting the hearing for January 12.

4 MEN BATTLE TO STAY IN JAIL

While hordes of criminals are using every stratagem, even to killing officers, to keep out of jail, Warden John McNeil, of the Allegheny County bastile, virtually is compelled to throw out prisoners given short terms for minor offenses.

For weeks during the cold weather, McNeil said today, men whose time was up have hidden among long-term prisoners in order to enjoy the warden's hospitality for the winter.

Matters reached a crisis today when four derelicts, whose 10-day terms had expired, put up a stiff argument with the warden in an effort to prevent his sending them out into the cold and murky morn of the year's shortest day. The kindly warden was sympathetic, but obdurate, pointing out that other unfortunates would be along to take up available space in his "hotel."

JAIL INMATES WILL FEAST

Except that they will not be free to wander the streets singing carols on Christmas Day, the 750 prisoners in the county jail are promised about all the pleasure and entertainment possible to give persons deprived of liberty.

Warden John McNeil announced today that a real dinner, with roast beef and plenty side dishes will be served his guests at 11:30 Thursday. Following that, nearly a dozen headline acts by theatrical stars will take up most of the afternoon. Steve Forrest, theatrical booker, is furnishing the talent, as he has done at Christmas times without number.

Heading the list of stars is Dr. Rockwell, whose explanation of the human spine, with a banana stock representing the backbone, has convulsed vaudeville audiences for many years.

FIRE DESTROYS MOOSE HALL

Moose Hall, Universal's largest building, which houses the community's only dance hall, moving picture house and bowling alley, was destroyed by fire this morning with an estimated loss of $40,000.

The fire broke out in the top floor and gained rapid headway before the arrival of combined North Bessemer, Universal and Unity fire departments. The cause was not determined.

The building had been decorated by the members of the Moose for a benefit which was to be held tonight for the unemployed.

Student Injured In Crash Recovering

Edwin Sloan, of Carnegie, Monmouth College student, injured in an auto crash near Marion Saturday, will spend Christmas at home, it was announced today. At first believed seriously injured, Sloan recovered consciousness Saturday. An examination revealed he did not suffer a skull fracture as at first feared. Four companions, all students, were only slightly hurt.

County Parks Open Toboggan Slides

The toboggan slides at both North and South County parks will be open again tonight. Skating will also be permitted in South Park. Supt. Paul B. Riis today announced that the conditions on the toboggan slides are excellent.

LITTLE GIRLS AT CHILDREN'S HOME OF PENNSYLVANIA WITH LAST YEAR'S DOLLS

Downstairs is the nursery. Children from two years—up. The scrape of chairs, the rattle of tin toys dragged across the floor, arguments over toys rise through the floor, blend with the sounds from the crib room upstairs.

SEES 2,000 GO

Harter has seen almost 2,000 children leave the home, go to new homes found for them by the society. Another 1,000 had gone before he came. In one day, out the next, it seemed.

But when one went, another came. One afternoon, a bright-cheeked, excited little lad would leave, hanging to the hand of a new "daddy," the next morning a weeping, sallow-cheeked mother would ring at the door, ask Harter or Mrs. Harter to care for her child.

There was the business of taking in the children, the business of keeping them happy, of finding new homes for them. Then there was a year of watchful waiting, to see if they fitted in their new homes. And the joy of finding them happy, restored to a normal life.

Of this the kindly, graying man thinks, and looks into the future. A thought of 13 children turned away in one day, of late, and a memory of more than 100 eager for a new chance at life, refused for a lack of money, cast no rosy glow over that future.

MORE FUNDS NEEDED

With no guaranteed income, excepting a small grant from the state; with 700 children under the supervision of the Society and the Home almost full, with expenses rising higher during the depression, as more children knock on the door, in cases of most desperate need even when money to care for them is not in sight, Harter and his field worker, the Rev. Dr. Charles T. Murdock, are looking for some way to carry on their work.

Harter says:

"The home is open to all races, all creeds, all children who, for one reason or another, are homeless. Its work is to find new chances for them, to find the money to give them the chances, to keep going, now of all times. We cannot do this unless we can obtain $5,000."

GETS 15 YEARS FOR HOLDUP

Harry Manning, 27, of Vickroy street, convicted of robbery in the holdup of John B. Stauff, messenger of the South Hills Trust Company, June 16, was sentenced to serve from 7½ to 15 years in the penitentiary by Judge James B. Drew in Criminal Court, today.

The court said the sentence would be concurrent with 8½ years to be served by Manning for violation of his parole. Harry Andrini, who pleaded guilty in the holdup, is serving from 40 to 80 years. Stauff died of a heart attack the day after the holdup which netted the robbers $2,150.

CALL MEETING ON POST OFFICE

Virtually no progress has been made in plans for the $8,000,000 postoffice and federal building here during the last five years, Frank L. Dugan, chairman of the Better Traffic Committee, declared today, citing the so far futile efforts of his committee to work out a satisfactory traffic solution about the proposed structure.

Edward B. Lee, chairman of the off-street facilities section of the traffic committee, has called a meeting of his group to be held tomorrow in the Chamber of Commerce rooms to determine a future course of action. The section, after spending more than a year studying and planning to work out traffic arrangements, is now facing the outlook of having its conclusions shelved, it was said.

HARTLEP DENIED NEW TRIAL

William Hartlep, former North Side park supervisor, convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the baseball-bat killing of George J. Nieberding, 16, of 616 Sherman avenue, was denied a new trial by visiting Judge William A. McConnell, of Beaver County, after hearing arguments in Criminal Court today.

Attorney E. G. Coll, representing the defendant, said he had learned since the trial the lad had been injured on the head in a bicycle accident before he was struck by a bat in the hands of Hartlep in West park, June 28.

Assistant District Attorney Earl T. Adair argued against a new trial, saying the nature of the boy's injury showed a very hard blow had been struck.

Sentence will be pronounced later.

Pleads Guilty, Wins Parole in Extortion

On motion of the prosecutor, Max Chessett, 26, of 614 North St. Clair street, was paroled for two years by Judge George V. Moore when he pleaded guilty to charges of attempted extortion.

M. Heller, of 613 North St. Clair street, who received a threatening letter demanding $300 last November 3, asked for the parole.

INDIAN GIVEN LAWS LIMIT

Lee Allen, 42, half-caste Indian of Curry, who was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter for the killing of his son-in-law, Dan McConeghy, 32, was sentenced today from 6 to 12 years in the workhouse, the maximum penalty.

The trial revealed the shooting followed an argument in which Allen accused McConeghy for being responsible for the illness of his daughter, Mrs. Edith McConeghy. Allen was tried for murder and voluntary manslaughter, and was convicted on the latter charge.

In court today when the sentence was imposed was Edith, 22, Allen's daughter, a substitute school teacher in Mifflin Township, and Allen's five other small children. Attorney Louis Little's plea for clemency was fought by Assistant District Attorney John P. Haggerty.

Cracksmen Rob Safe In Downtown Office

Cracksmen entered the store of the Pittsburgh Leather and Glue Company, 114 Market street, knocked the combination from a safe and secured $112 in cash. They overlooked $30 in a cash drawer and a diamond ring, according to store employes, who said they were puzzled as to how the yeggmen entered the place.

MISSES FEAST LOSES GOOSE

John Pierce, of Somerset, Ky., told Magistrate J. J. Sweeney today that he was a watchman on a car of poultry shipped from Kentucky to a Pittsburgh firm. Last night a man approached the car and Pierce agreed to pick a fat goose from the crate, go to the home of the trimpter's girl friend and gorge on goose.

In Wright's way, the unknown pulled a gun, took $12.60 and the goose, Pierce declared.

COASTER HURT WHEN SLED HITS CAR

Group Thrown to Road as Speeding Bobsled Crashes; Machine, Trolley Collide

When a bobsled on which she was riding with three companions struck an automobile in the Linhart road, Penn Township, Edna Seese, 16, of Frankstown road, Penn Township, suffered severe injuries last night. She was rushed to the Columbia Hospital where it was said she had suffered a broken arm and leg, a dislocated hip and injuries to the head.

Charles Powell, of Brushton avenue, Pittsburgh, had just finished putting water in the radiator of his automobile at a service stand along the road, when he pulled out onto the highway. The sled, speeding silently down the dark steep grade, struck the side of the automobile. The four coasters were thrown from the sled but only Miss Seese was injured.

AUTOS CRASH

When the automobiles they were driving collided at Dallas and Hamilton avenues late yesterday, E. Bennett Bradshow, of the Sewickley Y. M. C. A., and John Buff, of Munhall, suffered slight injuries. Bradshow's car knocked down a pole.

Suffering lacerations of the body when the automobile which he was driving collided with a street car at Bigelow boulevard and Fifth avenue, William Pamelson, of 210 Reifert street, Mt. Oliver, was treated at Montefiore Hospital and sent home.

GUARD SUSPECT FROM MOB

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Fears for the safety of Raymond Gunn, Negro trapper, charged with the murder of Miss Velma Colter, 19-year-old rural school teacher, today led Buchanan County officers to bring the prisoner here for safekeeping.

The officers, fearing further violence from a mob which early yesterday unsuccessfully attempted to deliver the prisoner, spirited Gunn from the Buchanan County Jail, where he had been confined since his arrest at Maryville, Mo., his home.

As the prisoner was taken from his cell police dispersed a group of 25 persons who had gathered in the courthouse yard.

CALF-PATH

a not-too-serious analogy

Speaking of wasteful methods of doing business, reminds us of Sam Foss's famous poem, "The Calf-Path." A few selected lines explain what we mean:

One day, through a primeval wood,
And left a trail all bent askew,
A crooked trail as all calves do.

And from that day, o'er hill and glade,
Through those old woods a path was made;
And many men wound in and out,
And dodged, and turned, and bent about
And uttered words of righteous wrath
Because 'twas such a crooked path.

The years passed on in swiftness fleet,
The path became a village street;
And this, before men were aware,
A city's crowded thoroughfare;
And men two centuries and a half
Trod in the footsteps of that calf.

A hundred thousand men were led
By one calf near three centuries dead.
For thus such reverence is lent.

Excerpts from The Calf-Path by Sam. W. Foss

A&P does not go it blind along the calf-paths followed by business men centuries ago. A&P customers do not have to bear the expense of handling food by old-fashioned zig-zag methods. A&P's methods are the best money-saving methods of today.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Margret Brill Makes Bow to Society at Afternoon Tea

One of the most distinctive debutantes of the season, Margret Brill, daughter of the Alfred Pulland Brills, of St. James Place, is making her debut this afternoon at a tea dance her mother and father are giving in the University Club.

The ballroom is gay with Christmas colors, and redolent with Yuletide trees. The bud's gift bouquets and poinsettias are vivid splashes of color against the green of pine and spruce and southern smilax.

Receiving with the debutante and her mother is Mrs. Edwin Rund. The debutante looks like a fruital princess in a simple gown of cloth of gold, fashioned with a Viennese neck-line, long, tight fitting sleeves, and an exceptionally long skirt. Enhancing the medieval gown is the bud's coppery hair wound about her head. She is carrying different gift bouquets.

Aiding the debutante are all the season's buds and Eugenia Greenly, of New York, house guest of the Brills, who came out last winter in New York, and Virginia Keating. Eugenia is wearing black lace.

News has reached me of plans for another of the approaching January weddings, that of an eastern girl and a prominent Pittsburgh man. H. Gwendolyn Miller, daughter of the Edward Millers, of Brooklyn, who has named Friday, January 16, as the date of her marriage to William Rossiter Hinchman, of the University Club of Pittsburgh, son of the John J. Hinchmans, of Summit, N. J., has completed plans for her wedding.

Attendants Selected

The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock that afternoon in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's, New York, with the Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood officiating. A reception in the Park Lane Hotel will follow.

Mrs. William Harrison Miller will be her sister-in-law's matron of honor, and Gwendolyn Miller will be her aunt's flower girl.

C. T. Lawrence Rossiter, of Scarsdale, will be his cousins best man, and Wiliam Harrison Miller, of Rockville Center, L. I., brother of the bride-elect; Clarence R. Nesbit and Cary Yale Morse, of New York, and Gilbert W. Chapman, of Woodmere, L. I., will be ushers.

After a wedding trip, Mr. Hinchman and his bride will live in Pittsburgh. The bride-elect is a graduate of Packer Collegiate Institute, Brooklyn, and the bridegroom-elect is a graduate of Cornell and a member of the Oakmont Country Club, the Keystone Athletic Club and the Cornell Club and the Downtown Club of New York.

The first of the many notable entertainments honoring the debutantes during this gay week was the luncheon Mrs. T. Raymond Evans, of Beechwood boulevard, gave today in her home in honor of Jane Marshall and Frances Kier, two of the most feted buds of the season.

Luncheon For Buds

Covers were laid for 75, with debs of this year, a few of last year and young men friends of the hostess' son, Raymond F. Evans, and Frances' fiance, Baron Jean Bellenc, among the guests.

The First Presbyterian Church of Clarion was the scene of the wedding of Miss Ruth Elizabeth Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Ball, of Clarion, and Edward Shelton Davis II, of Altoona, son of Mrs. M. B. Davis and the late Dr. Edward Davis, of Cameron, W. Va., on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Marry In Clarion

Mrs. John P. Baker, of Knox, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, and Mr. Baker was the best man. Mrs. Charles Fitzgerald, pianist, accompanied Mrs. Frank L. Harvey, who sang. Mrs. Howard Curll played the wedding march. Officiating was the Rev. Daniel Platt, of Clarion.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dark green traveling ensemble and carried bronze chrysanthemums. After the ceremony there was a reception in the Ball home. Among the out-of-town guests were Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Black and Miss Lucille Ball, of Pittsburgh.

The bride attended the Pennsylvania College for Women and Bucknell University. The bridegroom attended the Virginia Military Institute and is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh. He is a member of Kappa Sigma. After a brief honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Davis will reside in Altoona.

Edward Beck gave the rehearsal dinner on Friday evening, and the bride was honored at a bridge party recently by Miss Emma Rankin and at another given by Miss Evelyn Lackey.

Statesman Feted After Being Jailed

KATTOWICZ, Poland, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Adelbert Korfanty, opposition leader, who disagreed with Marshal Joseph Pilsudski and was imprisoned in the fortress at Brest-Litovsk, has been welcomed home by thousands of cheering friends. He was liberated Saturday.

Korfanty looked weak, but spoke guardedly about his experiences. As to his plans for the future, he said he was too old to change his political convictions, hence would continue to fight for the people of Upper Silesia and for democracy in all Poland.

Squirrel Hill Club Gives Christmas Party For Hospital Patients

The Squirrel Hill Community Club, which is always concerning itself with some kind of philanthropic work, gave its annual Christmas party at the Tuberculosis Hospital on Saturday evening. For 10 years the women have been visiting the hospital annually, bringing with them holiday cheer in a variety of forms for the patients. On Saturday evening they gave a program of music and readings and served refreshments, not only to those who had gathered in the auditorium, but for the bedfast as well.

Mrs. T. W. Ferris, social chairman, and Mrs. L. D. Burt, chairman of music, were in charge.

Mrs. H. B. Layman is supervising the other Christmas work being done by the club—the packing and distribution of Christmas baskets, with the necessary investigating of the families which this entails. Clothing and shoes will also be distributed by Mrs. Layman and her aides in whose hands the Thanksgiving basket work was so efficiently handled. As an extra bit of humanitarianism the club recently found employment for the heads of two families.

Holiday Party

The children of faculty members who came to the Pitt Women's Association Christmas party on Saturday reversed the usual order. Instead of welcoming a Santa Claus with a full pack, they greeted one carrying an empty bag and before he left they had filled it with gifts for the Children's Hospital. About 125 guests were present at the party, which was held in Heinz House on the campus. Neva Morris, chanteuse, gave a delightful program of especial appeal to the little folk. Mrs. Manuel Conrad Elsner, junior activities chairman, was in charge, and Mrs. George Hatfield and her committee supervised the "party part."

Eighty children, ranging in age from 3 to 12, were guests at the College Club's jolly Chrstmas party on Saturday afternoon. Of course, there was a tree out in the supporch—and there was a program of movies and some stories by Elizabeth Keith, of East Liberty Carnegie Library. Colored balloons hanging from chandeliers in the hall and dining room, quantities of holly and mistletoe everywhere made the clubhouse most attractive. Mrs. S. K. Cunningham was chairman for the party.

The Women's Press Club had a delightfully appointed dinner Saturday night at the Roosevelt Hotel. The place favors were tiny wooden angels carrying wee red candles, and in the center of the table stood a little decorated and lighted tree. City Club members are agreeing that the clubrooms are more beautifully decorated this year than usual. The big ceiling-high tree in the tearoom is adorned with tinsel and red and silver balls, and is lighted from below with colored flood lights. An additional decorative note was added yesterday afternoon for the tea following the Christmas musicale. Over the tea table with its decorations of red roses and red silver tapers in candelabra, hung a huge silver ball, which reflected the colorful table. Mrs. Norwood Johnston Mrs. Joseph W. March presided at the urns.

More than 200 guests were served yesterday afternoon and even more than that attended the musicale in the cardinal room, where the program was presented by the club choral. Helen Gow Campbell, with Adaline Merrill Biddle accompanying, and little Jean Brubeam, violinist.

Elsie Breese Mitchell will direct the Congress Choral in a program of Christmas carols over KDKA during the Congress of Clubs radio period at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Willis E. Fish, radio chairman, will complete the hour with a Christmas story. The choral will sing "Adeste Fidelis," "Shepherds' Christmas Song" and "Silent Night."

CITY BUILDING RATE DROPS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Building operations in 39 cities and boroughs during November declined 58 per cent below the total for the same month last year, the Department of Labor and Industry has reported.

The decrease was general, lower figures being reported by 21 cities and six boroughs, as against nine cities and three boroughs reporting increases. It was also distributed through all classes of construction work. New residential building dropped 32 per cent; new non-residential, 54 per cent; additions, alterations and general repair work, 39 per cent, and installations, 45 per cent.

The total estimated value of permits issued during 1930 was $5,701,801, a decline of $8,042,582 from the November, 1929, figure of $13,744,383.

The largest of the few gains was shown by York, where the estimated value of work begun last month was $393,276. Other cities or boroughs reporting increases were: Homestead, $11,365; New Castle, $6,615; McKees Rocks, $4,290; Clairton, $3,970, and Connellsville, $3,130.

KILLED RUSHING TO DYING WIFE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—J. Leslie Maddock, 59, injured while hurrying to the bedside of his dying wife in a hospital, died without regaining consciousness long enough to learn that his wife, too, had passed away.

Informed by telephone that his wife was near death, Maddock and his son started for the hospital in an automobile. They drove fast, the son later told police, and on a curve the car skidded and crashed into a stone wall. Maddock died in a hospital an hour later. In the meantime, the son, who escaped serious injury, was informed that his mother was dead also.

Two Women Hurt As Auto Hits Bank

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 22.—Mrs. R. Willard Herwick and her mother, Mrs. R. W. Hay, of Cottage avenue, were badly cut and bruised when a rear wheel came off the automobile in which they were riding near Delmont and the machine crashed into an embankment. Mrs. Herwick was rendered unconscious and both were cut about the head and face.

Boy Killed, 8 Hurt In Sled Accidents

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 22.—In a series of coasting accidents Saturday night and Sunday, one youth was killed and eight injured. Five were taken to hospitals.

Children to Give Christmas Play

A Christmas play will be given by children of the Forest Avenue United Presbyterian Church, near Bellevue, tomorrow night in the church rooms.

WOMAN DIES, 4 HURT IN CRASH

UNION CITY, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Margaret I. Williamson, 38, of Oil City, was killed as her husband's car skidded into another machine on ice-covered Smiley Hill, near here. Mrs. Williamson was hurled through the windshield. Four others persons were injured.

James Williamson, husband of the dead woman, was taken to Union City Hospital seriously injured. Another passenger in their car, Mrs. John Garvey, of Oil City, was taken to a Titusville hospital.

Edward Harvey and Blaine Kinney, of Corry, were injured as the Williamson machine skidded into theirs. Harvey's car in turn smashed into one occupied by John Paulson and Miss Harvey, of Erie, but they escaped injury.

FLO IRWIN DIES IN 72ND YEAR

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Flo Irwin, who with her sister, May Irwin, for more than 50 years attracted theater crowds in the United States and abroad, died yesterday of heart disease. She was 72.

May Irwin, of New York, had planned to spend Christmas with her sister. She was expected here Wednesday to arrange the funeral.

Flo Irwin appeared in theaters in nearly every city in the United States and Canada during her career. The Irwin sisters appeared together in vaudeville, in stage plays and musical comedies.

County Police Raid Still, Seize Whisky

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 22.—County officers found 100 gallons of moonshine whisky, 1,000 gallons of mash, a 50-gallon still, and double condenser, when they raided the home of William B. Guest, on the outskirts of this city. Guest was taken into custody.

Washington Church Holds Last Service

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 22.—Members of the Second Presbyterian Church held their final services in their present edifice erected in 1887. Next Sunday they will dedicate their new home erected at a cost of nearly $750,000.

METROPOLITAN PRIMA DONNA SINGS ON RADIO

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

"On the Beautiful Blue Danube"—Strauss' lone gesture—has been selected by Nanette Guilford, of the Metropolitan, for her main solo tonight at 9:30 in the Family Party over WCAE. Few singers have the voice or powers to do its difficult passages. "Caitia Linda" (Blue Heaven), written by a blind street singer of Mexico whose name has been forgotten, furnishes the prima donna her second solo.

Of as much importance is the KDKA offering at 9—a chorus of 30 singing Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C Sharp Minor."

* * *

Jascha Heifetz must concede that radio is satisfactory after that splendid performance last night.

Tone shading in the Mendelssohn "Concerto," the exquisite beauty of "Ave Maria," the brilliant tremolo dashes in Brahms' "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 1" and the soothing passages of "On Wings of Song" were brought to us with perfect fidelity. As much as though we had been sitting in Carnegie Music Hall.

We think it was worth $15,000 to convince Jascha that he is living in a modern age. It was money well spent. It will lead a few other virtuosos to the studios.

QUESTION A DAY:

How will the Federal Radio Commission's ruling on high power affect Pittsburgh stations?—E. F.

Answer — Local stations not involved. Either WCAU, Philadelphia, or WHAS, Louisville, will receive permit to use 50,000 watts in the second zone. WJAS at one time sought this assignment.

The Loudspeaker By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The five patron saints of the broadcasters, according to the names most frequently encountered on the programs, are Tschaikowsky, Beethoven, Victor Herbert, Stephen Foster and Sir Arthur Sullivan.

Far back in the rack are the jazz composers. George Gershwin is the name most often met in the latter class, chiefly because he once struck off, at a nod from Paul Whiteman, the "Rhapsody in Blue." Next to Gershwin comes the name of Walter Donaldson, the most prolific—and probably the most intimate with bank cashiers—of all American songwriters of today. His tune, "Little White Lies" is the biggest sheet-music seller, thanks chiefly to radio.

There is ever room at the studios for male quartets whether they indulge in familiar ballads or folk songs or seek, as pioneers, to voice the complicated harmonies of Rachmaninoff. Most of them confine their attention to such sure-fire songs as "Dear Old Pal," "That Old Gang of Mine," "In The Evening by the Moonlight," "Down Mobile," and "Polly Wolly Doodle." Of all the numbers "Dear Old Pal," the work of Gitz Rice, has had the greatest vogue. It is known in every part of the world and has been translated into many languages.

The melody of "Dear Old Pal" came to Gitz Rice as he was serving as a lieutenant of the first Canadian contingent on the Western front. But it is doubtful if the song would ever have been known had he not been gassed and sent to blighty. While in London he met Harold Rabe, a lyric writer and producer, who was staging a revue entitled "Follow the Flag," a revue of the George M. Cohan type, caused Rice to shelve the song temporarily.

The next move of the two was to the United States, where Rabe had been sent to help in recruiting British soldiers. One night, while exchanging reminiscences of the front lines, Gitz Rice talked of the little melody which had come to him in France. He hummed it aloud. Rabe caught the spirit, they put the tune down on paper, and "Dear Old Pal" was the result.

FLIER KILLED AS WINGS FAIL

CINCINNATI, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Lawrence B. Hazelton, 22, aviation enthusiast, fell 2,500 feet to his death at Lunken airport here when the wings collapsed on a reconditioned monoplane he was testing. Hazelton received his transport license two weeks ago.

ATCO, N. J., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Three men, the pilot and two passengers, were injured in an airplane crash near here.

Two of them, Frank Faulkner, 24, the pilot, Willow Grove, Pa., and Clarence Sengiel, 23, Philadelphia, were seriously hurt, both suffering possible fractures of the skull and lacerations. George Sengiel, 27, a brother of Clarence, received an injured jaw.

CHARGES VETS REFUSED AID

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A charge that the Salvation Army "has discriminated against the veteran because he was a veteran" was made by Edward J. Neary, state comander of the American Legion, in a statement sent to each of the legion's 775 posts in New York state.

Commander Neary said:

"Veterans applying for relief to organizations such as the Salvation Army, American Red Cross and others were referred by those organizations to the American Legion relief agencies.

"The Legion has been attempting to tide these destitute veterans over this period, but the demand has been so heavy that the funds are now exhausted."

By SALLY MARTIN

Has Your Friend Become a 'Snake in the Grass?'

Once, Johnny "wasn't good enough" for Lucy to motice . . . And she thought Tess a fool for marrying him. But that was 10 years ago when he was just a young fellow trying to get along. And now that he's hitting on all six . . . whizzing along the road to Big Things, she's decided that he's well worth the attention of an ambitious spinster with champagne tastes . . .

Tess? Oh, she isn't worrying about Lucy even if they are Old Pals. She'll soon polish her off! A bit of flattery here—a bit of sly criticism there. . . . It isn't a new story . . . you've seen it happen. Maybe it's happened to you . . .

"Dear Miss Martin:

"Please, can you help me? I have thought about my problem so much that I'm dizzy, and I can't decide what on earth to do about it.

Husband Changing

"Ten years ago when I married John, I was told by my girl friend, Lucy, that he wasn't 'good enough' for me. She couldn't be bothered with him, and said I was foolish to marry him.

"John and I have been happy and have prospered and, as time has passed, Lucy, who has had no marriage offers, has begun to subtly flatter John and to indirectly criticise me (you know how slyly catty a woman can be).

"And he, who until a year ago hardly knew she was alive, has begun suggesting that we include her in our engagements. And whenever I have done so, he has taken her suggestions as to where we would go and what we would do, and ignored mine. He has neglected me, and shown her the little attentions so dear to a woman's heart.

"I have honestly searched my actions, my looks, my clothes, to see where I have failed, and I cannot discover it. So far as I can see, I am as helpful, as charming and companionable, as I have ever been, and he has always seemed to care for me and to think that I was a good pal and a good wife.

Wife Puzzled

"So I have come to the conclusion that this 'friend' is the snake in the grass who is responsible for the change in him.

"What shall I do? Shall I drop her? I can't decide for myself. It's all so puzzling. And I feel that if I do drop her now, I'll lose confidence in my husband, and feel that I couldn't hold him against her.

"But if I don't drop her, I'm terribly afraid of how it will all end. I know that so far, he has never met her anywhere without me. But, oh, I don't know what to do! Please give me your help, I am so nervous and jumpy and miserable! If you were in my place, what would you do?

"TESS."

What'd I do?

I'd fight! I'd fight to protect my home, and keep the man I loved....just as any woman should fight to protect and keep what is hers. You wouldn't allow your home to be overrun with rats, would you? Certainly you wouldn't! And this woman is a rat.

And what'll your program be?

Obviously, it'll have to be one of wit and strategy. Obviously you can't throw a tantrum and refuse to have her around any more. . . .because the chances are that John himself doesn't realize—yet—just what is happening. And he won't believe you if you try to show him. He'll only think you're jealous and suspicious and disagreeable and, if you let him think that, you'll only be driving him away from you.

No. Fighting—in the open—is out.

So you'll have to meet her . . . and outsmart her . . . on her own ground. Just now, she has an advantage because she is something new . . . intriguing. While you, I suspect, have allowed your marriage to fall into just a little too much of a jog trot. You've grown to take that man of yours just a little too much for granted. And her greedy, watching eyes have seen—

So she flatters him . . . and her flattery makes him feel that he counts again in a big way . . . makes him feel jaunty and important and young. All right! Flatter him yourself! Tell him what a great guy he is . . . and then, adroitly flatter him into taking you out—Alone. Gradually leave her out of your jaunts for a large evening. Get interested, both of you, in other people . . . and, get other people interested in her—so she'll have no excuse to make him feel sorry for her.

And above all, let your husband feel that you need him and love him. Be jolly and gay and sweet and stimulating.

Once, your marriage was a thrilling adventure. It had mystery and color and gaiety. Make it a thrilling, stimulating adventure again, and this slimy menace will fade out of the picture.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, December 23

The presage for this day, according to astrological tenets, is for much change and stirring about, with probable journeys and much application and industry in connection with the avocations of the holiday season. There may be some recognition or assistance from elderly persons or institutions, although this to a modest degree. Anxieties about letters with duplicity or fraud, is seen.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of some change or travel, probably in relation to work, which should prosper fairly through industry and application. There may be favors from elderly persons, but be on guard against fraud or trickery, especially in connection with letters or papers.

A child born on this day should be industrious, responsible and skilful in many directions, leaning to original research and invention. It may be fond of change and travel, and win the assistance of elderly persons or institutions.

"THE RIVALS"

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

Father Christmas, behind the great pot from whose gold, silver, copper and paper he hopes will come enough by Christmas to make all the needy happy, lifts his voice all over the land and sings out, "Come on and help be Santa Claus. Anybody can be! everybody can be. And find out what fun it is to be one. If you yearn for a thrill—here's one. Your heart will swell; your eyes will snap; you will smile in spite of yourself; you'll step brisker; life will be as good as bread and as tingley as champagne. I'm a big fat fellow, and I've gotten away with a heap of giving for Winters as many as the very flakes that come with it; but this year I'm not big enough, and I need help."

And though neither one looks a bit like a Santa Claus, two different sides of life are hustling for the honor of masquerading as the good old Saint whose game is for giving. One delves in a pocket-book that is as full of memories as an old house and as roomy as a circus-tent ("I wish I' heavens," says she, "that I had all the money that has ever been in it since it was new!") with celery-tops tickling her ear the while and bundles that are near giving up trying to hold themselves together until she sees her own door, and with the tips of worn gloves she brings out a bit for someone who is not "so lucky as I am, poor soul!" says she. The other tries to hold all of his expensive packages, done up in "the better stores!" on one arm, while a painted hobby-horse threatens to take a bite out of his hat, and feels for a neat and small—but oh how capable of expansion—bill-fold, and brings out something fine "for Sweet Charity," says he.

And Santa Claus can't see any difference between them to save his soul; and they both look just like himself! You see the difference in size of their gifts just isn't the point at all, at all.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Don't Be a 'Slave to Your Appetite'

DR. COPELAND

You know lots of friends who are never without what is called "acid stomach," or "heartburn." It is one of the most common of ailments.

It is a sad thing that human nature is just what it is. It is strange how many grown people are slaves to their appetites. If they never ate the foods they know to be bad for them, if they never overate or indulged at the wrong time, we would rarely hear of acid stomach.

When we are in good health the gastric juice, which has so much to do with good digestion, does not form between meals. Just as soon as we begin to eat, the juice begins to flow. It is getting ready for the digestion of the food when that material reaches the stomach.

At times, for some reason, the natural action of the gastric juice may be disturbed. The acid of that fluid may flow in too large quantities, and this is known as "hyperacidity." At other times it flows in too small quantities. This is called "hypoacidity."

The symptoms of hyperacidity vary. The most common are a feeling of fullness and weight in the abdomen, belching of gas and food after eating, headache and sickness at the stomach.

Nervousness is an important factor in producing this condition. It is most apt to occur when one is tired, overworked or overexcited. You eat hurriedly, carelessly, or too much, and then heartburn appears.

Many physicians believe that constipation, with its accompanying poisons which are developed in the intestinal tract, have much to do in producing this condition. Digestion is retarded. More acid is developed than is needed to digest a meal. Discomfort follows.

For those troubled with this condition, foods high in flavor and rough in texture should be avoided. Strong seasonings, whole grains, and seeds of berries, as well as the fiber of raw or cooked vegetables are too irritating for the sensitive stomach. Such foods should be strained.

Bland foods, such as eggs, custards, cream and cottage cheese, fine cereals, soups and ice cream, are always acceptable. Fish is easily digested. Some may take meat in small quantities.

Milk in some form should be your protein standby. This may be whole milk, buttermilk or "acidophilus" milk.

Every person needs plenty of food, as well as variety, to supply all the necessary food values.

Do not starve yourself even if you have hyperacidity.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Phil Veritzen Is Unaware of Opposition

I shall not soon forget that hurried dash down the corridor of the hotel from our suite to the service elevator.

Lillian delayed us only for an instant's hurried kiss from her husband, and the jerky adjuration not to forget to have Katherine telephone when we started back. We found ourselves safely in the service elevator, with Purnell, the importance of his office solemnly investing him, at the lever.

"The taxicab is waiting," he said in a hushed voice which would have been invaluable to a mortician, "and the garage man said your car would be ready in six minutes instead of seven."

"Ataboy," Mr. Underwood said, and slipped a bill into Purnell's coat pocket.

"You'll have another like it tomorrow," he told the delighted darkey, and in another minute we were traveling the dim basement corridors of the hotel, Purnell leading the way, until we came out upon the back street, where the taxicab was waiting.

"Go back upstairs," Mr. Underwood directed, "and find out if Mr. Veritzen is yet gone. If he is still in the lobby, do not telephone, but the second he drives off in his car you can call up our garage and say, 'Please tell Mr. Underwood his friend has just gone.' If we're already gone so much the better. Do you get the idea?"

"Oh, yes, sir, I gets you," Purnell said, and then we were in the taxicab and speeding toward the garage, three blocks away.

"Any message?" Mr. Underwood asked the man waiting by our car, into which we tumbled hastily.

"No, sir." And then Dicky said softly to his friend.

"Suppose we run into him before we turn off from the bridge to the north side."

Mr. Underwood did not speak for the fraction of a second. Then he beckoned the man who had serviced the car.

"Do you want to make a ten spot for an hour's work?"

"You bet," laconically.

"Then drive this boat to Flushing."

"Sure thing. I'll be back with my coat in a second."

He ran into the garage, and we could hear him calling to another man to take care of things for an hour or so. The next minute he was out again, and in the driver's seat, while Harry Underwood and Dicky on either side of me, had pulled down the curtains so that we could not be seen from the outside.

"It's the best we can do," Mr. Underwood said. "I don't believe old Phil would know the car, although Otto would if he lamped it. But, not recognizing the driver, he might not say anything about it. Otto's faithful, but I don't think much of his brain processes, and I don't believe Phil tells him any more than is necessary."

We made good time to the bridge. We were within a block of the turn when I clutched Dicky's arm excitedly.

"Isn't that the Veritzen car, just turning, a block ahead?"

Mr. Underwood took his eye from the curtain, looked ahead, and promptly climbed over the back of the seat to a place beside the driver.

"Here's your ten spot, buddy," he said, "and you don't need to go to Flushing. Just ease out now before traffic starts."

The man obeyed and Mr. Underwood slipped into the vacant seat.

I have watched him drive before, so I was not surprised when the big car sprang forward. In a few seconds we were on the bridge.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

While high heels are deplorable and senseless, no heels at all are not the right idea, since they provide no support for the instep. Heels of moderate height are the proper notion. They remove strain from the calves of the legs. Practically all foot ills are due to badly fitted shoes, booties that are too short or too narrow.

Little dearhearts that have been painting their cheeks the color of fire engines are getting back to pre-war complexions. Dark rouge is used, but used lightly, as it were. Only a film is deposited on the cheeks. It begins pretty well up on the eyelid, never drops lower than the earlobe. No more cherry lips; they've all taken over the raspberry tone, a purplish red that is akin to the natural color.

Moth patches will pack up and quit the premises only when strong bleaches are used. Moles should be treated by a medical man, since some are inclined to be malignant when tampered with. Scars, if not too deep, sometimes give up the ghost when anointed nightly with ointment of zinc oxide. Castor oil causes warts to do a fade-away.

If you are doubtful as to the whitening effect of lemon juice, plunge your finger tips into lemon pulp after you have cleaned the kitchen stove or have done other messy work. The surface of the skin is cleared of soil and stains in half a minute. When using lemon juice as a freckle bleach combine with an equal portion of rosewater; apply with pledget of absorbent cotton.

RESORT CLOTHES GIVE GLIMPSE OF WHAT SPRING WILL BRING

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—In the winter our sartorial fancy brightly turns to thoughts of spring. And there is the call of the Southland where June displaces January and bathing suits are closer to us than fur coats. Already the leading houses are emphasizing their Southland collections, collections that are not only replete with novelties but are interesting because of their prophetic glimpses of what the spring will bring. Fur is used for formal clothes destined to grace the Riviera, Palm Beach, Havana and those other delectable spots that dot the traveller's dairy. And hand-knit woolen sweaters and jackets in interesting color combinations are also featured. No doubt there will be many more novelties as collections become more complete and diversified. The new resort clothes are, above all, eminently wearable and it is quite easy to picture them for town wear when spring dances blithely along the city streets.

THE CLOTHES SKETCHED for today are all destined to grace the Southland and are all interesting, new and most practical. The hat from Patou is in red felt with perforated holes all over the crown and along the edge of the brim. The brim itself is of black felt and the crown is lined with black felt so that the perforations show black against the red for all the world in the best polka dot fashion. With the hat is worn a delightful sweater outfit. The sweater, white and sleeveless, is hand-knit in a soft Shetland wool with a design of small flowers in black and red. The hand-knit jacket is of red Shetland with a border of black and white flowers along the lower edge and on the sleeves. The jacket is straight and reaches just below the hips. This alluring knitted ensemble is from the Maison Trois.

LUCILE IS SHOWING a most comprehensive collection of modes for Southern wear of which the ensemble here sketched is a most characteristic example. It is called "San Remo" and would be quite at home neath the sunny Italian skies that favor that resort. The afternoon ensemble is of a light weight fancy woolen material in a warm shade of yellow with collar and melon cuffs of mole dyed brown. The coat is seven-eighths length and is very slightly drawn in at the waistline. Stitched bands at the cuffs and stitched piecings at the side and back of the coat give a smartly tailored air, something that is not always present in winter resort clothes. The skirt is box-pleated in front only.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Correct Stationery

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly tell me if the envelope accompanying this letter is one to be used by a gentleman only? If the envelope itself does not reach your desk, you can judge the size by the fold of this paper. M.

The envelope did reach me, for I open all the letters addressed to me, and it does seem of a size appropriate to a gentleman's letter paper. Indeed, I am not very enthusiastic about this large one-sheet paper for social use. And still it is not exactly incorrect. To my taste, however, it takes all the interesting and artistic appearance from a social letter. Do you agree?

Formal Dress

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am invited to a wedding reception and dinner which is in the afternoon. Will you please tell me what to wear for this occasion? Would a sleeveless and ankle length frock do?

No. You should wear a day dress, a formal day dress with sleeves, to an afternoon wedding.

FLORIDA ORANGES

...just as juicy as they are good

If you want juice in oranges—if you want economy in price—buy Florida oranges. An abundant crop of small Florida oranges this year affords you a perfect combination of juice and economy. They're plumb full of tree-ripened flavor. You can recognize them by their extra weight—you will remember them by their glorious goodness. Florida oranges come in the larger sizes as well—all one quality.

Ask for Florida oranges once and you will demand them always. One taste and you'll never forget Florida oranges! Florida Citrus Growers Clearing House Association, Winter Haven, Florida.

EX-SHOW GIRL ILL OF POISON

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Alexander Carr, wife of the comedian and herself a former "Follies" beauty, has been taken to Bellevue Hospital suffering from an overdose of sleeping potion. Her condition was reported not serious.

Mrs. Carr has been living in Haven avenue with her two children, Paul, a son by a former marriage, and Briene Beverly Carr, 3-years-old.

Physicians said the potion taken by Mrs. Carr was not of a nature to prove fatal even in large quantities, but in taking an overdose Mrs. Carr had been made ill.

THIRD VICTIM OF FEUD DIES

JACKSON, Ky., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The death of Perce Gabbard, 27, was the third fatality from a stabbing and shooting affray growing out of a Breathitt County feud. His son, Wilton Gabbard, 20, died Saturday of knife wounds, and Isaac Little, 55, was shot to death.

Four youths are held on first degree murder charges. They are Ed Turner, 23, and three brothers, Fred Little, 26; George Little, 22, and Herman Little, 20. They will be arraigned tomorrow. The Little brothers are sons of Isaac Little, in whose home all were arrested.

AID DRIVES NET $42,576,202

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Community chest drives in 122 American cities this year netted $42,576,202 for relief, health and welfare agencies—an increase of $3,669,593 or 10 per cent more than last year—it was announced last night in a letter to President Hoover by the National Association of Community Chests and Councils. The letter was sent by Allen T. Burns, executive director.

Unemployment was stressed in the 1930 drive for funds.

Poison Rum Kills Jail Prisoner, Brother Ill

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Forty-five minutes after he was placed in the city jail on a charge of intoxication, Charles Foul, 39, of Huntington, was dead. After an examination, Coroner F. K. Schuller said death was due to alcoholic poisoning.

His brother, Robert Foul, 49, arrested at the same time, was taken to a hospital where physicians reported he probably would recover.

Police said an attempt to learn from Robert the source of the whisky he and his brother drank has failed.

URGES MARITAL COMMONSENSE

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—With 23 years of matrimonial experience behind him, Dr. William Lyon Phelps has concluded that marriages would be longer and happier if the high contracting parties "would give as much attention to the art of living as they give to the perfection of a good golf stance."

Mrs. Phelps smiled and nodded her approval of the observation of the Yale professor. He continued:

"There are no hard and fast rules for being happily married except the application of ordinary common sense and mutual consideration. Being happily married is merely the development of the art of living to its superlative degree. Really I cannot see how any one could fail to attain it with the exercise of a little serious thought to the requirements of marriage."

The professor, who is vacationing here with his wife, characterized the celebration of their thirty-eighth wedding anniversary as "the happiest and most exciting of all my wedding anniversaries, second only to my wedding day itself."

RECALLS HIS SIX DEATH DINNERS

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Strange as it may seem, Samuel Washington, Negro, today was looking back with regrets to the days of his six escapes from hanging in 1925.

Washington had just been informed by police that since his last contact with them, Joe Stein, a restaurateur near the county jail, had died. He commented:

"That is too bad. Mister Stein used to put out a mighty fine chicken dinner, and I had six of 'em in my time. He used to give the condemned man a chicken dinner before the hanging. I was six times in the death cell and got a dinner each time. Shut they always reprieved me, and finally I got a pardon. But I remember them dinners."

Washington was referred to the time the authorities tried to hang him for slaying his wife. Arrested yesterday as a suspect in a theft case he had feigned somehow to re-establish his contact with Stein, only to have the police give him the bad news.

MOTHS MENACE WILBUR TROPHY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A giant buffalo head adorning the office of Secretary of the Interior Wilbur today was near joining the other ghosts of the vanished herds of the West.

Moths again had opened their attack upon the shaggy ornament and appeared more deadly to the thick-haired pelt than the bullets of Buffalo Bill to the original wearer.

Instructions were sent out to bring in a spray gun and a strong insecticide to turn back the destroyers.

Swallows Poison Taken to Hospital

Suffering from the effects of poison swallowed, police said, with suicidal intent near his home last night, David Laus, 29, of 416 Grove street, was in the Passavant Hospital today. He faces a disorderly conduct charge upon his release from the hospital, according to police.

CUBS RUN AWAY WITH WINTER FLAG

CINCINNATI USED TO win the National League pennant every winter. The Reds were never out of first place from the end of one season until the start of another. But this time Rogers Hornsby has succeeded in getting a big jump on them, and they'll have a hard time heading him off. The Cubs have the flag sewed up already, according to their new skipper. He doesn't say so in so many words, but when the various claims and predictions he makes are put together and summed up the race appears to be as good as over before it has even begun.

Pat Malone

Hornsby bases his optimism on the paper strength of his augmented pitching staff, and he starts off with Pat Malone. He predicts Pat will be the leading pitcher of the league and says he looks for him to win 25 games. Rogers may cash in on that prophesy. Malone was the only hurler in the circuit to win 20 or more games in each of the last two seasons and is a good bet any time he starts. But Hornsby doesn't stop there. He is only getting started. He takes up Charley Root next and figures the latter surely will be good for 20 victories. That makes 45 victories that Malone and Root are to turn in through their combined efforts.

THE BRUIN BOSS then mentions Sheriff Blake, says he has as much stuff as any one, declares he knows he can correct some of the things Blake has been doing wrongly, and forecasts 20 wins for the Sheriff. That's 65. The Cubs are more than half way in already. Passing along to Bob Smith, Hornsby says he won't work as often as some of the others but that he won't fail to capture 15 decisions at least. This gives the Bruins a total of 80 in the "Won" column.

Chicago ought to be able to walk in from this point, but Rogers is making it good and safe. Guy Bush also may be depended upon for 15, he says, and he adds that he will be greatly surprised if Bob Teachout doesn't win the same number in view of "what that boy showed me last fall!" Eighty and 30 make 110. That ought to settle the thing beyond the ghost of a doubt, but Hornsby hasn't finished. He adds that Jakie May and Ed Baecht certainly will win at least six each. That gives a grand total of 122 games the Cubs have won without throwing a ball, and with a little help from Sweetland, Werneke and his remaining hurlers Rogers should have no trouble gathering in the other 32.

BOXING PEOPLE OUT on the coast were so pleased at the way Frank Moran handled the game in the Los Angeles district before he resigned his post as chief inspector there that they took up a collection to buy a medal for him.

Frank Moran

Furthermore, promoters and others testifying before the State Board of Inquiry that has been investigating conditions in the glove game for the governor of California said there would be no cause to fear for the future of the sport if the methods of the former Pittsburgh heavyweight were followed everywhere.

THE CALIFORNIA investigation, by the way, brought out interesting testimony, that of Jack Doyle, dean of Los Angeles promoters, for instance. He said that the gallery god is the backbone of the boxing game, and that as soon as the gallery patron gets his feet back on the ground financially the sport will boom again overnight. He expressed the belief that boxing will come back strong again in California after the first of the year, but felt that the fans preferred the old four-round game to the present 10-round limit.

"THE GAME ITSELF is all right, but the undesirables should be weeded out," Doyle told the investigators. "Fully 75 per cent of the boxers could do their own business. The other 25 per cent we could do without. I do not say that managers should be dropped altogether, but a great many of them could be forgotten about.

Every boxer should be examined physically and mentally before being granted a license. In that way the riff-raff could be eliminated. Managers, too, should be subjected to some sort of examination before licenses are granted to them."

IN CHICAGO CHARITY sports the Young Stribling-Tuffy Griffiths boxing show drew $68,000, but all that the poor got out of it was $5,000 in contrast to more than $20,000 derived from the Chocolate-Battalino benefit card in New York. An indoor football game drew $15,000, but charity's bit was only $2,000. It remained for a basketball program staged by the Associated Catholic Charities of Chicago to set the high mark.

Eddie Roush

With Carideo, Leahy and O'Brien, Notre Dame gridders, playing for one of the floor teams, it attracted 12,000 spectators, the largest crowd that ever watched a basketball game in the Windy City, and drew $11,000 in gross receipts. Less than $1,000 sufficed to cover promotion expenses, and more than $10,000 was turned over to charity, or $3,000 more than the boxing show and the football game combined.

WHETHER EDDIE ROUSH, veteran outfielder, plays ball next year or not, he is done as a Giant. If he decides to return to the game after a year in holdout retirement he will be found wearing a uniform other than that of the New York Nationals. Official information to that effect comes from Manager John McGraw, who says that Roush has his permission to make terms with another club if he wishes to do so, and that the price asked for his release by the New York club will not be high. Roush's salary last year was slashed from $22,000 to $15,000, and he remained idle rather than accept the $7,000 cut. Eddie will be 38 next May but says he has kept himself in top-top condition and believes he is still able to play big league ball.

THAT THE FIVE non-draft minor baseball leagues were not as solidly a unit as they professed to be in rejecting the major league's ultimatum and referring a breaking off of relations to an acceptance of the draft, is indicated by the action of the American Association in voting to accept the majors' proposal and renew business dealings.

It did not take this one league to realize that it could not hope to operate profitably without selling players to the big show, and it will not be surprising if the association's lead is followed soon by one or more of the four other circuits involved—the International, Pacific Coast and Western Leagues and Southern Association. The Western League may be next and probably they'll all be in within a year at the outside. Under the new draft terms the majors agree to pay $7,500 for each player drafted from the Double A loops and not to take a player in that way until he has had at least four years' experience in organized ball.

HARLEM TOMMY MURPHY, now 45 and out of the ring for 16 years, but in his day one of the leading lightweights of the country,

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 22.—(A.P.)—Four Argentine polo players, Diego Cavanagh, Juan Bemiltz, Daniel Kearney and Luis Duggan, left here yesterday for Chile, en route to California, where they will compete in winter tournaments at the invitation of the Midwick Polo Club. The Argentines will play as the El Pampero team.

FOUR TARTANS PLACED ON FIRST TEAM

By JESS CARVER.

When jammed into a spot where I have to pick an all-star team of any sort, I am reminded of the story of the football coach whose team had just finished one of those character-building seasons—losing six or eight games.

It was after the final game, the team had been walloped unmercifully by a bitter rival and the alumni were on the howl.

The coach was broke; his contract expired with the last game and he didn't even have enough money to get home. He was slinking from the Stadium when he ran across an alumnus.

Photos by Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

Bob Garbark Earl Ewing

"Hey, Charley," he called, "lend me a nickel will you, so I can call up one of my friends?"

Without halting, the alumnus handed him a dime, with this slaying crack:

"Here's a dime, call both of 'em."

TOUGH ON SCRIBES

Scribes are in the same fix. You can't please 'em all, in fact, you can't please half of 'em. It's a bum rap and a hard one to beat.

Despite the fact that the tri-state district did not have a major eleven that made more than a passing impression (Pitt, Tech, West Virginia and Wash-Jeff) and only one or two outstanding Class B teams, there was a fine array of crackerjack individual performers.

Linemen such as Highberger, Rosenzweig, Flanagan and Ducanis and Sample, of Tech; Quatse, Lewis, Daugherty and Tully, of Pitt; Levine, McNeil and Cochrane, of Wash-Jeff; Cantoni and Sofish, of Grove City, and Stauffer and Cooper, of Geneva, are not to be plucked from every bush. As for the backs, the ice-bound heart of any coach would thaw were he to have men such as Battles, Knapik, Eyth, Ewing, Garbark, Hood, Karcis, Doyle, Wilson and Pusch to choose from.

Thanks to oddles and oddles of help and advice from prominent coaches, officials (and even a few players) I've ventured to select an all-district team. It may come as a distinct shock to the boys at Pitt to find that there isn't a Panther on the first eleven. Probably I'll not get a Christmas card. Oh, well, this life isn't all a bed of roses.

From a fine list of ends, McNeil, of Wash-Jeff, and Latham (Pete) Flannagan, of Carnegie Tech, are given the edge. McNeil's play, especially on the defense, was of sterling character all season. Pete Flanagan was outstanding in Tech's play, his work against Notre Dame, Temple and Wash-Jeff being especially brilliant. Both are stronger on the defense than on the attack.

KEMP FINE TACKLE

It was difficult to select two tackles from the list comprising Tully and Quatse, of Pitt; Highberger, of Tech; Kemp, of Duquesne; Levine, of Wash-Jeff; Cooper, of Geneva; Sp tafore, of West Virginia Wesleyan; Irvin, of Davis-Elkins, and McManus, of Allegheny. Kemp and Highberger had everything a good tackle needs. Highberger was one of the outstanding linemen of the East. Kemp has played fine football for three years at Duquesne, and this year was a tower of strength on the Duke line.

Cantoni, Grove City's fine guard, and Stauffer, sturdy Geneva linemen, were very valuable

BUTLER SCORES GATE RECEIPTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, in his annual report, has suggested a permanent endowment by alumni "to bring to an end the importance of gate receipts and put baseball, golf, rowing and football on an equal basis."

Calling attention to current criticism of the manner in which intercollegiate athletics, especially football, are conducted, Dr. Butler said:

"The enormous cost of football and the enormous revenues produced are a constant and justifiable source of academic as well as public criticism.

"If all colleges would consistently restrict themselves to participants of undoubted academic qualifications and without any financial inducement or assistance to participate in athletics, the situation would be simple. Upright institutions are punished on the playing fields.

"The public knows little or nothing about all this and assumes that a student is everywhere a student and that there are no elements of difference between the contestants save skill.

"An outright, adequate and permanent athletic endowment by the alumni would at one stroke bring to an end the importance and influence of gate receipts and put baseball, golf, rowing and football on an equal basis."

He suggested an athletic league of nations might be needed to end the abuses he sees threatening the whole scheme of intercollegiate athletics. He said:

"Columbia must remain one of those colleges which pays the penalty, if penalty it be, of insisting on the primacy of intellectual ideals and intellectual accomplishments."

BUTLER PLAN PRAISED

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Views of prominent educators with regard to formation of an "Athletic League of Nations," proposed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler to provide a free gate at college contests, were published in the New York Times today.

Dr. Ernest M. Hopkins, president of Dartmouth College, said the proposal was worth considering, but expressed doubt that alumni endowment was the proper remedy. He added that there was some hysteria about overemphasis of football.

Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown, of New York University, said such an organization was "extremely desirable."

Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania, said the suggestion was entitled to sympathetic consideration.

Dr. Frank Aydelotte, head of Swarthmore College, pledged his support on the basis of a brief account of the plan, but thought the evils of academic sports came from spectators.

BY TOM BERKS

The point systems was the means of deciding the championship, each team getting two points for a win, and one for a tie. With the point garnered yesterday, the Majestics finished one point ahead of the McKeesport Olympics in the final standing.

SEASON CLOSED

With the playing of yesterday's game the curtain was rung down on the independent grid season, and it was decidedly successful. The final game brought out a poor crowd, the wintry weather and icy roads causing the fans to stay at home. Only 500 fans braved the cold.

Ambridge seemed all pepped up, but the Majestics refused to become excited, feeling that a tie was as good as a win.

The Big Green machine never was within scoring distance. Zaneski, the Ambridge halfback, played a great game, doing some fine punting.

Rooney started practically his second string players, and when the Black and White had outplayed this outfit, the North Side mentor rushed his first team into action at the beginning of the second half. But they made little difference. The Ambridge line was charging fast, and if P. J. Caul could keep that outfit on the field he would have a great team in the future.

BALL SLIPPERY

Shelton, Zaneski, Sheppard and Almquist were playing hard, but when Jimmy Rooney entered the game, the Majestics had a little more of the play, although Jimmy did not set the world on fire with his punts. The slippery and icy ball possibly kept down his usually splendid kicking.

The game became one of throwing passes and punting on the Majestics. Running the ball was tried rarely. Ambridge did attempt to advance the ball through the line, but these efforts amounted to little.

Zaneski was the Black and White star. He showed that his selection of the second all-star Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph team was no error.

None of the Majestics stood out unless it was the hard playing of Harp Vaughan, their safety man. The lineup:

CHEVAL DE TROIE WINS

MARSEILLES, France, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Cheval De Troie won the Parc Bolley stakes, a steeplechase of two miles and a quarter, which featured the racing card here yesterday. Cheval De Troi won by two lengths from Sea Rover, with Hannibal third in a field of 10 starters. The race was worth $2,250 to the winner.

ZANESKI, AMBRIDGE HALFBACK, IN ACTION AGAINST MAJESTICS

NATIONAL LEAGUE

LAST NIGHT'S RESULT

N. Y. Americans	4—Detroit

By CARL W. SHATTO.

The Yellow Jacket ironmen, worn and somewhat emaciated as a result of 15 days of feeding on boarding house fare, will attempt to put on a little weight where they need it most—in the win column—as they feast on home cooking during the next two weeks.

Since they left on an invasion of enemy territory, two weeks and five games ago, the local puckmen have appeased their appetites for victory only twice, and on one of these occasions they had to share the win delicacy with the Syracuse Stars. The Jackets, therefore, are just as hungry for triumphs as local fans are to see their favorites in action again, and the Windsor Bulldogs will have to do some fast skating and clever stick-handling to spoil the Roger Smith and Tex White homecoming celebration at Duquesne Garden tomorrow night.

TEAM IN SHAPE

Although the long road trip just concluded was not without its disappointments, it was far from a disastrous tour. The Jackets returned in sixth place, just where they were when they departed, and Cleveland, Detroit and London, the teams just ahead of them in the standings, were able to add little or nothing to their advantage. Furthermore, no more names were added to the hospital list, and Duke McCurry and Gordy Fraser who were on the shelf when the locals started their jaunt, may be able to return to action against Windsor tomorrow.

Buffalo and Windsor have strengthened their grasp on first and second place, respectively, during the last fortnight, but the Jackets gained a victory and a tie in two previous meetings with the fast-traveling, second-place Bulldogs, and they are confident that they can turn the trick again.

AID TO LOCALS

Although defensemen, Fraser and McCurry both are capable attackers, and their return to the lineup is almost certain to strengthen the locals in all departments.

Syracuse, Buffalo and Detroit are to follow Windsor into Pittsburgh before the Jackets leave town again. The Stars are to play here next Saturday night.

Disabled war veterans in the Marine Hospital, who are to be guests of the Pittsburgh club at tomorrow's game, will help Jacket followers to make the welcome for White and Smith, oldtime local ice favorites, one of warmth.

DETROIT COPS, 4-1

MONTREAL, Dec. 22.—Roy Brothers, who pilots the London Tecumsehs when he is not burning up the wires in search of new talent to introduce to the customers, probably is looking for another new set of players. Last night at Olympia he tossed a new quartet of National League chattels at the weakened Detroit Olympics and took it on the well-known chin, 4 to 1.

CLEVELAND VICTOR

SYRACUSE, Dec. 22.—A second period rally which amounted to an Indian massacre gave Cleveland an International Hockey League victory over Syracuse here last night. The score was 6 to 4.

MANERO COPS $4,000 OPEN

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Tony Manero, New York professional, won the Pasadena $4,000 open golf tournament yesterday with a card of 72-71-74—69—287. The New Yorker played the last 18 holes in two under par and led his nearest competitor by two strokes to win the biggest slice of the money, $1,000.

Mortie Dutra, Long Beach (Cal.) pro, finished second with 289 for the 72 holes, while Herman Barrow, Port Chester, N. Y., professional, and Al Espinosa, Chicago pro, tied for third money with cards of 290.

Army, Navy Likely To Reach Agreement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—With the Army-Navy atmosphere decidedly cleared as the result of the amicable relations at the West Point-Annapolis charity game, a permanent settlement of the dispute between the two service schools appeared assured here last night.

Although no discussions have taken place since the contest, it is understood that one is contemplated for the immediate future. Heads of both institutions are strongly influenced, it is learned, by the vigorous desire of both student bodies and of the Army and Navy officers of the service at large for a resumption of relations.

High officials of both institutions are now known to feel there is definite possibility of reaching an agreement.

Sport Vignettes

"Paddy Harmon, the late boxing promoter, of Chicago, is going to be missed by a lot of folks when next Christmas rolls around . . . . Paddy did a lot of quiet philanthropy each Christmastide . . . . He particularly liked to bring joy into the hearts of the kids, because he remembered some bleak Christmases in his own days . . . . His family was pitifully poor and Santa Claus didn't mean a thing except as some mythical figure who, somehow, saw to it that other kids got gifts of candy and toys . . . 'I remember one Christmas eve when I was about 3 or 4 years old,' Paddy once related, 'and my sister and I were standing out in the cold and snow in front of a toy store with our noses pressed against the glass, looking at the pretty toys inside. I suppose you have seen cartoons that must have pictured us faithfully . . . . There was a small, gaudy horse on rollers that I would have sold my life to get. It was dapple gray and had a yellow saddle on it, I remember . . . . I guess we were looking pretty longingly at the things, because a man came along and took pity on us and asked us if we'd like to have some of the things in the window . . . . Did we? Well, the thought was so overpowering that we couldn't speak, so he took us inside and loaded us down with candy and toys and sent us galloping home in joy. And I got the horse! . . . . When I grew older, it used to almost break my heart to see other poor kids standing in front of toy store windows that way. I knew how they felt, so when I got to making money I tried to do my bit toward making the world a little brighter place for them . . . . The man who saw to it that I got that dapple gray horse with the rollers and a yellow saddle was my first real Santa Claus, and the least I can do now is to be one of Santa Claus' helpers.'"

Christmas was meant for the kids, after all. Perhaps you can be one of those who will take up the burden that Paddy Harmon laid aside when he died from injuries suffered in an automobile accident last summer.

Bill Roper, long-time Princeton football coach, now an "ex," predicts the death of football within five years because of its drudgery. . . . Funny how anything is all right as long as we're in it, but, as soon as we're on the outside looking in, it suddenly becomes all wrong. . . . It's a matter of perspective, pure and simple. . . . When you read in the papers the spring training plans of the big league baseball clubs, then, and only then, may you be sure the football season is over. . . . And, along about the same time, the old draft gag of baseball does a fadeout, because there's other and more important baseball news to be printed.

Jess Carver's story of the Pitt-Notre Dame football game appears in the annual record of gridiron achievements of the Irish, just published. . . . Jimmy Kelly, the hard-hitting and popular young welterweight, of Dayton, O., who has gone home to rest over the holidays following his technical knockout defeat by Eddie Brannon in the main bout at the Moose Temple, last Friday night, is going to seek a return bout with Brannon when he returns. . . . He attributes his defeat to weakening himself by making a low weight. . . Jimmy is normally a 142-45-pounder, but he agreed to make 139½ for Brannon and scarcely ate during the last two days before the bout, coming in at the exact figure. . . . The bout, incidentally, drew the first capacity crowd of the season at the Moose, with a gross gate of $1,950, a fine tribute to the punching prowess of Kelly. . . . Jackie Rodgers attracted the second best house, the week before, when he stopped Soldier Dombrowski to the tune of a $1,433 boxoffice. . . . Jackie will be back in the Moose ring Friday night of next week, likely against Midget Mike O'Dowd.

Boston fans are looking forward to the appearance of our own Fritzie Zivic in the international inter-city tournament to be staged there next Monday night, with amateur boxers from Boston, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Halifax competing. . . . How about the girl who was prominent in social circles because her mother was a Daughter of the American Revolution and her father owned a merry-go-round? —HARRY KECK.

DUNDEE 10-6 CHOICE OVER M'TIERNAN

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Edgar Sterling vs. Willie Quinn and Joe Miller vs. Dennis Moore, 8 rounds each, Chicago.

By HARRY KECK.
Sports Editor.

Vince Dundee, of Newark, N. J., brother of Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion of the world, has been installed a 10-6 favorite to defeat Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, in their 10-round battle that will feature the Christmas matinee card at Motor Square Garden. The wise men of the game locally who make the odds on bouts are banking on Dundee's experience and his pull in the weight to bring him home in front.

Meanwhile, McTiernan is working as he never worked before to prime himself for the test. The fact that he is the short-ender is rather to his liking, for it gives him an added incentive. He believes that in the past too much has been expected of him by the ring followers because of the extravagant praise that was heaped upon him as a prospect from the time he first appeared as a professional performer.

CAPACITY CROWD SEEN

McTiernan went through another hard drill in the Homewood A. C. gymnasium yesterday and has two more tough sessions carded for today and tomorrow. He will taper off on Wednesday. Dundee is due in town Wednesday morning and the pair are scheduled to weigh in at 10 a. m., the following day.

Interest in this show is such that it is almost a foregone conclusion that the Garden will play to the best Christmas turnout of its history.

A change has been ordered in the preliminary card by the boxing commission, which has decreed that Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, must be released from his contract to meet Jimmy McGraw, of Wheeling, in the second bout so he can go through with a windup against Buddy Stewart, of Canton, O., for Ray Eberle in the Rialto Theater, Aliquippa, the same afternoon. It appears Belmont accepted the latter match before he closed for the Garden battle, although he didn't sign the papers. Matchmaker Jules Beck, of the Garden, is undecided whether to line up another opponent for McGraw or make an entirely new match.

TRIPPE IN SEMI-FINAL

Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., boxes Billy Holt, of Homewood, in the eight-round semi-final at the Garden, while Don Frazier, of the Hill, and Angelo Vergione, of Swissvale, are in the opener.

Promoter Apples Meyers, of the Moose Temple, is lining up two preliminaries to complete his card for Friday night. He has Tommy Crawley, of the South Side, and Andy Andrucci, of the East End, in the main bout, and Al Becker, Sheraden middleweight, and Billy Flanagan, of Clearfield, Pa., in the semi-final.

Jimmy Brink, of the Tommy Phillips A. C., and Joe Perrung, of the H. T. Little A. C., of Homestead, will box the heavyweight bout on the amateur card in Columbus Hall, North Side, tomorrow night.

Levinsky Breaks With Manager

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—King Levinsky, the Chicago fighter who rose from a fish peddler to fame by knocking out Leo Lomski, and his manager, Al Miller, have parted company. Levinsky's contract with Miller was voided by proving that the boxer is 20 years old rather than 23, the age he had claimed.

Mrs. Lena Levy, Levinsky's sister, has demanded an accounting of the $11,000 purse Levinsky received when he met Tommy Loughran. Six months ago Levinsky was appearing for $100 a bout.

BASEBALL WAR NEAR END

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Baseball's draft war, a fizzle from its inception, appears to have crashed on the rocks of isolation. Gen. Tom Hickey and his tame revolutionists of the American Association have hoisted the white flag of defeat and while there may be some sporadic firing from the far-western sector and from the International League, the secessionists are just about licked.

The Association was one of the strongest of the five leagues refusing to accept the ultimatum laid down to them by the majors. It is likely that the other four leagues will have capitulated before the season opens.

Any Pacific Coast League threat regarding a third major league or an outlaw belt should be taken with a grain of salt. There aren't enough ball-players of major skill for the two big circuits; moreover, the Pacific Coast has few major-league cities.

WRIGLEY MAY ACT

Owner Wrigley, of the Cubs, owns the Los Angeles club, and he may have other holdings in the faraway league; he could bring plenty of influence to bear if it were deemed necessary.

The Western League may come back into the fold any day. In fact, this league is said to be just about in. Some clubs of the class A wheel are believed to be owned by major league magnates, so why should they bite the hand that's feeding them?

All players of the association, under the terms of the proposal accepted, will be available to draft after having had four years of experience. The action of the officials of this league restores the relations between them and the majors.

COAST TO FALL IN LINE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—When the Pacific Coast Baseball League moguls meet in Los Angeles on January 9, it was predicted in baseball circles here today that the Coast League would follow the lead of the American Association in agreeing to accept the draft provisions as outlined by the major leagues.

It is believed here that the San Francisco and Sacramento clubs are the only ones in the league that object to the universal draft, the bone of contention between the majors and the double A minors.

Four Lion Gridders On All-North Team

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Dec. 22.—Four members of the Penn State football team have been granted faculty permission to participate in the North-South charity football game to be played in the Yankee Stadium Saturday. The men invited to line up with the Northern eleven are Sal Shawley, tackle; Mike Kaplan, end; Joe Miller, halfback, and Cooper French, quarterback.

TUTOR-COACHES PROJECT FAILS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The effort to amend the P. I. A. A. rule barring coaches who are not full-time members of the teaching faculties of their respective schools has apparently failed. While the official returns from the state will not be available until Friday, the Associated Press compilation of district returns shows that the amendment to the existing rule has failed of approval by a vote of 153 to 140.

This tabulation reveals that the amendment was voted down in five districts and approved in four. The other remaining district—the new Pittsburgh city group, which is now known as District No. 8—has not been organized yet, it was said at the state headquarters here. Whether the organization, necessitated by the regrouping of the schools in the former districts Nos. 7 and 8, would be effected during the next few days and a vote taken, was not officially indicated.

The Pittsburgh city group, however, is not large enough to swing the decision in favor of retaining non-teaching coaches and doubt regarding an unanimous vote in favor of the amendment was seen in the adverse 2-to-1 vote of District No. 7. This district comprises the bulk of the teams in the W. P. I. A. L., with which the Pittsburgh schools are affiliated.

IRISH SCHEDULE HARD TILTS

After glancing at next year's unofficial program it appears that Rockne is inclined to test the strength of his football teams by the games they should lose. Here's next year's schedule, which includes all of last year's 10 opponents with the exception of Southern Methodist:

October 3—Indiana at Bloomington.
October 17—Drake at South Bend.
October 31—Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh.
November 7—Pennsylvania at South Bend.
November 14—Navy at Baltimore.
November 22—Southern California at South Bend.
November 28—Army at New York.

CANTLON WINS RACE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Shorty Cantlon, Detroit, won the 100-lap feature race at the Legion-Ascot Speedway yesterday in 50 minutes 2⅝ seconds, lapping the field. It was Cantlon's third consecutive victory over the 62½-mile course. Walt May, of Southgate, Cal., finished second and Francis Quinn, Los Angeles, third.

STAPLETON COPS

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Ken Strong yesterday led his Stapleton football team to a 16-7 victory over Benny Friedman's New York Giants in a post-season game for the professional championship of New York. The two teams, during the regular season of the National Football League, had split even in two games.

CARLSON DENIES 'WALKOUT'

Pitt's varsity basketball team, home after its successful campaign in the Middle West, will put on a light workout this afternoon in preparation for the meeting with Dartmouth in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion tomorrow evening.

The Panthers, defeating Marquette, Nebraska and Ohio State and losing to Creighton while on the western tour, returned home with one member of the cast, Willie (Doc) Kowallis, nursing a bruised right arm and definitely out of the game with Dartmouth. Kowallis was cut down while attempting a shot against Creighton in Omaha Saturday night, and while the injury is not expected to be serious, the little star will not be available for duty against the Green.

Coach Carlson denied that he had told his players to leave the floor Saturday night against Creighton. He left the Pitt bench himself, protesting what he thought was poor work on the part of one of the officials, but did not tell the players to quit.

In a preliminary tussle, the Panther freshmen team will tackle Grover Washabaugh's South High quintet. The game will mark the first appearance of Georgie Kowallis' yearling aggregation.

Rockne to Be Guest Of Philly Scribes

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—(INS.)—Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame gridiron coach, has accepted an invitation to be a guest of honor at the annual Philadelphia Sporting Writers' Association dinner the night of January 22, Claire Hare, president of the scribes, announced today.

Basketball Rules Quiz

(This is the start of the final week of a daily series of 24 basketball problems such as may come up at any of the games this winter.)

PLAY NO 19.

A personal foul has been called on a Georgia Tech player, which gives Vanderbilt a multiple throw, and, before the first free throw has been attempted, a personal foul is called on a Vanderbilt player.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

This is not considered as a foul, with only one free throw awarded each team. Had the fouls been committed on the same play, each offense would have carried its own penalty. After the last free throw the ball is a jump ball at center.

ALL-DISTRICT TEAM PICKED

young men to their respective elevens. Canteni could have made a varsity job on any club in the district. He was fast, a hard charger and deadly tackler. He was equally strong on the attack and the defense. Stauffer was outstanding in the Tri-State Conference and played as consistent a game as any lineman in the district.

An accurate passer, alert and capable on the defense, and steady as Gibralter at all times, Alex Ducanis, of Tech, wins the nod for the center job over Hawley, of Davis-Elkins; Daugherty, of Pitt, and Ransom, of Geneva. Hawley might have been selected had he played center all fall, but it was necessary for Cam Henderson to shift the big Indian to the backfield in some games. Ducanis' work left little to be desired.

Now for the backfield. I love to pick backfields. It's like "no-ing" a mother-in-law. There were many fine backs in the section, good ball toters, blockers, kickers, passers and plungers.

At quarterback, big Cliff Battles, the giant West Virginia Wesleyan gets the call. He can kick, pass and run. He was a strong defensive player, and did not fail to get away for a touchdown run of some length in every game he played and was plenty smart.

At the halfbacks, how about Earl Ewing, of Geneva, at right half, clearing the way or helping to clear it, for Dutch Eyth, of Carnegie, at left? It would come close to equaling the Brill-Schwartz combination at Notre Dame. Ewing was one of the best blocking backs in the section, if not THE best. Eyth had no peer when it came to carrying the ball, either wide or inside, and he could pass accurately and cover his territory on the defense.

GARBARK IS STAR

Bob Garbark, Allegheny's powerful line buster, was as good a fullbacker as there was in the East. He could puncture any line. Not only that, but there were a lot of punters in the district who would have found it difficult to out-kick the Methodist ace. Garbark wins the fullback job, hands down.

Babe Kelleher, Duquesne's veteran lineman, who could play either guard or tackle, and did, is awarded the utility line job and Babe Corzine, Davis-Elkins' hard running back, is named as first reserve back.

For those kind and patient readers who are Bronx-cheering this team, how about this one as a second eleven:

Aultman and Joseph, ends; Tully and Levine, tackles; Dreshar and Lewis, guards; (I'll stick to Ducanis for center), and Knapik, Kavel, Kammer and Karcis in the backfield?

Is everybody happy? Oops, let's go!

OVERSIZE GOLF BALL FAVORED

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The new golf ball, the only one after January 1, has won its first skirmish with the men who earn their living playing it.

The revised larger and lighter ball was ruled standard equipment for the Pasadena open tournament and only pellets bearing the mark of 1931 were permitted. Results were favorable to the new model.

However, the final verdict from the professional will not be returned until a tournament is played when the wind is blowing. The Pasadena tourney was played in calm weather.

The scoring showed no change as a result of a change in balls. There were about the normal number of birdies, just as few eagles, and the run of the mine pars as in days of yore, when the ball was smaller and heavier.

The consensus of opinion was in favor of the oversize ball.

Basketball appears to be the best contributor to the cause of charity, judging from the proceeds derived from the various benefit athletic events being staged throughout the country in an effort to alleviate suffering brought about by the general depression.

Benefit boxing shows and benefit football games have been staged in various sections of the country, but reports indicate that the floor teams are contributing a much higher percentage of the gate receipts than their major sport rivals.

LITTLE FOR CHARITY

The recent Tuffy Griffiths-Young Stribling charity show in Chicago drew a gate of $88,000, of which charity received only $5,000, the remainder going for expenses. An indoor football game between Chicago Bears and Cardinals in the same city drew $15,000 and charity realized only $2,000, while another international game drew $100,000, of which only 10 per cent was given over to the cause for which it was arranged.

The recent Motor Square Garden benefit show, featuring K. O. Christner and George Panka, drew a fine house which contributed $3,610, yet after the boxers' purses and other expenses had been paid only $546 remained for charity.

In contrast to the benefits staged by boxing clubs and football teams, the Knights of Columbus in Chicago staged several basketball games to raise a total of $11,000, $10,000 of which was turned over to charity.

GIRLS DRAW $3,000

Last week at Duquesne University, the local chapter of the Fraternal Order of Police, assisted by Meyer Goldenson, sponsored a benefit game between the Goldenson Vanities and Fairmont Pirates which attracted a $3,000 gate, all of which was turned over to charity.

Another capacity crowd is expected at Duquesne University tonight when two West Penn League teams meet two Allegheny County League quintets in benefit games. The Mieles meet the Penn Five, while the Charleroi Merchants tackle the North Side Community. The Schneiders had been carded to meet Charleroi but had to withdraw at the eleventh hour.

The Duquesne Lafayettes will attempt to get back in the running for the County League title at Duquesne tonight when they oppose the league-leading Fintex passers.

EXTRA POINT CRITICIZED

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Abolition of the extra-point after touchdowns will be favored by Coach W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, president of the American Foootball Coaches' Association, when the coaches assemble for their annual meeting in New York a week from today.

The Dixie mentor, director of Georgia Tech's gridiron destinies since 1920, said he didn't plan to bring up the much-talked of extra point, but expected it to be one of the chief questions as the coaches prepare their recommendations for the rules committee.

Coach Alexander said he expected some 300 coaches from throughout the country to attend the New York meeting. Chick Meehan, of New York University, and Harry Stuhldreher, of Villanova, are in charge of the plans.

bemoans the lack of Queensberry finish and polish which he notes among the modern fighters. The particular fault he finds, he says, is that they don't know how to use their feet.

Pittsburgh fans will recall Murphy as having appeared twice in a local ring. B[illy] bouts were six-round no-decision affairs at Duquesne Garden, the first with Jimmy Dunn on June 15, 1909, and the other with Ad Wolgast on September 1, of the same year, less than six months before Wolgast won the world lightweight championship from Battling Nelson in their sensational 40-round battle at Port Richmond, Cal.

Abe Attell

"THEY'RE ALL THE same nowadays," Murphy says. "They don't know how to move around or to step out of danger, and there's no one to teach them. Why, I remember when I'd practice in a room by myself, counting one-two, one-two, with my feet 16 inches apart, and in the same position after stepping in or out as before. These days they don't know what it means. How different from Packey McFarland and Abe Attell. Stance and balance—they had 'em. When I fought Attell for 20 rounds on the coast he had a left hook that traveled only six inches to the kidney, but it'd knock you out. Most of these modern boys don't know anything. Nobody to teach them. One copies the other, and each succeeding generation gets worse, because nobody knows anything about boxing any more. It's a lost art, I tell you."

STOCK MARKET FLOATS DOWN QUIETLY

Selling Includes Profit-Taking and Income Tax Liquidation; Silver Up

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The stock market floated quietly downward today, as the fuel of short covering, which provided the momentum in last week's advance, appeared to have run dry.

A secondary reaction, after the widest rebound from last Tuesday's lows, was clearly in the making toward the end of last week. With the Christmas holidays breaking into this week, furthermore, traders found little incentive for endeavoring to press the recovery further. Selling presumably included profit taking on stock bought last week and the belated liquidation to establish losses for income tax purposes.

Encouraging developments were improvement in both copper and silver metal. The supply of domestic copper available at 10 cents a pound ran out, and consumers were bidding 10½ cents by early afternoon, with none available at that level. The seeming confidence with which large producers withdrew from the market when the metal recently failed to hold at 12 cents had indicated that metal would not long be available at 10 cents if they could help it.

Bar silver at New York was quoted ¼ of a cent higher at 32⅜ cents an ounce, after sagging further into new low ground last week. A sustained firmness in this metal would improve confidence in quarters where its low price is regarded as one of the very sore spots in the economic situation, with its severe impairment of Far Eastern purchasing power.

Sentiment in the oil industry, also suffering from acute price deflation, seems to be improving. W. S. Parish, president of Humble Oil and Refining Company, an important subsidiary of Standard of New Jersey, addressing a meeting of employes, said:

"The present business depression will, in my belief, end within six months. I believe history will bear me out that at no time has a business depression lasted for two years."

He added that no man would be put out of work whom "sincere efforts on our part can keep busy."

Credit rates were virtually stationary, with call loans renewing at 2 per cent.

Stock Exchange Topics

A. T. & T. Likely to Show $10.50 Per Share for Year 1930.

It is probable the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for 1930 will show net income of about $160,000,000 or $10.50 a share on about 16,000,000 average shares outstanding. That would compare with $166,189,136 or $12.67 a share on an average of only 13,113,746 shares in 1929. At the annual stockholders' meeting in March it is likely shareholders will be asked to ratify a proposal to increase authorized stock by about 8500,000,000 which would bring the total to $2,500,000,000.

Traction shares had another of their occasional flurries Saturday, in the course of which Brooklyn - Manhattan Transit, Interborough and Manhattan modified guaranteed went through a series of rather spectacular fluctuations. Wall Street has been hearing with increasing frequency of late that negotiations between New York City and traction representatives have reached a stage at which early announcement of the outcome of in prospect. Latest reports suggest that most of the details have been settled, with the only real bone of contention now involving the prices to be paid for the stocks of the three aforementioned companies. It is understood that that there is something of a spread between what the traction people want and what the city representatives offer, but with prospects bright for a compromise.

Directors of Anaconda Copper Mining Company are scheduled to meet Wednesday for action on the quarterly dividend due at that time. Much of the recent selling in the stock had been ascribed to the weakness which developed in the actual metal market last week, but not a little of the liquidation had been reputedly influenced by nervousness over the outcome of the approaching meeting. Feeling in usually well-posted circles was that the board would vote the regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents due at the forthcoming meeting, thus maintaining the $2.50 rate which has been in force since the rate was reduced several months ago.

In view of the changed price levels ruling on the stock exchange, the move by commission houses toward a reduction of margin requirements might have been looked upon as inevitable. Early last week there were approximately 260 common stocks moving in the market under the $10 level. Heretofore it has been a more or less steadfast rule, because of the indisposition of the banks to accept stocks at such prices as collateral for loans, for houses to demand full requirements of its customers in such stocks. That is trading in such issues had to be on a cash basis. But due to split-ups, stock dividends, etc., many stocks which were formally among the high-priced descriptions are now found in that category. Evidently the real significance behind the move by commission houses now to accept business in such stocks on a marginal basis lies in a change of policy in that respect so far as many low-priced issues are concerned.

New financing to date this year reveals the drastic change in character which might have been expected under the circumstances. The bear market in stocks finds reflection in a precipitate drop in the total of new stock offered, such offerings to date this year amounting to but $519,401,000, or only 18 per cent of the total of $2,881,685,000 in stock sold in the same period in 1929. Bond financing on the other hand expanded tremendously the total of $5,373,443,000 exceeding the 1929 total of $3,386,546,000 to this date by roughly 60 per cent. Bond financing by all divisions ran ahead of the 1929 rate, but the increase was due chiefly to much heavier offerings of state and municipals, utilities and foreign loans.

The chain store idea has successfully met its first severe test during 1930, according to a survey of this group. It is estimated that a total of 20 of the largest merchandisers will show a reduction of 1.2 per cent in their sales this year. This is probably due wholly to the sharp slump in commodity and goods prices, and profits when reported are expected to have held up relatively well. This analysis predicts that chain store balance sheets at the close of the year will reveal one common characteristic, namely drastic liquidation of inventories, with a consequent increase in cash holdings. The fact that shelves are relatively bare, will be of great assistance in stimulating manufacturing activity once the tide of business turns.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Curb prices turned reactionary today, but little stock was pushed for sale and the downward drift was hardly more than set to have been expected after last week's sharp rally. Trading was quiet.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted on sales columns of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Forbes

Big Financiers at Last Turn More Cheerful.

By B. C. FORBES

AT LAST something encouraging can be reported from New York. The acute nervousness which has gripped the financial community has appreciably subsided.

Mr. Forbes

The explanation is not that stocks have been going up in the last few days. It would be more correct to say that the change in sentiment helped to improve the stock market.

WHY ARE AMERICA'S leading bankers less apprehensive than they were one week or several weeks ago?

Until the beginning of last week several "situations" had been worrying the bankers who have been exerting themselves—more than the public realizes—to keep things moving along as even a keel as possible. While it remained open, the Bank of United States was viewed as a menace despite the optimistic stand taken by the state banking superintendent. "Runs" were harassing several institutions. When decisive action finally was taken, in the form of closing the Bank of United States, the whole atmosphere here speedily cleared. Panicky withdrawal of deposits has ceased.

Wall Street was flooded with rumors that brokerage failures were imminent. Whatever truth, if any, there may have been in such rumors, leading bankers last week assured me most earnestly that, so far as they knew, no disturbance of any kind was overhanging.

I LEARN that a better understanding has been reached among the nation's largest bankers and that co-operation, not jealousy and working at cross purposes, now rules.

THE STOCK MARKET'S sudden spectacular about face on Wednesday afternoon was not caused by organization of any banking pool. One inner circle banker declared:

"There has been no rescue party."

For some time every Tom, Dick and Harry had felt safe in selling stocks short. The high cost of borrowing certificates for delivery indicated that bear selling had attained very extensive proportions. The drastic extent of the decline reflected the same thing.

When a few bears decided to cash in some of their paper profits they discovered very little stock was for sale. Becoming alarmed, they clamored and climbed for stock. The consequent upturn stopped all forced liquidation. Hence the rise of some 14 points in average quotations from Wednesday's bottom to Saturday's peak.

IN THE HIGHEST circles there is no disposition to conclude cocksurely that the recovery will not sustain any setbacks. Hope, however, has largely supplanted apprehension. Reinvestment of the billion or more January 1 interest and dividend disbursements is counted upon to have a more or less steadying and strengthening influence during the next two or three weeks.

To express it differently: Whereas earlier in the month most heavyweights were not willing to bet even fifty-fifty that new low prices would not be recorded, odds now would be nearer three to one that the worst is over.

BONDS HAVE perked up a little. There was another decrease of $91,000,000 in brokers' loans last week.

Wheat closed the week with a modest net gain, but corn was easier. Cotton ended about where it began.

Certain other commodities did not fare equally well. Silver suffered another sharp drop. Copper was marked down to 10 cents, at which level renewed buying is reported. Rubber has fallen back three quarters of a cent. Hides are also lower. Coffee advanced briskly but sugar, following failure to agree upon the "Chadbourne plan" weakened. Butter dropped.

TRADE AND INDUSTRIAL news was distinctly mixed. November's foreign trade figures are quite disappointing. Railway traffic, although showing somewhat less unfavorable comparisons, does not yet reflect any appreciable quickening of business. Retail trade reports are not better than fair. The oil industry continues unsettled. Steel manufacturers apparently have their situation under better control.

PRESIDENT W. W. ATTERBURY, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, is held responsible by railway men for holding up the unconscionably protracted negotiations for resolving eastern roads into four big systems. He refuses, it is charged, to give up the Lehigh Valley, as ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission. President Hoover is extremely anxious for a speedy settlement, not only because of the effect upon sentiment, but because very extensive expenditures would be promptly released. It is hardly conceivable that the bickering will be much longer tolerated, in face of the urgent need for everyone in a position of responsibility doing everything within his power to restore employment and prosperity.

Rail Leaders to Hold Meeting Tomorrow

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

OFFICIALS OF THE four leading Eastern railroad trunk lines will meet again tomorrow to work out further details of the general consolidation plan which the carriers are expected to place before the Interstate Commerce Commission within a short time. It is generally understood that an agreement has been reached on the major problems which, until recently, made a merger agreement impossible.

The Eastern railroad consolidation involves so many intricate problems that the agreement, by which the principal systems in this territory will be allotted to either the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central, or Van Sweringen group, may not be entirely complete until a larger number of additional conferences have been held.

Most railroad men who have discussed the consolidation prospects since the resumption of conferences last week have been of the opinion that the Interstate Commerce Commission will not permit the carriers to block the formation of the Taplin trunk line to consist of the Wheeling and Lake Erie, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and Western Maryland.

No Fifth Trunk Line

IN THE COMMISSION'S merger plan the Taplin trunk line was made a part of a fifth Eastern system to include the Wabash and the Seaboard Air Line. The four major interests, which have been holding conferences, are working out an arrangement which leaves no place for such a fifth system. Obviously they must give the Taplin trunk line to one of these.

One possible solution, which their plan may include, would be the allotment of the Taplin line to the Van Sweringens. At present each of the three lines necessary to form this system from the Great Lakes through Pittsburgh to Baltimore is owned by a different company. Wheeling and Erie is owned by the Van Sweringens. Pittsburgh and West Virginia is controlled by the Pennroad Corporation. Western Maryland is dominated by Baltimore and Ohio.

To Make Concessions

UNDER THE COMMISSION'S merger plan, the Pennsylvania was to be given few advantages. In the four system plan there would be several benefits for this road. In return for these the Pennsylvania may be willing to give up its indirect control of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

It would also be necessary for the Baltimore and Ohio to sell its control of Western Maryland. For the Van Sweringens to be allowed to buy these two lines the commission would have to approve the general merger plan of the four Eastern railroad giants. That body would also have to abandon its own idea of a fifth trunk line.

Attitude in Doubt

THE ATTITUDE OF the Interstate Commerce Commission toward a four system plan as against its own five system plan is difficult to determine. It will undoubtedly pay more attention to a scheme which has the endorsement of the four principal interests in the Eastern territory than it would to the plan of a single line which would be contested by other lines. Unless the four system plan should be in direct opposition to the public interest, it would be difficult to see how the commission could find reasons for objecting.

Rail transportation is under such direct control that economies are more important considerations than competition. If merger arrangements can be made which will reduce wasteful duplication of operation without hurting the shippers, the commission will be likely to give its approval, in the opinion of most well informed railroad men.

COPPER MARKET FIRMING UP

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Some copper was sold this morning in the domestic market at 10c a pound delivered, but owing to the volume of foreign business, custom smelters are reluctant to sell and producers have been out of the market for some time.

Consumers have bid 10¼c for copper without getting any metal. Indications are that the price will be advanced this afternoon or Tuesday morning.

Connie Hears About Her Sister's Hard Job

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The day before her marriage to Jim Tracy, wealthy Connie Calvert learns through Duke Garson, underworld character, of the existence of a half-sister, Kitty, by her father's secret first marriage. Kitty, a produce of the slums, demands $100,000 for her silence. Connie, glad to have found her sister, offers to take her home. Kitty refuses. Connie is favorably impressed by Duke's magnetism. When Jim objects to her interest in Kitty, Connie breaks her engagement. She realizes Jim is mainly interested in her money and that she does not love him. Connie tells her mother about Kitty.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV.

Amazingly, Connie was able quickly to readjust herself to the fact that she was not going to marry Jim Tracy. Within 24 hours she was scarcely conscious that anything unusual had happened.

"It can't be that I am completely light-hearted and fickle," she said. "No, it's just that I woke up in time to realize my true self. Poor Jim! Well, I'll always be nice to him. I think the shock of finding Kitty shook him up mentally, and brought, somehow, a new idea of life to the surface. I don't believe Jim is really hurt, half as much as he makes believe."

Telephones Kitty

But there was a reaction that struck her mother, Mrs. Calvert, still struggling bravely to maintain her poise, went to bed suffering from nervousness and exhaustion.

"I'm not actually ill, Connie," she said. "My strength isn't quite what is used to be. I'll be all right in a day or so."

Connie was not seriously alarmed. Still, it was hard to fight off worrying, despite her mother's courageous words. A physician came and gave the patient a bromide, advising perfect quiet and rest. Discreetly, he made no reference to Connie's broken engagement as the cause of her mother's indisposition.

"No, no, there's nothing to worry about," he said, keenly professional. "Your mother appears frail, but she has inexhaustible vitality. A little rest and she'll be bright as a dollar."

This heartened Connie vastly. It was only the part of a process of readjustment.

Jim called up three or four times, and she talked to him briefly. Apparently, he realized the futility of trying to haggle and adopted a friendly, patient manner. Connie was tremendously grateful to him for not being insistent.

Her immediate necessity was to telephone Kitty, who seemed surprised at the sound of Connie's voice; but, when Connie told her of the abandoned wedding, mystification swept over Kitty.

"I thought sure you'd be up in Canada by this time," Connie heard her say. "I thought you were all steamed up over marrying the boy friend."

"I'll tell you about that later," Connie said. "When can I see you?"

"Anytime you like, I guess."

The day after tomorrow, Connie decided would be satisfactory. Before she introduced Kitty into her own home she wanted to have another talk with the girl; also she wanted her mother to get better. It was arranged that Connie would again drive down to the Tenth avenue restaurant.

Connie Puzzled

Now that she was getting used to the idea that she possessed Kitty as a sister and a responsibility, Connie began to speculate about the girl. In what sort of a place did she live; by what means did she get the money to supply her living? These things were not pleasant to think about; it was so easy to give way to suspicions. Kitty's face, Connie reflected, had, in repose, shown surly rebellion; considering her lack of home surroundings and restraint, it was possible to imagine anything. An exasperation of suspense piled up. Who was Duke Garson, and what did he mean in Kitty's life—if anything? Was it reasonably possible to hope that the girl could be, at her age, disassociated from her lifelong environment?

Nor did any clue to these mysteries came early when Connie sat opposite her again at a table in Joe's Place on Tenth avenue. Once more she tried to fathom Kitty by her external appearance. Beneath the line of her jet black hair the forehead was low and wide; her brows and lashes made the blue-violet eyes seem larger than they really were. It was a face that fell a little short of actual beauty. A trace of impishness was in the slight tilted nose; the mouth, with its occasional quirk at the corner, suggested vaguely a defiance of life and its conventions. In a crowd, Kitty would attract attention; her dress was inexpensive, but she achieved distinction; as for the rest—Connie could only guess.

So far, Connie felt that she had not won Kitty's confidence. Even when she told her how at the last minute she had realized that a marriage with Jim Tracy was a mistake, Kitty was not warmed to an exchange of intimacies. Connie had not told all the truth—and kept silent the fact that, virtually, they had quarreled about Kitty. Obscurely, Kitty sensed that her sister knew she was hearing half truths. The girl's face hadn't a vestige of cordiality, and Connie wondered if she were bored or merely polite in listening to this tale. It was difficult to keep up a feeling of sympathy for Kitty against the blank of her remoteness. Still, the facts would have to come out eventually.

Works in Laundry

"You probably have a pretty fair idea of what my life is like," Connie said, directly. "I know almost nothing about you—and I want to. Tell me, what do you do for a living?"

"Do you have to know?"

"Why not?"

Kitty laughed quietly.

"I'll spare your feelings," she said. "You wouldn't approve of some of the things I've done, I'm sure."

"Do you approve of them yourself?" Connie asked her, pleasantly.

"Oh, I've never worried—much. I suppose you are wondering if I am what people call a 'good' girl. I'll relieve your mind on that score—I am. That part of it is a miracle, I guess."

"Your friend, Mr. Garson, called this the underworld." Connie searched again. "He spoke of gyps, crooks. Have you been mixed up with them, Kitty?"

"Why, of course!" Kitty retorted. "Why, I know at least a dozen people in Sing Sing right now—know them by their first names. What of it?"

Connie returned her gaze steadily. If Kitty chose to be indifferent, the privilege was mutual.

"I suppose it's your affair exclusively if you like that sort of people best," she returned. "If there's anything you don't care to tell me about, I'm certainly not going to try to pump you."

Kitty made a derisive motion on the table, her nails long, pointed. Suddenly, by impulse, she thrust her hand across the table and turned her palm upward. At the base of her fingers—where Connie's palm was soft and pink—there was a row of hard callouses.

"Look at that hand—and don't get fresh with me about my habits!" Kitty said, rudely. "That ought to answer a lot of your questions. It's rough and horny like a man's. It got that way from handling a flatiron 10 hours a day in a hand laundry. Now go ahead and razz me about my friends if you want to."

DAILY TRUE STORY — A Nice Game

Mayme and Beth had each been graduated from that mythical yet none the less real College of Hard Knocks.

Each had stood at the marriage altar in New York and at the divorce bench in Reno, and they knew practically all of the answers to everything.

In the words of those fortunate enough to know them well they were "Darn nice girls."

Their friendship started where many a real friendship has first taken root, at a "Residence hotel" in Reno. They arrived on the same day from the same city, New York, and from the same street, West Ninety-seventh, and yet they were utter strangers.

Beth intended to try and reopen her little one-room hairdressing parlor.

They had smiled faintly at each other at the breakfast table for three mornings. On the fourth they met in the little park and got to chatting.

They were amused, but not amazed, to learn that they had come from the same street in the same city, and this led to a gradual exchange of confidences.

"I might pass out a line that I'm here getting data for a society novel, only I'm not—I'm after the old 'Liberty Bond'," Mayme confided.

Beth, who had a rather well developed sense of humor, got a laugh out of this.

Naturally, shortly after this, they became a bit more confidential.

"It was my luck to marry a phoney," Mayme said. "He was just like Christmas jewelry—he looked swell but he didn't wear until spring. My trouble was another woman."

"I can ante and raise, you there, my dear," Beth confided. "My trouble was a lot of other women!"

Before it came time for them to spend five minutes with a lawyer and a judge, Mayme and Beth knew all about each other because they each happened to have been straight, normal girls, with nothing to be ashamed of except their inability to pick the real goods in the husband line.

Granted Divorces

"The way it looks now," Beth said, "when we hit silly old Gotham town again your capital will consist of an expert knowledge of manicuring and about $300, and my assets will be some clever tricks at making a frowsy-headed woman look neat and just under 300 in money. I got a great hunch, Mayme."

"Sure, I know. I got the same hunch—it's nix on wedding bells again!"

"That's no hunch, dearie, that's plain gospel. I have a hunch that if we took a modest little room some quiet place, we could open up a beauty parlor somewhere in the Frisky Fifties and keep the wolf out of even howling distance of our door without the slightest aid from any males on earth between the ages of one and one hundred."

"Beth—it's a go!"

And it was. They got their decrees within 24 hours of each other and went back to the big town together. An elderly acquaintance of Mayme, who came through on the same train from Chicago with them, gave her the address of a rooming house.

"It's so homey," she said, "and Mrs. Platz doesn't have any men there at all."

They went to see Mrs. Platz, secured a cheerful second floor front room and got busy with their beauty parlor. They called it the "Maybeth."

Mrs. Turner occupied the second floor rear, north side. There were four rooms to a floor, Mayme and Beth liked old Mrs. Turner from the start.

They liked her because, out of all the women there, she was the only one who never insisted on telling in great detail of her former riches and social position. To hear the others tell it, one might believe—merely at first—that all of these middle-aged women posing as young and all the elderly ones posing as middle-aged, had once dwelt in marble halls with an array of servants at their beck and call, as per the song.

That is, all except Mrs. Turner.

"You can't tell me," Mrs. Warner said, "that they can get an honest living with a tiny little so-called beauty parlor in that awful district."

Women Agree

Some of the others agreed. Mrs. Platz said nothing. Mayme and Beth brought no men there and they paid promptly. No further references needed.

"They are lovely girls," she said, "and they work hard and honestly. Girls as pretty as they are could—they need not work like that," she finished, flushing a little.

"Beauty parlors," old Miss Meserve said, acidly, "cover a multitude of ungodly carryings-ons."

Old Miss Meserve had a cast in one eye and a visible mustache. She wore a transformation that was never in place and her tongue seemed to possess a permanent coating of bitter acid.

Mrs. Turner had brought down a backgammon board, as she had done times without number.

She wasn't at all disturbed over the angry snort from Miss Meserve. As usual, she asked if anyone would play backgammon with her.

"It is a nice game, really," she said.

"Backgammon! It's as old as the hills," Mrs. Warner cried.

"It was away before my time," Miss Meserve added, "but of course you would like your old games best."

"Mother taught me to play when I was 10; that was 44 years ago," Mrs. Turner said, gently.

Meanwhile Mrs. Turner seemed to lose a little of her cheerfulness. It seemed as though she had been crying now and then.

The girls spoke of it.

"And she's getting downright shabby. Do you suppose her income has stopped?" Beth asked.

More and more talk about backgammon came to the ears of the girls. Their patrons raved over it, it was the swellest thing, to know the game. One of their patrons brought in a cheap leather board she had paid $20 for. She tried to teach Mayme and Beth, but they couldn't understand it.

That night Mrs. Turner had plainly been crying. Beth made her come across to their room and bring her backgammon board. They had come to tea and cakes, the tea nice and hot on their electric plate. Mrs. Turner loved hot tea.

"I brought my best board—one my grandfather brought from England when he was a sea captain," Mrs. Turner said.

She was there three hours, enjoyed her tea and when she went back Mayme and Beth knew the game better than most people know it after 10 lessons.

At their beauty parlor next day, they learned that the envelope-addressing chap in the room back of their place had moved out.

"Another hunch," Mayme said. "Let's lease it, fix it up and advertise to teach backgammon—we'll hire Mrs. Turner to teach it and we'll charge plenty—if we don't charge plenty no one will notice us."

"I'm game!"

They fitted up the little room, portable gas fireplace, braided rugs, colonial "reproductions" and all. And they advertised in the very ritziest publications.

Business Successful

Mrs. Turner hesitated, then put on her only good dress, a black silk, and went with the girls. She took both backgammon boards. The girls had already one pupil, young Mrs. Haverly from the Avenue. She raved over Mrs. Turner's backgammon board and offered 500 for it.

Oh, no, it's not for sale. Mrs. Turner uses it, and it was really a gift to her grandmother from Queen Victoria," Beth said glibly. Mayme talked rapidly and loudly as poor Mrs. Turner started to correct them.

Within two months they had to take another room and engage assistants. And Mr. Langhorne, of "the Street," took Mrs. Turner's holdings and changed them to something more solid.

They were getting ready to move into a nice little apartment, the three of them.

"Won't you teach us to play backgammon?" Mrs. Warner begged.

"Sorry, but she is tired, and besides, she gets $20 a lesson and gives four lessons a day—really," Mayme said, coldly, "you will have to get some other teacher."

"And you ought to learn it," Beth put in, "for it is a nice game!"

Dainty Dress With Bloomers
Pattern 1945
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS.

There's something unusually appealing about this simple little model for a dainty little miss. Perhaps it is the clever styling of the cape collar, or it may be the addition of the narrow ruffling around collar and pocket. Whatever it is, your small girl will adore it, and it is very easy to make, too.

Pattern 1945 is most attractive made of dimity, voile, crepe de chine or lawn. A white or pastel ground printed with small colorful posies, might be trimmed with ruffling of the same fabric, with ribbon, or with dainty lace.

May be obtained only in sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 4 requires 2⅝ yards of 36-inch material.

AUNT BELLA'S HOT YULETIDE SUGGESTIONS

By AUNT BELLA

A little lady from far off La Belle France writes me to ask what is a good idear as a giftie which will constantly remind the receiver of the donor's personality with a capital P.

Well, I think nothing is nicer than some novelty made by the hands of the giver. And here is a suggestion, dearie, which never fails to make good in a great big way. It is what Aunt Bella calls a Colossal Idea! I just take one of my old slippers that ain't no good if it is throwed out or don't fit, and thus causes the wearer a lot of pain and grief. As I say, I take one of my old slippers, and then I duck into a good Five and Ten store and get me a bottle of Lily Gilt, which can be applied with brush (I use my tooth brush, taking care to wash it out carefully afterwards in gasoline or what have you). I then gilt (or some say gild, either, pronounced "either," is correct). I then take some red plush and a little excelsior or old sawdust, which can be easily picked up offen some butcher shoppe floor, and I make one of those fancy slipper pin cushions, which is ornamental on the dresser and comes in handy I can assure you. The cost is small, but what's more important, believe me, is the personality touch, particularly if you are givin' one of the shoes off your own feet. Next question, please.

Reed Deserves Thanks

Upheld Best Senatorial Traditions of Pennsylvania in Placing America's Needs Before Those of Other Countries.

For his leadership in the patriotic service which the Committee on Foreign Relations performed when it postponed until December, 1931, action upon the League Court treaties, Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, is entitled to a public vote of thanks.

It was in response to his appeal not to jeopardize at the short session domestic legislation vital to the public welfare that the committee by a vote of 10 to 9 sidetracked the League Court treaties for a year.

In insisting that the committee, as the agent of the Senate, set an example to the Senate by placing the domestic needs of the American people above the needs of those who would have the nation mind everybody's business but our own, Senator Reed was upholding the best senatorial traditions of his state.

Eleven years ago the late Philander C. Knox, then a senator from Pennsylvania, took the same stand when the League of Nations treaty first came before the Senate.

Senator Knox put America first then just as Senator Reed has done now.

And no higher compliment can be paid to Mr. Reed than to say that in the field of foreign policy he seems to be following in the footsteps of his illustrious predecessor.

Under the leadership of Senator Reed, the Committee on Foreign Relations, by postponing action upon the League Court treaties, has not only saved the annual appropriation bills necessary to support the government from probable failure at the short session, but has also quickened the enactment of emergency legislation urgently needed to relieve unemployment, restore confidence, revive busines, and thereby hasten the return of normal prosperity.

Every one of the 10 members of the committee who voted to sidetrack the League Court treaties for a year is entitled to national commendation beginning with Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, who, upon his own responsibility, offered the motion that prevailed.

"Men and friends change," said Grover Cleveland, "but principles never!"

Under the leadership of Senator Reed, the Committee on Foreign Relations had made a timely application of the unchanging principle that with the American people America is always first.

Practical Civics

Public Schools' New Plan for Teaching the Duties of Citizenship Has Interesting Possibilities.

Probably nothing taught in the higher grades of the schools is of greater importance than the inculcation of good citizenship. The new plan for teaching the duties of citizenship is, therefore, of considerable public interest.

At the suggestion of the Committee for Education in Citizenship, Pittsburgh's public and parochial schools have arranged to teach civics in an exceedingly practical manner. The school is to be, for purposes of the study, the state, the rooms political sub-divisions, and the pupils citizens.

Voting, serving in the legislative bodies, and officiating in other branches of the public service, the children will be given practical experience in civic affairs which not only should stand them in good stead when they reach voting age, but should prove of vast benefit to the real state and the real city.

Supplemented by the other measures taken by the committee to improve the quality of Pittsburgh's citizenship, this innovation in the schools promises to improve the tone of our politics and make the city a better place in which to live.

The Thing That Rankles

Philadelphia Council Calls Attention to Discrimination In Blue Law Enforcement.

The Philadelphia City Council, with which the Pittsburgh Council has been co-operating in a campaign for repeal or modification of the Blue Law, calls attention, in a report on the matter, to one of the most disturbing features.

The statute, enacted in 1794, would be harmful enough if applied equally to all classes of the people. But its harmfulness is immeasurably increased by the unjust manner in which it is enforced.

The well-to-do may play golf and tennis at their country clubs on Sunday with impunity. Let those who cannot afford such pastimes play ball in the city and they will be arrested.

That is but one of many examples that could be cited.

The language of the Philadelphia report is none too strong.

Pennsylvania Iron Ore

There Is Satisfaction in the Knowledge That Our Resources Are Far from Exhausted.

Pittsburgh's steel mills have drawn their iron ore for so many years from the lake states, especially Minnesota, that some of us no doubt have lost sight of the fact that it was the presence of iron ore in Pennsylvania, no less than of coal, that gave the city, in the early days, the industry for which it is famous.

We are reminded of the state's iron ore resources in a bulletin issued today by the Bureau of the Census, which reports that Pennsylvania produced 1,093,133 tons of the material last year.

Of course, that is considerably less than the production of Minnesota—46,815,207 tons—and is but a minor fraction of the outputs of Michigan and Alabama.

A million tons, nevertheless, is a sizable pile of iron ore, and there is satisfaction in the thought that our resources of this important material are still far from exhausted.

9—Electrification of railroads.

The Absent One

The Family Wishes He Could Come Home for Christmas

By T. E. Powers

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Real Christmas Spirit

Christmas is one time of the year when it is better—and a lot EASIER—to give than to receive.

Everybody enjoys playing Santa Claus! Everybody feels a glow of self-satisfaction in playing Lord or Lady Bountiful: in giving gifts and surprises to other people.

down completely, is the spirit of RECEIVING. When it comes to accepting a gift, most people are as awkward and inarticulate as a small boy who has been caught making faces behind Teacher's back.

Women worry themselves into a fever, wondering what other women will give them; and wear themselves to shreds rushing through the shops, in search of "return-gifts," which will "make things even."

* * *

It's this "I'll-give-what-I-expect-to-get" spirit which breaks the pocketbooks of husbands, and takes all the real joy and heart out of Christmas.

* * *

In this world, it is impossible to give what you get. NOBODY is "square" with anybody else. Everybody is under obligations to somebody else. EVERYBODY has reason to feel grateful to somebody!

But GRATITUDE is the one emotion that human nature finds it hardest to feel and to endure. Our souls are too small to hold the big, beautiful, generous glow of gratitude! We simply MUST "get even," somehow, for the sake of our vanity and our superiority complex, and what we fondly term our "self-respect."

So, we wreck our nerves, our husbands and our beautiful holiday, by careening around on aching feet, for weeks before Christmas, in order to give somebody something she detests in return for something we don't want.

Why not cultivate the art of receiving gracefully? There is nothing that you can give in return for a gift, which will warm the heart and stir the pulse of the giver, so much as spontaneous and hearty appreciation—a show of real joy and delight—a gesture of gratefulness. It flatters his taste, peps up his ego, makes him feel pleased with himself, and fills him with the Santa Claus spirit.

Half of the Christmas spirit is gracious and whole-hearted GIVING. The other half is graceful and enthusiastic RECEIVING.

"The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." But, oh, how the average "giver" DOES love a cheerful and whole-hearted RECIPIENT!

The rarest and most wonderful thing that you can GIVE ANYBODY is a little honest GRATITUDE—a chance to feel like Santa Claus!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Lay late and talked over the phone to Winnie Sheehan, in town from Hollywood, and he tells me Will Rogers has become foremost of the talkie stars. And yet his success as a silent screen comedian was not so conspicuous, the lucky stiff.

So to a breakfast of chitlins sent from North Carolina and a he-gossip fluttered in with tales of a great novelist and his sundry amours which interested me not at all, my fancy at the moment being solely chitlins. Then fashion a piece for a movie magazine.

Vincent Lopez, the band man, to dinner and happy to wear a business suit, the most of his evenings being spent in starched shirts and what Park Avenue calls "tails." And the late Will Hogg's Homer cooking a chili so fiery that we broke into a heavy sweat. So all night gulping ice water.

Around Seventh and Eighth Avenues, below the Pennsylvania terminal, is the fur district, perhaps the most concentrated business in New York. In this area, between Twenty-seventh and Twenth-eighth street, are 2,000 firms—dealers, dyers, manufacturers. Next to Liepzig, New York is the world's biggest fur center.

A fur dealer is often the shrewdest of traders. Many are scrupulously honest but many more are rascals. There is no business where gullible are so easily taken into camp. Furs, costing $25, can be flossed up to fool any layman. Every fur can be expertly counterfeited. It is a good advice for fur buyers always to patronize the reputable establishment.

The oldest fur trick still flourishes on shadowy streets after nightfall. Men in overalls stand in doorways of wholesale districts, posing as truckmen. They furtively reveal a fur, intimating it was stolen. Take it quickly for $15! It can be bought wholesale for $2. Such salesmen often average $200 a week profits.

High in buildings in the fur-district are swanky show rooms suggesting the elegance of the salons of Paris. Pirouetting models, swathed in the wealth of the Arctic, strut and swirl before plump Middlewest buyers. I saw one tired mannikin, enjoying the temporary luxury of a sable coat, priced at just 1,000 times her weekly wage. Not in this decade have furs suffered such slashing reductions as this winter.

In smaller shops, windows and show cases are mountainous high with raw and finished skins. Walls are hung with pelts from far flung corners of the globe. Sables from Siberia, chinchillas from Bolivia, caraculs from India and red foxes from Labrador. Bespectacled gentlemen barter and trade, running nimble and appraising fingers through Canadian martens, short strip skunks, etc. Their fingers are attuned to the "feel"— they recognize fur values by touch.

Following a tramp through the fur district I opened the door of a taxi awaiting a shift of lights. In the corner was a codger in pajamas, heavy bathrobe and with silk hat askew, slumping in sound slumber. "The old bird is sleeping off a lulu," explained the driver, and shot away. New York!

An important magazine nearly reached the presses with the best description of the year. In referring to one of those omnipresent society crashers—the kind seen everywhere, but who cannot make the grade—he was called: "The 400's One-Eye Connelly."

* * *

From F. T. E., Chicago: "I read your column the other morning under a New York dateline and 20 minutes later I saw you on Michigan boulevard, pearl hat and all. How come?"

THE AMAZING JOHN ERICSSON

By Archibald Henderson

John Ericsson will always be remembered for building the famous armored vessel, the Monitor. The spectacular drawn battle between the Monitor and the formidable Confederate steamship Merrimac made Ericsson world-famous. The contest, staged during the stirring days of the war between the states, inaugurated a new era in naval construction. To this day naval architecture feels the effects of the introduction of armor for war vessels of all sorts. But this invention, which must be shared with the makers of the Merrimac, also an armor-plated vessel, was only one of almost innumerable inventions made by Ericsson.

There can be no doubt that John Ericsson was an inventive genius of extraordinary skill and ingenuity. He was born at Langbansbytton, Vermland, Sweden, on July 31, 1803. He was the son of an inspector of mines, and as a lad became so interested in the work of the mines that at the age of 10 he actually succeeded in designing a pump for draining mines of water—which he made from a verbal description of a windmill pump already in existence elsewhere. At the age of 12 he was generally regarded as "the wonder of the district," and was actually engaged as draughtsman by the Swedish Canal Company. Entering the Swedish army as a private, he soon rose to the captaincy, largely due to his proficiency in drawing and mapmaking.

Following his retirement from the army in 1827, after service as officer of engineers, he went to England and busied himself with inventions, largely concerned with steam machinery. By his inventive skill he succeeded in effecting notable improvements in marine engines. The ship which carried the explorer, Sir John Ross, to the Arctic regions in 1829 was equipped with engines built on the Ericsson plan.

During this same year occurred the famous contest at Rainhill, England, for the best locomotive, which would successfully meet certain rigid tests. A prize of £500 was offered by the directors of the London and Manchester Railway. Ericsson had associated himself with John Braithwaite, the engineer, and they entered, in the contest, a locomotive of their own manufacture, The Novelty. Among the three other entries was the famous Rocket, constructed by George and Robert Stephenson.

We read in "The Book of Popular Science": The Novelty weighed only a little over three tons, considerably less than the Rocket. Before the trial Ericsson's engine was first favorite, and on its trial trip it ran, at times, at 24 miles an hour, in place of the 10 miles demanded by the conditions. But it was less carefully thought out than its English rival. Stephenson's engine had the steam blast; Ericsson's had air forced by bellows through the fire, and these bellows, together with burst steampipes, were its undoing. The Rocket proved incomparably the better engine, and when the prize had already been won, traveled at the rate of 35 miles per hour.

In the following year, Ericsson and Braithwaite invented and manufactured the first steam fire-engine. One of the most important and revolutionary of Ericsson's achievements was the invention of the screw propeller for use on ships. Through the wise insight of the American consul at Liverpool, Ericsson was supplied with funds to build a small ocean steamer, embodying his new invention; and this steamer later crossed the Atlantic. Ericsson removed to this country in 1830 and built for the American government the first steam war vessel to have her machinery below the water line and to use the screw propeller. Ericsson made many ingenious inventions; and during the latter part of his career was concerned with shipbuilding as well as with mechanical invention. A monument to Ericsson, who died March 8, 1889, stands in Battery Park, New York.

Schopenhauer, Socrates,
Plato, Maeterlinck;
These and others like to these
Teaching men to think...
Rank on rank upon the shelves
Waits Earth's wisdom here,
Offering sages' nobler selves
For my strength and cheer.
Yet my eager thoughts today,
Truant children, rove
To the forests far away,
To the hills I love.

Epictetus, Tolstoy, Pope,
Shakespeare and the rest,
These await with peace and hope
Every seeker's quest;
But today I cannot share
Poets' lore or saints'...
Tell me, are the fields as fair
As my fancy paints?

Text For Today

There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked.—Isaiah lviii:21.

Wonderful Actinic Rays

All School Children Should Have Them, in Winter.

A GARDEN IN A CELLAR, ARTIFICIAL SUNLIGHT.

In this cellar, deep under ground, Viscount and Viscountess Fitzalan have a wonderful flower garden. You see here some of the lilies, grown below the ground, in a cellar, with only ARTIFICIAL sunlight to give life and beauty to the blossoms.

King George and Queen Mary went down to see this wonderful cellar garden. Well they might.

Everybody interested in school children and in the health of the human race generally should be interested in this garden that never sees the light of day.

The lilies, strong and beautiful, grow with all their natural color, getting from artificial sunlight the same strength that they would get from the real sun if grown above ground.

There could be no greater proof of the importance of using artificial sunlight in schools and homes, in winter time when the days are short and the sun sends its actinic rays weakly to the earth.

Children that cannot be taken to Florida, California, the Gulf Coast or elsewhere, where sunlight would enable them to grow all winter long, can be greatly helped by this artificial sunlight.

There has been developed by the General Electric Company a "Sun Ray Lamp" that reproduces faithfully the light of the mid-summer sun. It is not necessary to wear goggles or to limit exposure to this sunlight to a few minutes, as is the case of some other actinic ray lamps.

General Electric scientists have rendered a public service in developing this lamp. It can, however, be used only with the alternating current; not with the direct current, which prevails in homes in big cities, as a rule.

Middle-aged men that can provide the necessary alternating current should have one of these lamps in the bathroom or other room in which they dress and shave.

The lamp supplies heat as well as health-giving rays. Standing stripped to the waist or, better still, completely undressed, exposed to these rays for 15 minutes night and morning, is of the greatest benefit, to adults as well as to children.

Such lamps should be in the public schools, especially in hospitals for children. School authorities might well consider having these lamps turned on in the dark hours of the afternoon. They supply an admirable reading light, and undoubtedly the Edison company would arrange to supply alternating current to schools demanding it.

To science nothing is impossible these days. And one of the greatest blessings of science is a supply of artificial sunlight.

The King of England when he saw this light causing the lilies to grow, saw also the power that made it possible for him to win the first important horse race that he had won in years.

He had been unlucky in racing, and it is desirable for the King to hold the respect of his sporting subjects by winning a good race occasionally.

He was told that if he would have his best race horse treated with these ultra-violet rays throughout the winter the horse would be much more powerful in the spring.

The idea was carried out, the horse was treated with the actinic rays regularly throughout the winter, while trainers and stablemen sneered at the foolish idea. Then he won an important race, the first that the King had won in several years.

If these rays can do so much good to a race horse, consider how much good they would do to delicate children—rickety, tubercular or lacking in strength for any reason.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I'm writing this on the day of the Big Football Game. For weeks people have talked of nothing else. Business is practically at a standstill. Every road leading out of the city is jammed. Every car wears the color of the colleges. And a few miles away thousands of human beings are yelling themselves hoarse, waving their arms, tearing at each other's clothes and acting like lunatics. For it's the Big Game—THE BIG GAME! And the Big Game's the supreme moment of the year.

Yet here I sit. I could have gone to the Big Game. But I didn't want to go. I don't care for football. The most sensational conflict leaves me cold. Worse yet, it actually bores and disgusts me. The whole affair seems to me to be absurdly infantile. Something we should have left behind us with high school days. And I honestly believe that this craze for football is lowering the standards of our universities and retarding the development of our students.

And yet, if you should tell any one of those yelling humans that I feel that way, they'd say it was IMPOSSIBLE.

"Nobody but a nut would feel that way," they'd say. "She can't mean it. She's just trying to be different. Or maybe she's peeved about something. But whatever it is, she isn't telling the truth. NO ONE CAN HELP LIKING FOOTBALL. It's the greatest game on earth!"

That's what they'd say, and to me, it seems the crassest intolerance. How dare they say I'm nutty because I don't like football? What's there to football, anyway, that's worth an adult's time? Rolling around in the dirt—acting like an idiot over a bouncing ball—yet if I don't get excited over that, I'm considered queer! That's intolerance for you! I'm glad I've a broader view of things. Thank heaven I'm not intolerant!

That's what they'd say and that's what I'd answer. And yet—

Suppose someone said to me that they didn't like gardening. That they thought it was goofy to go grubbing around in the dirt, mooning over roses and rhododendrons. Pretty enough, perhaps, but why should any serious adult spend his time fussing over a bunch of sticks and leaves?

Suppose someone said that to me—what would I answer?

Why, I'd say it was IMPOSSIBLE.

"They aren't telling the truth." I'd say. "They can't mean it. They're just talking smart. Why, they can't help liking gardening. Everyone who's worth while likes gardening. It's plain nutty not to like it. It's the greatest fun on earth. Personally I'd have grave doubts about the character of anyone who didn't like to garden. There's something wrong about a person like that."

That's what they'd say and that's what I'd answer.

Intolerance—it's a queer thing, isn't it. So easy to see in the other fellow. But, oddly enough, one never finds it in oneself!
